NO. 14

Mayor Augments Hot Lunch Program

Mayor Kevin White said on March 27 that the city is adding two schools a week to the hot lunch program, while moving ahead with plans to include all of the city's 199 schools in the program.

The Mayor visited two elementary schools where the program recently was inaugurated, the Phillips Brooks School in Dorchester and the Ralph Waldo Emerson School in Roxbury.

Seventy-five percent of the program's cost is paid for by the federal government. Cost of the lunches to the children ranges from free to 30 cents, depending upon the income of the child's family.

In addition to the nutritional benefits of the program, Mayor White said, school officials report that attendance in low-income areas has improved with the program's inauguration.

Several governmental agencies are participating in the development of the expanded school lunch program, including the city's Public Facilities Department, School Department, state Department of Education, the Mayor's Office, and Action for Boston Community Development.

When completed this fall, a central kitchen, now under construction in Dorchester, will be capable of producing 40,000 lunches a day that will be distributed to schools throughout the city. Costing an estimated $1.7 million, the central kitchen will be a fully integrated food processing plant, among the most modern in the country, according to Mayor White.

Each of the schools receiving lunches from the central kitchen will have a refrigerator and oven for on-site preparation. Some of the schools, such as the Emerson and the Brooks, are presently so equipped and will continue to serve prepackaged meals purchased from prepared food manufacturers until the central kitchen is in operation.

According to Recreation Director, Bob Cusick, last year approximately three thousand games were played with over two hundred and sixty teams (with about 4,500 players) competing in twenty-five leagues city-wide, in evening tilts. The success of these Park Leagues has been built on an organization of fair play and service. Membership in Park League ball insures all teams of the highest standards of officiating and league administration. Playing fields are reserved for all leagues and umpires have been assigned.

PWD SCORES UNLICENSED REFUSE COLLECTORS

Public Works Commissioner Joseph F. Casazza on March 28 announced a stepped-up attack on private refuse collectors who operate illegally by failing to obtain necessary permits.

Mr. Casazza said that unlicensed refuse collectors, who are not permitted use of the city's dumping facilities, are mainly responsible for refuse left in vacant lots and open areas throughout the city.

Also, he said, the unlicensed haulers take less care in transporting refuse through the city, often-times in open-top trucks, with the result that refuse spills from the truck and is left on the street.

"This is a good beginning in our efforts to keep our city clean," the commissioner said. "Too often we spend days cleaning refuse from a vacant lot, only to return the following day to find it littered again.

"The use of improper vehicles by unlicensed collectors also contributes greatly to the problem of litter in the streets," he said.

In addition to the cooperation of the Police Department, the commissioner said inspectors from his department will be on the streets looking for unlicensed refuse collectors. Complaints against violators will be filed in the District Court.

Permits are available from the Public Works Department for a $25 fee. Authorized vehicles carry a large yellow rectangular decal, which bears the city seal, permit number, and sections of the city where the truck is allowed to operate.

SOFTBALL REGISTRATIONS AVAILABLE

Registrations are now available for the 1972 Boston Parks and Recreation Association of Softball Leagues. Applications and any additional information may be obtained at all Hub Recreation Centers or by contacting League Director, Larry Curran at Recreation Headquarters at 524-6400.

This year will mark the thirty-eighth season of competition with all leagues opening on the first week of May with registration closing on April 15.

"T" RESUMES SENIOR CITIZEN REGISTRATION

MBTA General Manager Joseph C. Kelly announced today that the second in a series of one-day regional registration programs for senior citizens' reduced fare identification cards will begin throughout the seventy-nine city and town MBTA district in one month. A tour of forty-one communities during September and October of 1971, the first such visit in more than two years, registered nearly 10,000 new senior citizens.

"Despite the fact that the MBTA downtown registration office at Government Center Station registers a steady one hundred applicants a day, the response to our visits last fall indicates that this second swing around the district will provide a needed service to senior citizens making it easier to obtain their identification cards near home," Mr. Kelly stated.

A special four-man registration team will visit forty-one locations in the MBTA district in April and May of this year and the Authority will shortly announce the exact dates, locations, and hours of these visits.

Mr. Kelly stressed that "the regular senior citizen registration office at the MBTA Government Center Station will be open as usual during the field visits with the hours 9 A.M. to 3:30 P.M., Monday through Friday."

Chapter 574 of the Acts of 1969, which became law on August 15, 1969, states that persons sixty-five years of age or older who reside in a city or town within the MBTA district may, upon obtaining an identification card from the Authority, ride any and all of the MBTA lines at "one half the adult cash fare adjusted to the next lowest five-cent increment."

For example, a surface bus ride costing 20 cents would cost the senior citizen 10 cents and a 25-cent rapid transit ride would also cost the senior citizen 10 cents. These reduced fares apply only to MBTA lines and not to the bus companies and railroad commuter trains subsidized by the Authority.

To be eligible for the identification cards, which contain the name and address of the holder and a color photograph for positive identification, senior citizens must bring proof of age such as a Medicare card, birth certificate, baptismal record, or driver's license; proof of residency in one of the seventy-nine communities in the MBTA district such as a driver's license, library card, or charge plate; and a 50-cent cash fee.

The regional registrations will take place from April 18 to May 23, Monday through Friday only, with the registration hours 9 A.M. to 11:30 A.M. and 1:30 P.M. to 4 P.M.

REGISTRY OFFICE RELOCATED

Registrar of Motor Vehicles David J. Lucey has announced the formal opening on March 22 of the new Fall River District Office at a new location. The new office is located at 1658 President Avenue.

The Fall River District Office, located on Franklin Street for thirty-five years, was outmoded and inadequate to properly serve the motoring public, and it lacked parking facilities.

Registrar Lucey says that he is proud of the new quarters which will afford an opportunity for better service to Registry customers and better living conditions for Registry employees.

WASHINGTON MALL AREA IMPROVEMENT

The Boston Redevelopment Authority on March 16, awarded a $1.4 million contract to the D. Federico Company, Inc., to complete paving of the City Hall Plaza's Washington Mall area.

The area runs from City Hall out to State Street, across from the Old State House, and is flanked on either side by the New England Merchants Bank building and One Washington Mall. A rear portion extends to New Congress Street.

At the same time it was announced that a fountain, similar to the type installed near the John F. Kennedy Federal Office Building, will be constructed in the Washington Mall area by Cabot, Cabot & Forbes and Spaulding and Slye, developers of the New England Merchants Bank building and One Washington Mall, respectively.

In addition to paying for the installation costs, the two development firms have agreed to underwrite maintenance costs for the fountain and planters.

The area will be covered with the same type of brick used for parts of City Hall Plaza completed in the last two years.

Portions of the area will be an underground access from New Congress Street to the rear of the New England Merchants Bank building and One Washington Mall.

BRA ANNOUNCEMENT

The Boston Redevelopment Authority recently announced formation of a Planning Group and Development Team, made up of representatives from private interests and public agencies, to undertake a coordinated planning effort for the Fort Point Channel and South Station areas of the city.

Robert T. Kenney, director of the BRA, said that an analysis of those areas, and some of the changes proposed, have clearly indicated a need for a broad-based planning approach to prevent chaotic development in that part of the city.

Mr. Kenney said that the Planning Group will consist of representatives from the BRA, the city's Economic Development and Industrial Corporation, the Boston Transportation Planning Review, the MBTA, and individuals from the following firms: Jung-Brannen Associates, Inc., architects; Wurster, Bernardi and Emmons, architects; and Charles T. Main, Inc., engineers. The three firms are involved in planning developments for private landowners in the Fort Point Channel area.

Primary purpose of the Planning Group is to coordinate an overall planning effort for the area.

The Development Team, which will be responsible for overseeing the planning efforts, will include Mr. Kenney, Gerald Bush, new director of the Economic Development and Industrial Corporation, and representatives from major property owners in the area: Town and City Properties, Ltd., Gillette Company, Anthony Athanas, the Massachusetts Port Authority, the United States Navy, and the Penn Central Railroad.

P. O. SPECIAL ANNOUNCEMENT

Sales promotions and contests that ask people to mail items which could cause injury to United States postal workers are now banned by law.

The Postal Service says that in the past sales promotion techniques frequently resulted in the mailing of envelopes that contained "under-packaged" metal and plastic articles.

Those articles — such as bottle caps, jar tops, can lids, and metal package opening strips — can injure postal employees as well as damage mail processing equipment.

A Postal Service official told a Congressional hearing that such articles were actually being projected with considerable force by high-speed mail sorting machines. Employees were also subject to injury when they reached into collection boxes to remove mail that contained sharp metal objects.

The United States Criminal Code has long barred from the mails any article that may kill or injure persons, or damage mail or property. The new law strengthens this bar by adding a section that reads:

"Any advertising, promotional, or sales matter which solicits or induces the mailing of anything declared nonmailable by this section is likewise nonmailable unless such matter contains wrapping or packaging instructions which are in accord with regulations promulgated by the Postal Service."

The law prescribes a fine of up to $1,000 and imprisonment for up to one year for each violation.

MBTA STUDY

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority on March 15 approved the execution of a $35,000 contract with the Boston engineering firm of Vollmer Associates to determine the feasibility of constructing a transit facility between the MBTA Red Line (Cambridge-Dorchester) and the new University of Massachusetts campus at Columbia Point.

The study, expected to take nine to twelve months, is one facet of a technical study funded by a $1.6 million grant from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration of the United States Department of Transportation.

During the course of the study a number of alternate systems will be evaluated including bus, conventional light rail, rapid transit, and a variety of systems which have recently become operative or which are under development, designed to service major activity centers such as the University of Massachusetts campus.

This study will provide the MBTA with a summary of feasible alternative transit solutions, a plan and profile of the route, a timetable for design and installation, and estimated capital, operational, and maintenance costs.

The Columbia Point campus is expected to admit students in September of 1973 and the transit link will be designed in cooperation with the University of Massachusetts for an initial capacity of approximately 7,100 passengers per peak hour to or from the campus.

FLOOD INSURANCE PROGRAM EXTENDED

The National Flood Insurance Program has been expanded to include almost all types of properties, the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development announced. Effective March 1, the expanded program will insure all apartment buildings, business structures, agricultural, religious, and nonprofit buildings, and those owned by state or local agencies. Previously, federal flood insurance was available on 1- to 4-family structures and small businesses. Federally subsidized flood insurance can now be bought from any licensed property insurance agent in any of the 1,033 areas located in the forty-nine states now eligible for the sale of insurance.

GIRLS, AGES 8 TO 12, TAKE NOTE

Boston Parks and Recreation Commissioner Joseph E. Curtis announces the opening of a new 12-week course in gymnastics and dance for girls 8 to 12 years of age at the Hyde Park Recreation Center Gymnasium. This new program involving instruction in Olympic-type gymnastics, including trampoline, balance beam, tumbling, and the graceful floor exercise routines will be given by two expert instructors associated with the popular "Kathy Corrigan Schools of Gymnastics and Dance." Mrs. Muriel Corrigan and Miss June Zagol were both members of Bridgewater State's undefeated gymnastic team, both coach gymnastics in high schools, and participate in the New England A.A.U. Gymnastic Competition.

TOWING REVISION URGED

Statement of Mayor Kevin H. White.

Published disclosures of alleged overcharging and vandalism associated with towing in Boston points up the need for a change in procedures and for closer police surveillance of towing operations.

Corporation Counsel Herbert P. Gleason has been drafting for several weeks an invitation to towing contractors to submit proposals for towing in the city. This advertisement will be published as required by law in the City Record within one week.

New towing contracts will be assigned by the Police Commissioner according to each applicant's willingness to live up to performance standards set by the city. Contractors will be judged not only by the amount of equipment they have in operation and the nature and extent of their storage facilities, but most importantly, by the applicant's willingness to reimburse automobile owners for any damages incurred on private vehicles, and to write this agreement into the contract.

By writing these performance standards into a formal contract, all towing operators will be obliged to adhere to a strict code of conduct or else forfeit their right to tow in the city.

It is important for the public to keep in mind that these contracts would not allow for competitive bidding on fees charged to owners of private cars. These fees are set by the state and are not subject to control by the city. The city can and will, however, insist on specifically defined standards of performance which will be inherent in the contract negotiated with the city, and these criteria will be strictly enforced by the Boston Police.

III. PLANNING AND LOGISTICS DIVISION

The Planning and Logistics Division is being established in the Boston Fire Department for the purpose of better informing our department personnel about the unusual areas or complexes in our city that could hinder our operations at time of fire.

In order to have an efficient department we must keep informed about all areas of the city, and this is the intention of this new division. This division will work in conjunction with the deputy and district fire chiefs in formulating a program that will have for its purpose more efficient operations. Suggestions from any member of this department, that are intended to produce efficiency and reflect credit on the department, will be accepted and appraised.

In following the above policy, the following program is being initiated in the department:

Each district fire chief in each district must survey his district for the purpose of selecting areas, buildings, complexes, or any condition or set-up that could present a problem to the Fire Department in the event of fire. Each district fire chief must submit at least one site and set up a pre-planned survey of this site, and from this gather information that can acquaint the first alarm response companies with any conditions that can hinder or assist Fire Department operations at time of fire.

In order to pursue an effective pre-planned course of action, each designated site shall be selected on the basis of length, depth, height, topography, congestion of area, distribution of hydrants, adequacy of waterflow, life hazard, conflagration potential, and similar factors.

District fire chiefs shall make on-site inspections of their selected areas and list necessary items that can influence operations at fires. This should include:

Structural features contributing to spread of fire.

Sprinkler-standpipe connections and shutoffs.

Gas-electric shutoffs — flammable liquid storage.

Entrances (front, rear, side) and exits.

Type of occupancies and number of occupants.

Similar factors that can be beneficial or detrimental to Fire Department operations at fires.

District fire chiefs must establish procedures for first alarm companies to follow at fires, and these should be reviewed and approved by the deputy fire chief on that particular tour of duty. If requested by the district fire chief, a waterflow test will be made of the area by a member of the Planning and Logistics Division. Site selected shall be reviewed by all groups in the district so that all sites will be thoroughly known by all working groups. Charts should accompany plans and show a general layout of the site area.

District fire chiefs should instruct Fire Department personnel to avoid interfering with business operations in a building and to pursue this preplanning in a manner that can reflect credit on the fire service. This preplanning is to be performed in conjunction with in-service and hydrant inspections.

A copy of the essential information, an approved operational procedure guide, and a rough diagram of the immediate street and hydrant distribution shall be forwarded to the Planning and Logistics Division.

Schedules shall be established by the Planning and Logistics Division for the first alarm companies to visit the sites with the district fire chief for rehearsal of the approved operational procedures. When these plans have been reviewed and approved, copies of the essential information shall be distributed to all companies in the district and shall be reviewed in company drills.

DEAR COMMISSIONER KELLY:

I would like to thank the Boston Fire Department, especially the members of Ladder 22 on Monument Street, Charlestown, for their quick response to the emergency call on the night of January 28, 1972. I had an attack and could not breathe. They worked very hard giving first aid and applying oxygen, which no doubt saved my life. I am now at home recovering after three weeks in the Massachusetts General Hospital, thanks to the help I received from your fine men.

Sincerely yours,
Mary J. Crawford."

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT

LEASING OF SPACE

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:

I hereby respectfully request permission to dispense with public advertising in the city for the leasing of 1,440 square feet of space in the building located at 1526 Dorchester Avenue, Dorchester, and to enter into a lease with E. M. Loew's Theatres, Inc., Esther Pinkus, clerk, for this space. The premises are needed by this department as a local office in connection with Code Enforcement activities under section 117 of the Housing Acts of 1949, as amended, City of Boston, Concentrated Code Enforcement Program, Mass. Contract E-6.

The proposed lease is for the term starting January 15, 1972, and ending September 18, 1972, with an option on the part of the city to extend the term for an additional year. The proposed rental fee is $275 per month, not to exceed the total of $2,319.

It is my opinion that nothing is to be gained by publicly advertising.

Very truly yours,

FRANCIS W. GENS,
Commissioner.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT

SUPPLIES FOR DATA PROCESSING EQUIPMENT

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully request the approval of your Honor for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to International Business Machines Corporation, 520 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., for the purchase of certain supplies to be used in connection with rented IBM data processing equipment during the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973. To keep the equipment in operation it is essential that we have a sufficient quantity of the correct card, paper stock, and tape available for use in these machines. IBM has worked closely with the Library during the past several years to design stock compatible with their machines. In view of this, and in view of the fact that the Library's program of mechanizing its internal operations is facilitated by having a local firm readily available for consultation in the event of a breakdown of machines, the Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department, acting in the name of and for the City of Boston, have "Voted, That there be entered into without advertising with International Business Machines Corporation, 520 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., a contract for the purchase of certain supplies to be used in connection with rented IBM data processing equipment during the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, the total cost for such supplies to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said contract."

It is estimated that the total amount of this contract will not exceed five thousand dollars ($5,000). The approval of your Honor for the award of this contract, without publicly advertising for bids, to International Business Machines Corporation as above is hereby requested.

Respectfully,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE LIBRARY DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,

By PHILIP J. MCNIFF,
Director.

RENTAL OF IBM MACHINES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully request the approval of your Honor for the award of a contract, without public advertising, to International Business Machines Corporation, 1730 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, Mass., for rental and maintenance service of certain IBM machines during the period April 1, 1972 - March 31, 1973.

The rental of this equipment will enable the Library to continue its program of data processing activities which was initiated in 1966 whereby many internal service operations have been mechanized. The total cost for the rental of the equipment during the period of the contract is estimated to be ninety-eight thousand five hundred and one dollars ($98,501).

In view of the above, the Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department, acting in the name of and for the City of Boston, have "Voted, That there be entered into, without public advertising, with the International Business Machines Corporation, 1730 Cambridge Street, Cambridge, Mass., a contract for the rental of certain data processing equipment during the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, the total rental thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said contract."

The approval of your Honor for the award of this contract, without publicly advertising for bids, to the International Business Machines Corporation as above is hereby requested.

Respectfully,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE LIBRARY DEPARTMENT OF THE CITY OF BOSTON,

By PHILIP J. MCNIFF,
Director.

STORAGE OF BOOKS AND OTHER LIBRARY MATERIAL

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully request that you approve the signing of an agreement with the New England Deposit Library for the storage of books and other library materials for the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973.

The New England Deposit Library building is located at 135 Western Avenue, Allston. The institution was created by action of the General Court of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts under terms of chapter 240 of the Statutes of 1941. The Act names the Boston Public Library as a "Participating Institution" together with the Massachusetts State Library, the Boston Athenaeum, Boston College, Boston University, Simmons College, the Massachusetts Historical Society, and other libraries, for the purpose of providing storage space for books and other library materials for which there is only occasional use and for which storage space is not available in intensively used library buildings. The "Participating Institutions" share cooperatively in the low-cost housing arrangements provided by the New England Deposit Library in accordance with a schedule of rates standard for all "Participating Institutions."

The Trustees have set a limit of $9,145.50 as the amount to be expended for storage space for the period of the agreement. The Trustees have therefore

"Voted, That there be entered into with the New England Deposit Library, 135 Western Avenue, Allston, Mass., an agreement for the rental during the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, of storage space therein for books and other library materials belonging to the Boston Public Library, in accordance with the rates for storage space formally adopted by the governing board of said New England Deposit Library."

Inasmuch as the total cost of the storage space will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this agreement without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE

By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director.

RENTAL OF PREMISES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully request that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with Merle Ed Realty Trust for the rental of the premises located at 161 Harvard Avenue, Allston. These premises have served as quarters for the Allston Branch Library since 1939. The lease will be for the period April 1, 1972 - March 31, 1973. The annual rate will be in the sum of six thousand three hundred ninety-nine dollars and ninety-six cents ($6,399.96). It is not possible to obtain competitive bidding by public advertising for this purpose.

Inasmuch as the total rental will exceed two thousand dollars ($2,000), there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE

By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director.

INSPECTION SERVICE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Boston Public Library respectfully request that you approve the signing of a service agreement, without public advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 100 Charles River Plaza, Boston, Mass., for furnishing, during the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, of inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Central Library building. In 1951 the equipment for the system was installed by the General Alarm Corporation. On September 1, 1965, the assets and service obligations of the General Alarm Corporation were taken over by the American District Telegraph Company. Inasmuch as the servicing of this equipment can be obtained only from the American District Telegraph Company, the Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department, acting in the name of and for the City of Boston, have "Voted, That there be entered into, without public advertising, with the American District Telegraph Company, 100 Charles River Plaza, Boston, Mass., a service agreement for the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, for furnishing of inspection service for the combination watchman-recording and fire alarm system in the Central Library building, the total fee thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said agreement."

Although a written contract for this service is not necessary inasmuch as the total cost is estimated to be $1,673, it is believed desirable in this case to have a written contract because of the nature of the work involved.

Respectfully,

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE

By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director.

Mayor Urges Acceleration of Master Tax Plan

Following are the remarks of Mayor Kevin H. White before the Commercial-Industrial-Investment Council of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board:

Four and a half years ago a Special Commission to Develop a Master Plan and Program for Taxation within the Commonwealth was established by the Legislature. With an unprecedented and sweeping mandate the Commission was directed to prepare a comprehensive and detailed blueprint for solving the fiscal plight of cities, towns, and the state government.

A broad mandate — a difficult task — an unprecedented opportunity.

But four and a half years later — after countless hearings and after spending over $300,000 of taxpayers' money — the Master Tax Plan Commission has yet to issue a final and comprehensive report. No sweeping tax reform package has been put before the Legislature. And almost everyone says that tax reform is dead in 1972. It's an election year, and no one wants to rock the boat by talking about new taxes.

So, the blueprint for the seventies will apparently have to wait at least until 1973, and it seems to be business as usual on the Hill.

But in the city, four and a half years later, the issue cannot wait until next year or the year after next.

Inflation doesn't respect political cycles, and collective bargaining takes its toll irrespective of election years. The school plant continues to deteriorate, the demands on basic services increase, and the problems of poverty — of housing, drug abuse, and alienation — go largely unmet, unchallenged, and unresolved.

The unspoken political rationale for procrastinating on tax reform is that only the City of Boston stands to benefit; that other cities, those not faced with substandard housing, congested streets, and pockets of poverty, don't feel the pinch and certainly don't sense the urgency of the problem.

It's also fashionable to say that Boston doesn't run efficiently; doesn't do enough for itself; and has too much going for itself to really need the help of the state. With all the benefits of being a regional center for education, banking, commerce, and government, it's said that Boston gets back more than it gives in. It's popular to say that Boston is once again just crying "wolf."

Let's put some facts on the table. And counter the arguments one by one.

In the last four and a half years the property tax rate for all 351 municipalities in the state rose almost 65 percent. That rate is 40 percent faster than the property tax increase in Boston for the same period.

In the last two years alone Boston's tax rate increased 57 percent, New Bedford's 42 percent, Eastham's 62 percent, Ashby's 60 percent, Harvard's 56 percent, Wellfleet's 55 percent, and so on.

Dover's rose 38 percent, and that's 81 percent faster than Boston's increase over the same two years!

We know that the MBTA deficit doubled in the last four years; and we know that it will double again by 1976. So Boston will face a $20 increase in the tax rate for this cost alone, but seventy-nine other cities and towns will also face the budget crunch twice as hard in the next four years.

So other cities and towns are feeling the pinch just as severely as Boston. And the gross fiscal disparities between the "have" and "have not" municipalities means that cities and towns across the state — places with poorer tax bases — must tax their residents more heavily to maintain a lower standard of municipal services. Medford, for example, with a tax effort almost twice as large as Newton, is able to provide a per capita level of municipal expenditures that is only two-thirds that of Newton. And the Master Tax Plan was intended to address this inequality as well.

Let's look at the facts:

The city built one new school every month last year, compared to less than one a year in 1966. We've built eight new police and fire stations, six new libraries, renovated more parks, added more new recreational facilities and more playground floodlights than in any previous four years in the city's history. We increased the police force by more than 10 percent; added 125 new fire trucks; opened ten new comprehensive neighborhood health centers. We've created the only city-wide network of Little City Halls in the country; opened the largest drug treatment program in New England; and started one of the finest neighborhood summer arts festivals in the nation—Summerthing.

So the administration and the taxpayers have been busy trying to cope with our local problems locally—and our tax rate shows it. Our major capital improvement program alone has fully doubled our debt service in the last four years.

The leadership of the public sector has served as a catalyst for the private sector to begin reinvesting in the future of this great and historic city. In the last four years over $1 billion in new construction was started or committed—and that's more than double the investment in the previous four years.

The private sector—the business community, people like yourselves—has stopped sitting on the fence. There seems to be some faith that Boston can make it, that it can be rebuilt, that it will once again serve as a national hub. We are beginning to slowly improve the quality of life for our residents. The task has only yet begun. But the final solution to our problems is still a long way off.

At a time when other once-great cities are struggling to maintain basic levels of essential services—while other cities are becoming wastelands for the poor, the unemployed, the alienated—Boston is recognized as one of the two or three old urban centers with a future. Business Week has gone so far as to say that Boston sets a national standard for “urban livability.” They compare Boston with San Francisco as two of the most exciting and dynamic cities in the entire nation.

And the argument that Boston gets back more than it gives to the state and federal governments simply isn't true. Not by a long shot. It's true that we benefit from investments in the new public sector jobs, and that new government buildings have helped to provide a stimulus for private sector investment. But 52 percent of Boston's tax base is tax exempt. How would you ladies and gentlemen like to run your business with only 48 percent of your customers paying the entire bill!

The hard facts are that for every $25 Boston sends to the state and federal governments we get back only $1 in direct financial assistance. While we can raise only $300 million for the city budget with a tax rate of $175, we will send half a billion dollars in tax money to the state, and an incredible $2 billion to the federal government this year alone.

So the political wisdom about who stands to benefit and who isn't doing enough turns out to be election-year rhetoric.

In the final analysis tax reforms are needed for almost every city and town in the Commonwealth, and it will only be through a comprehensive plan that the fiscal crisis and inequalities in the state will fully be addressed.

The alternatives should be crystal clear by now. We can continue to rely on a regressive and archaic property tax to the point where no new housing is built; no old housing is rehabilitated; essential municipal services are cut back drastically; and the cities are forced to raise fees and fines, impose user charges, and tax payrolls, commuters and sales.

Newark's property tax is so high that buildings are abandoned at the rate of one a day. New Orleans has had to impose seven new charges and taxes since 1968, including a 20 percent increase in utility rates, a metropolitan earnings tax, and a 30 percent increase in water, sewage, and water treatment fees. Detroit has put a 5 percent tax on telephones, gas, and electric bills, but still has had to cut manpower in all city departments from 5 to 45 percent. And Detroit still faces a $30 million deficit.

Anyone who thinks these traumatic cutbacks won't happen here is simply blind to the tax burden faced by homeowners throughout the state. We have built schools, playgrounds, libraries, and expanded our police force while other cities are cutting back, but if we don't get meaningful tax reform and relief for all cities and towns then we may have to cut back drastically.

It's time to face the reality that the property tax—an archaic and regressive levy—was never intended to support the expanded nature of municipal services brought about by urban decay, poverty, and the effects of decades of racial discrimination and lack of equal economic opportunity. The facts show that the cost of municipal services increases five times faster than the tax base. And that's the rule, not the exception.

The shift of economic base in Massachusetts from manufacturing, which is capital intensive, to the service sector, which is labor intensive, requires tax reform to keep pace with the times. We have to shift from taxation on homeowners and rent payers to wage earners and consumers.

I do not subscribe to the fairy tale that because 1972 is an election year for legislators the Tax Plan cannot be passed. The best time to achieve public responsibility is at the moment of highest accountability to the voters.

I believe that a major state-wide effort — involving Democrats, Republicans, and Independents; mayors and selectmen; legislative leaders; civic and professional organizations; and ultimately the public itself — could achieve tax reform in 1972. We have a responsibility to start now.

Now's the time for consensus and action — before it's too late.

MBTA PREPARES SOUTH BAY MAINTENANCE CENTER

Some thirty-two acres of land in South Boston, used for more than 125 years as a railroad passenger yard, are being prepared for the construction of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority's $28,680,000 South Bay Maintenance Center for rapid transit cars and buses.

The site preparation work is being performed under a $1,986,999 contract awarded as a joint venture of the J. F. White Contracting Company and New England Rental Equipment Company, low bidder. The contract calls for the relocation of existing subsurface utilities, installation of new sewers and power conduits, drainage, and grading. It is the second major contract to be awarded for this project.

The Maintenance Center is funded by a two-thirds grant of $19,120,000 from the Urban Mass Transportation Administration, United States Department of Transportation. The remaining one-third, or $9,560,000, is being provided from the bond issue authorized in 1964.

The center will consist of a maintenance and repair facility for the 168 Red Line rapid transit cars, replacing the existing Eliot Carhouse in Cambridge, and a new 200-bus garage, replacing the Albany Street Garage in Boston's South End.

The first contract, awarded to James Grant Company for the low bid of $110,000, was for the demolition of the railroad buildings and structures on the Penn Central Transportation Company's former Dover Street Yards purchased by the Authority. Demolished were the support buildings formerly used for the railroad's passenger service, including the machine shop and roundhouse with its locomotive turntable; a cluster of buildings along Dorchester Avenue that were formerly used for the railroad's commissary service and for passenger coach and mechanical personnel; and the fuel storage tanks, sanding towers, signal towers, electrical substations, aboveground steam and service piping, and tracks.

The next contract, scheduled to be advertised for bids on April 10, with the bid opening on May 23, will be for the construction of the rapid transit complex, which will utilize about twenty-two of the thirty-two acres of land. The facilities in the complex will consist of a 142,250-square-foot modern rapid transit repair and maintenance building that will be capable of handling all repair and maintenance functions for the Cambridge-Dorchester and South Shore Red Line cars; a 6,000 kilowatt substation; a two-story yardmen's and operators' lobby; signal tower; rubber-tired vehicle (trucks) storage building; and a test house for testing and analyzing trains. The big rapid transit shop will have the most modern equipment available to carry out the following functions: general inspection and repair; heavy damage repair; electronic checkout for automatic equipment; on-car wheel machining; exterior washing and interior cleaning; and painting.

To be built nearby is the modern bus garage that will contain 154,000 square feet of floor space for the interior storage and repair of 200 buses. Facilities in the garage will include automatic high-speed fueling equipment; automatic interior cleaning and exterior washing equipment; and equipment for the maintenance and repair of air-conditioning units. The garage will also have a modern transportation lobby with facilities for administrative offices, a classroom training area, and a lunchroom.

Bids for the construction of the garage are expected to be advertised in early 1973, with construction to start about March 1.

Other major contracts for the rapid transit complex will be for the construction of traction powers; the signal system; trackwork within the complex; and a two-track surface connector, one and one-quarter miles long, between the rapid transit complex and the Red Line in the vicinity of Columbia Station and the South Shore interchange.

Design engineers for the rapid transit complex are Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade & Douglas; for the bus garage, DeLeuw, Cather & Company; and for the track system, T. K. Dyer & Associates, Inc.

The entire project is expected to be completed in late 1973 or early 1974.

BUNKER HILL DAY PARADE

Philip Joseph Kelley of 85 Elm Street, Charlestown, has been elected by the Charlestown Veterans Committee and endorsed by Mayor Kevin H. White as the Chief Marshal of the 1972 Bunker Hill Day Parade. The Chief Marshal and his committee met recently with Mayor White to confirm the budget and to jointly announce that the parade will be held on Sunday afternoon, June 18, 1972. The committee comprises: Jim McGowan, Aide-de-Camp and Secretary-Treasurer of the Charlestown Veterans Committee; Aide-de-Camp John Kelley; Jim Conway, Parade Adjutant and Chairman of the Charlestown Veterans Committee; Aide-de-Camp Walter Fields, and Chief of Staff Mike Mansfield.

CENTS-ABILITY

Most people are interested in the wise use of their money, yet they may not realize the scope of printed material available to assist them. The range of publications is great, from "how to buy a hearing aid" to enjoying economical vacations. Some of these items are free and many available at little cost.

Come and play Cents-Ability through the exhibit in the Puvis de Chavannes Gallery, which begins on April 7. Start at the mezzanine level. See if you are using your dollars to best advantage, and learn to obtain the most for your money. You can see for yourself any day from April 7 through 30.

PROTECT YOUR VALUABLES

Mayor Kevin H. White's Safe Streets Act Advisory Committee is sponsoring a program called "Project Theft Guard." The purpose of the program is aimed at reducing residential burglaries by having Charlestown residents mark all valuables in and around their homes with an identifying number. Electric engravers that mark metal, wood, plastic, glass, etc., will be loaned, free of charge, to any Charlestown resident who wants to participate.

The Mayor said, "Project Theft Guard will work as follows:—Electric engravers will be available at the Little City Halls and loaned, free of charge, for a reasonable period of time. Participants will inscribe their social security number on all valuables and keep a record which will assist the authorities to recover lost or stolen property."

MUSEUM OF SCIENCE PRESENTATIONS

A mix of monkeys, tin cans, timber wolves, and award-winning films will spice up Earth Month observations at Boston's Museum of Science during April.

New demonstrations, exhibits, and lectures attuned to environmental problems will be presented.

Among the demonstrations replacing those regularly scheduled are predator control, the nature and evolution of primates, and birds of prey. Recycling methods will be discussed in connection with a junk workshop, to be held Friday evenings, which will offer visitors an opportunity to create useful objects from ordinary household throw-aways.

In addition, every Friday night, when the Museum is open until ten; films and lectures on man's biological and cultural origins and the problem of ecological survival will be scheduled. The films are selected from such sources as the National Film Board of Canada, the National Geographic Society, BBC, and National Educational Television.

Climaxing the month's activities will be the return of Clem and Jethro, tame timber wolves from the west, which made their first appearance in Boston last year at the Museum. The wolves will be demonstrated April 24 through 29 every morning and all day and evening Friday, April 28. Their visit is sponsored by the North American Association for the Preservation of Predatory Animals.

Museum hours are Monday through Saturday, ten to five; Friday, ten to ten; and Sunday, eleven to five. Admission is $1.50 for adults, 75 cents for ages five through sixteen. Reduced rates Friday night are $1 for adults, 50 cents for ages five through sixteen. Senior citizens sixty-five and over are admitted at half price.

MASS PIKE SAFEST HIGHWAY IN 1971

The Massachusetts Turnpike was rated as the safest highway in the northeast in 1971.

Over 1,161,000,000 miles were traveled in 1971 on the 135-mile length of the Massachusetts Turnpike, which includes part of Boston. The fatality rate was 1.2 persons for every 100,000,000 miles of travel.

The New Jersey Turnpike, with 1.3, was the nearest to the Massachusetts Turnpike for the lowest fatality rate in the northeast.

John T. Driscoll, Chairman of the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority, announced that figures released by the International Bridge, Tunnel, and Turnpike Association in Washington show that the Massachusetts Turnpike had the best safety record of all toll roads in the northeast. This outstanding record was compiled in 1971 by 31,227,306 passenger cars and commercial vehicles using the initial Massachusetts Turnpike from the New York State line to Route 128 in Weston, and an additional number of vehicle transactions totaling 41,363,506 on the Boston Extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike from Weston to Downtown Boston.

Toll roads maintained their record of being more than twice as safe as the national average for all roads and streets, according to Chairman John T. Driscoll, who is also President of the International Bridge, Tunnel, and Turnpike Association.

The national fatality average for 1971 was 4.7 compared with 2.05 fatalities per 100,000,000 miles traveled on the toll roads.

Chairman Driscoll had high praise for the members of the State Police who patrol the Massachusetts Pike and for the constant vigilance and dedication to duty of the maintenance and emergency service patrols in making possible this great safety record.

NEW "T" BUS SERVICE FOR HUB AREA

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) announced on March 24 the start of an experimental bus route on Monday, April 3, which provides a new, single-fare crosstown bus service to Beth Israel Hospital, Massachusetts School of Art, Deaconess Hospital, Peter Bent Brigham Hospital, Children's Hospital, Boston Hospital for Women, Angell Memorial Hospital, Harvard Medical and Dental School, Boston State College, Wentworth Institute, Museum of Fine Arts, Gardner Museum, Boston City Hospital, Boston University Hospital and Medical School, Boston University Community Mental Health Center.

Operating Monday through Friday only, the new service will run every half hour—from Kenmore Station Busway between 7 A.M. and 9 P.M.; from Boston City Hospital between 7 A.M. and 8:30 P.M.

MBTA Board Chairman Henry S. Lodge said, "The Authority is particularly pleased to undertake this experiment in opening Boston's many excellent medical, educational, and cultural facilities to a larger segment of the public than heretofore served other than by a somewhat circuitous series of routes with the necessity of making many changes to get to the city's major institutions.

"We have developed this new service following a series of meetings with community leaders and at the request of the institutions named above. It strikes me as a good example of the social impact that mass transportation can have working in harmony with and being responsive to community needs.

"We do hope that this experiment is accepted by the public and that a fair trial of the route will prove it to be worthy of continuance and maybe even expansion," Mr. Lodge continued. "One special feature of the buses assigned to this route will be directions and timetables printed in Spanish as well as English to assist our Spanish neighbors using the service."

The running time from Kenmore Station to Boston City Hospital will be approximately twenty-four minutes; the one-way fare will be 20 cents. The route will be as follows: inbound—Kenmore Station, Brookline Avenue, Longwood Avenue, Huntington Avenue, Ruggles Street, Shawmut Avenue, Dudley Station, Warren Street, Washington Street, Massachusetts Avenue, Harrison Avenue, Boston City Hospital; outbound—Harrison Avenue, East Dedham Street, Albany Street, Massachusetts Avenue, Harrison Avenue, Eustis Street, Washington Street, Dudley Station, Warren Street, Washington Street, Sterling Street, Tremont Street, Ruggles Street, Huntington Avenue, Longwood Avenue, Brookline Avenue, Kenmore Station.

BCH SPONSORS RABIES IMMUNIZATION CLINIC

The Boston Department of Health and Hospitals is sponsoring four Rabies Immunization Clinics to be held on Wednesdays, April 12, April 19, May 3, and May 10, from twelve to four, at the Animal Rescue League quarters on Berkeley Street. Dogs must be five months old or over.

Immunization will be done at cost. The fee is $2.

Dogs may be licensed at the same time. The fee is $3 for males and spayed females, $6 for unsplayed females. Immunizations are good for two years, dog licenses for one year.

"These clinics have been organized so that citizens can respond to legislation enacted by the General Court on April 15, 1969," said Dr. Frederic Maloof, Director of Community Medical Services and Disease Control for City of Boston. "This legislation was adopted because of the real need for a protective rabies barrier in our dog population. About 5,000 dog bites were reported in the City of Boston in 1971."

The Department urges all dog-owning citizens to take advantage of these clinics and comply with the law.

. Unimmunized and unlicensed dogs may be picked up by the dog officers.

Cosponsors and cooperating groups for these clinics are the Division of Communicable Diseases for the State of Massachusetts, the Animal Rescue League, the Angell Memorial Hospital, the Massachusetts Veterinary Association, and the Massachusetts Medical Society. The Animal Rescue League is the official dog officer for the City of Boston.

The Angell Memorial Hospital is supplying supplementary veterinarian and expertise.

Dr. Nicholas Fiumara, the Director of the Communicable Disease Division of the State Health Department, is the chairman of the Rabies Control Group in Massachusetts, which embraces all the above-named groups.

PLAY BALL!

Recreation Director Bob Cusick announced on March 29, that registrations are now available for the 1972 Boston Parks and Recreation Association of Baseball Leagues. Applications and any additional information may be obtained at all hub recreation centers or by contacting League Director Adam Mroz at Recreation Headquarters at 524-6400.

This year will mark the forty-second season of competition with all leagues, opening on the second week of May, with registration closing on April 19.

The success of these Park Leagues has been built on an organization of fair play and service. Membership in Park League baseball insures all teams of the highest standards of officiating and league administration. Fields are reserved for all leagues. Umpires are assigned, and facilities of field houses are available to teams.

ONE HUNDRED SUMMER STREET

Ground-breaking ceremonies were held on April 4 for a $40 million 33-story office building at the corner of Summer and Devonshire Streets. It will be known as "One Hundred Summer Street."

Gerald Blakely, Jr., president of Cabot, Cabot & Forbes, developers of the building, expects construction will be completed by 1975. The new building will be the headquarters of Massachusetts Blue Cross-Blue Shield. The Health insurance company will occupy more than 475,000 square feet.

Mayor White told the audience that the new building will be a focal point of the revitalization of Summer Street and the South Station area. He also said other new skyscrapers for Boston will be announced in the near future.

A performance bond and also a payment bond, each of a surety company satisfactory to the Commissioner, and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, will be required of the successful contractor. Forms of proposals may be obtained at Room 721, City Hall. Each proposal should be filled out, signed, enclosed in an envelope, sealed, marked "Proposal for Emergency Repairs to Traffic Signal Bases in Various Sections of the City," one copy of which is to be left at Room 721, City Hall, before twelve noon on Friday, April 21, 1972 with a certified check for two hundred fifty dollars ($250), payable to and to become the property of the city if the proposal after acceptance is not carried out. The proposals will then and there be publicly opened and read.

Proposals must be made in duplicate, the sealed duplicate, without check, to be deposited by the bidder with the City Auditor previous to the time named for opening the bids. If the unit price of any item appears to the Commissioner to be abnormally high or low it may lead to the rejection of the proposal. The rate per hour of wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed under the contract shall not be less than the rate of wages in the schedule determined by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth, a copy of which is annexed to the form of contract referred to herein. Copies of said schedule may be obtained, without cost, upon application therefor at the office of the Commissioner. Before commencing performance of this contract the contractor shall provide by insurance for the payment of compensation and the furnishing of other benefits under chapter 152 of the General Laws (the Workmen's Compensation Law, so called) to all persons to be employed under this contract, and shall continue such insurance in full force and effect during the term of this contract. The undersigned reserves the right to reject any or all proposals or to accept any proposal or any item of a proposal should he deem it to be for the best interest of the city so to do.

OFFICIAL CHRONICLE, MUNICIPAL AFFAIRS.

HON. KEVIN H. WHITE, MAYOR OF BOSTON

GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE
PRESIDENT CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 64

MONDAY, APRIL 17, 1972

NO. 16

Assessing Department Slated for Reorganization

Mayor Kevin White and Finance Commission Chairman Lawrence T. Perera jointly announced on April 7 major reforms in assessing practices in the city and a major reorganization of the Assessing Department, in accordance with recommendations of the Jacobs Company survey completed last July.

"Although many studies have been conducted over the years to improve assessing practices in this city, virtually all of them collected dust on unused shelves," Mayor White declared. "This is the first time major reforms of this department have been implemented by any administration for several decades."

A schedule of priorities of recommendations to be implemented immediately were drawn up by an Assessing Committee set up by the Mayor and headed by Perera as chairman. The initial list of reforms and reorganizations include:

1. Granting abatements for a three-year period rather than the customary one year.

Yearly renewal of abatements forces the petitioner to conduct the solicitation process each year, forces the assessing staff to duplicate the workload each year, and prevents the city from projecting completely the total revenues to be derived from the tax rate. Three-year abatements will eliminate duplication and give the city a more stable tax base on which to project a tax rate.

2. Rewrite most of the tax agreements now in force so that payments to the city will fluctuate according to the tax rate.

Currently, tax agreements fall into two main categories: payments to the city are for a fixed number of tax dollars each year, and do not reflect the escalation in the tax rate, or they are tied to a percentage of the owner's rental income—usually 20 to 23 percent of the gross.

Under the new reform the Assessing Department will determine an assessed valuation for these buildings, and they then will be subject to the regular tax rate, thereby yielding more revenue for the city.

A few corporations like Prudential which have Chapter 121A agreements are not covered by this change. These 121A agreements consist of a 40-year contract with the state and cannot be altered by the city.

3. The department will make weekly disclosures of all abatements granted, and thus eliminate the three- to four-month lag involved by waiting for other agencies to publish them.

4. The Mayor will file an ordinance as soon as possible with the City Council to reorganize the department as follows:

A deputy commissioner will be appointed by the Mayor to assist the commissioner in administrative matters.

The department will be divided into three operating divisions—Administrative Division, Appraisal Division, and Abatement Division—each will be governed by one of the three current associate commissioners, and each commissioner will have clearly defined responsibilities.

The Board of Assessors should be abolished and its administrative power to reorganize the department transferred to the commissioner.

5. The Mayor will file a second measure with the City Council for an appropriation to cover the costs of retraining assessors.

Retraining will achieve a uniform assessing code so that all properties will be evaluated according to the same criteria, thereby eliminating possible inequities in assessing practices.

OUR NEW "DEADLINE"

Henceforth, to assure the publishing of the City Record on time, it is necessary to advance our customary Wednesday deadline one day forward to Tuesday. We urge all departments to accede to this request and to deliver all copy and advertisements to the City Record Office, Room 721, seventh floor. Please cooperate.

6. All assessing data beginning this year will be computerized and made available to other departments.

Computerization will give the department a memory bank of the number of structures in the city or any of its neighborhoods, the number of commercial or residential units contained in each structure or region, the valuation and market value of each structure. This information could be made available instantly to agencies such as Housing Inspection, Building Department, or the BRA for their own use.

"These are major reforms that will not only increase efficiency but yield more revenue," Mayor White observed.

"Rewriting tax agreements will mean that some large property owners will have to pay more money to the city—but we shall insure them a fair and reasonable increase.

"There is only one alternative to this, and that is tax reform. That is why I intend to fight this year for the master tax plan—to give all property owners, commercial and residential, tax relief. I would hope that property owners affected by these changes will join me in this battle, for in the long run tax reform is the only intelligent answer."

Other members of the committee are: Commissioner Theodore V. Anzalone; Alice Christopher, a home owner; Haskell Cohn of the Boston Bar Association; Thomas Horan, Greater Boston Real Estate Board; Oliver W. Park, Boston Municipal Research Bureau; William J. Speers, Jr., of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce; James A. West, a home owner; and Edward T. Sullivan, Director of Administrative Services.

BRA RECEIVES PLANNING ASSISTANCE GRANT FROM HUD

A federal grant to help Boston produce a new General Plan and chart the city's development strategy for the 1970's was announced on April 5 by the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

Robert T. Kenney, Director of the BRA, said the city agency had received a $200,000 comprehensive planning assistance grant from the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The 701 grant, as it is called, is believed to be one of the first ever given a large city under HUD's Comprehensive Planning Assistance Program.

The planning grant will enable the BRA to produce a new plan and development strategy for the city within the next eighteen months.

"The increased funding provides real impetus for our current planning efforts," Mr. Kenney said. "This new component in our planning program, along with the District Planning Program and the Community Renewal Program, provides us with the capability for formulating broad-based development strategies and specific programs to be implemented in the next decade." He explained that basic changes in the city's population and economic characteristics and the effect of urban renewal programs made it necessary to reexamine the General Plan of 1965.

"The 1965 General Plan focused on urban renewal areas, with an emphasis on urban design elements in the downtown area," said Mr. Kenney.

However, in recent years, he added, BRA planning has been conducted on the neighborhood level, with increased involvement of community groups in the planning process.

The planning grant underscores the BRA approach to planning in that a major emphasis of the 701 program is to establish development policies which can be implemented at the neighborhood level.

The studies undertaken, he added, will be aimed at providing the Mayor's office with program proposals for action on a wide range of issues, including housing, open space and zoning, economic development, and public services.

"It is quite likely that some form of revenue sharing will become a reality this year," Mr. Kenney stated. "We want to have program proposals prepared so that the city can take full advantage of those funds once they are available."

In assembling data for a development strategy, the BRA will be working closely with the city's new Economic Development and Industrial Commission.

Because housing needs are an urgent concern of the city, initial focus of the 701 grant will involve a series of efforts concerning housing issues.

Some of the special studies will include the impact of expanding institutions in the city, the effect of rent control, and evaluation of present and future roles of public and private housing development corporations.

The planning effort will also be concerned with the environmental quality of city neighborhoods and include evaluation of open spaces and other matters related to pollution problems.

The studies, when completed, are expected to include detailed data on various housing programs, specific sites most suitable for new housing, and priorities for carrying out the programs.

Mr. Kenney also noted that the intensified planning effort will cover virtually every area of activity in the city.

"The planning program will be city-wide in every sense of the word," he said. "We want to include the concerns and needs of the neighborhoods at the same time we devise proposals for continuing the revitalization of downtown and the retail core."

"We think the new General Plan of the city must be based on programs which maintain that delicate balance of Boston as a good place to live and a good place to work."

PATRIOTS' DAY

Less than a month after Edmund Burke urged Parliament to keep the peace, Great Britain and its American colonists were at war. The first shots of the American Revolution were fired at Lexington, Massachusetts, where British troops, marching toward Concord, attacked the American minutemen.

Briefly, this is how the fighting started. At Boston, British General Gage secretly ordered soldiers to destroy war materials which the colonists had stored at nearby Concord. He also commanded his men to seize Samuel Adams and John Hancock, two members of the Massachusetts committee of correspondence, who were staying in Lexington.

However, when General Gage's secret was discovered on the night of April 18, 1775, three colonists, Paul Revere, William Dawes, and Dr. Samuel Prescott, rode through the towns and villages west of Boston warning the people that the "British were coming" and called the minutemen to arms.

Paul Revere roused Adams and Hancock at Lexington and they fled from the town. On the westward road, both Revere and Dawes got by the British patrols, but only Prescott got through to warn the Concord residents. At dawn, on April 19, 1775, the British troops marched through Lexington toward Concord.

Minutemen faced them on the village green at Lexington but did not attempt to halt their march. Nevertheless, the British fired at the minutemen and eight Americans were killed.

At Concord, the British soldiers destroyed the colonists' supplies, but now the minutemen were ready. At North Bridge, in Concord, a battle began which will be remembered in our country's history. There, approximately 450 minutemen met the British force and the battle ensued.

Finally, the enemy broke ranks and hastily retreated. All the way back to Boston the battle raged. From behind stone walls, fences, and trees, colonists from the towns along the way fired at the retreating British soldiers. At sunset, the weary British column reached Boston at last. Of the 700 soldiers that set out that morning, 273 were killed, wounded, or captured. The war with the British had begun!

SPANISH-SPEAKING COURSE INITIATED

The Boston Parks and Recreation Department in cooperation with the Mayor's Office of Public Service has begun an 8-week Spanish course for Park Department personnel who deal with Boston's Spanish-speaking community.

The course was inaugurated March 28, and will continue on a twice-weekly basis. The instructor is Consuelo Faust, a member of the Office of Public Service.

The Department of Parks and Recreation sees this course as both an innovative use of City Hall resources and as a beneficial means of improving communication between city government and Spanish citizens of Boston.

RACIAL IMBALANCE LAW

Following is the statement of Mayor Kevin H. White:

"While it is encouraging to see that the Joint Legislative Committee on Education recognizes the shortcomings of the present racial imbalance law, I cannot endorse the committee's approach to easing the situation.

"The problems of each community are different, and to say that a school is imbalanced because it has a 50 percent, 60 percent, or 70 percent black enrollment is to skirt the real problem.

"Specific percentages should be eliminated from the law, with the only true test being whether a community is taking positive action and is sincerely attempting to racially balance its schools. If it is, the community should be given state aid; if it isn't, state aid should be withheld.

"As for other provisions of the committee's recommendation, it is significant that it was proposed that the state raise the reimbursement from 65 to 80 percent for school construction costs. In Boston we have undertaken the most ambitious school building program in the city's history. We have done this for many reasons, not the least of which was an effort to keep our young families from fleeing to the suburbs.

"We have, to some degree, been successful, and, with the added incentive of increased state assistance for school construction, we can do a lot more.

"Further, I agree with the committee that school construction funds should not be withheld from cities with racially imbalanced schools. That is like cutting off your nose to spite your face."

No. 17

Mayor Announces Major Towing Reform

Mayor Kevin H. White and Finance Commission Chairman Lawrence T. Perera jointly announced on April 13 a major reform of towing in Boston, a seven-point plan that essentially will:

— Eventually eliminate private contractors from virtually all towing in Boston.

— Delegate responsibility for towing, with minor exceptions, to the city's Traffic and Parking Department with tight security to protect motorists' property.

— Significantly reduce the total number of cars towed annually.

— Define more clearly the criteria for towing a car, and also define the geographical area in which cars are most likely to be towed.

— Escalate the number of traffic tickets issued in the city, and increase both the towing fee and the court fine for towed cars. This latter change would increase the total costs of retrieving a towed car from $27 to $45 — by increasing the towing fee from $12 to $20 and the court fine from $15 to $25.

(All seven points are spelled out in detail below, but have been compressed here into five points for brevity.)

Boston's new towing policy was worked out jointly by the Mayor, by the Finance Commission, on whose recommendations a large part of the new policy is based, by Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara, and by Traffic and Parking Commissioner William T. Noonan.

"Bluntly speaking, our intention is to take the profit motive out of the towing business, and the only way to do that is to take the business away from private contractors and turn it almost exclusively over to the city, under tight security controls," Mayor White said.

"The lion's share of the towing business will shift from the private companies, whose efficiency and motivations have been seriously challenged in recent weeks, to the city's Traffic Department, but let all motorists be assured that I shall take whatever steps are necessary to guarantee the safety of their property, and to guard against the looting that I disclosed earlier this week.

"I am convinced that there have been abuses both in private and public towing. Some people will maintain that no perfect, infallible system is possible, but given a choice I prefer to give the city the responsibility to do the job its own way, with the authority to make the system work, and then I shall provide the determination to make people knuckle down and make it work honestly," the Mayor said.

Finance Commission Chairman Perera noted:

"Private towing, which accounted for approximately 27,000 tows in 1971, will be reduced to less than 2,000 under the new system, and even then, that towing will be without city intervention. It will be a private contract initiated by the owner of a vehicle, for example, in the case of an accident, or by a property owner, in the case of a vehicle accused of trespassing on private property. These complaints alone exceed 5,000 tows yearly and involve the Boston police, but in the future, they will not involve the police or any other municipal agency."

Mayor White summarized the city's new towing policy this way:

"No longer will private firms dominate towing, but in fact will receive only a miniscule share; no longer will towing consume a major proportion of police manpower; no longer will the city play only a minor role in towing; and no longer will Boston challenge the nation in the number of towed vehicles," Mayor White promised.

"This new policy cannot be accomplished overnight. It must be done gradually, for it will take time to change state laws, to purchase additional municipal equipment, and to hire more personnel to handle the higher workload. But we hope to be fully operative under the new system by the end of the year," the Mayor said.

Details of Mayor White's new seven-point towing policy are:

Towing Reform . . .

a. Change the state law which now requires all towing to be done exclusively by police personnel, so as to allow personnel from the Traffic and Parking Department to have such authority, thereby placing all towing personnel under the Commissioner of Traffic and Parking.

b. Change the state law which now requires all tows to be ordered by a police officer or sergeant or officer of higher rank; the new law would allow tows to be ordered by a meter maid or a parking meter supervisor, thus freeing police for essential patrol duties and allowing the traffic force to act swiftly without police approval.

c. Ask the Legislature to increase the $12 towing fee to $20.

(This legislation must first pass the City Council and then the Legislature, since through the Home Rule Amendment process, it must amend a state law which applies only to the City of Boston.)

2. With minor exceptions, virtually all towing will be done only by municipal vehicles and employees.

Vehicles and personnel under the jurisdiction of the Department of Traffic and Parking will tow in areas bounded geographically by Massachusetts Avenue, the Massachusetts Turnpike, Fort Point Channel, and Boston Harbor to the Charles River. In effect this means the city alone will tow, and will tow in the downtown central business district, the North End, Beacon Hill, and the Back Bay.

In 1971, 75 percent of all cars towed in Boston were hauled from within these boundaries.

3. Towing criteria:

The Department of Traffic and Parking will tow only when a car:

a. Significantly interferes with traffic flow.

b. Significantly threatens to interfere with public safety, such as parking before a fire hydrant, or blocking fire apparatus access to a narrow street, etc.

c. Violates other emergencies, such as interfering with snow removal.

d. Is owned by a scofflaw. If a car is owned by a motorist who has ten unpaid traffic tickets, his car can be towed and held by the Traffic Department until his debt is paid.

After the Legislature has amended the Boston towing law and the city is geared up with equipment and manpower, private companies will handle only private summonses—accidents and trespasses—or the hauling away of cars seriously interfering with traffic flow or public safety. The latter case, however, will apply only when no municipal vehicle is available and the need is great, which is expected to be very rare. This policy is expected to cut private towing from 27,000 cars in 1971 to less than 2,000 in 1973 when the policy is operative for a full year.

4. More intensive tagging for traffic violations and higher fines for towed cars. Towing fee payable by an owner before a car is retrieved will be hiked from $12 to $20, the court fine attached to the same offense will be hiked from $15 to $25, a total liability of $45, an increase of $18.

5. Once the Home Rule Petition is passed giving Traffic and Parking authority to tow independently of police personnel, the city's tow truck fleet will be swelled from fifteen to twenty-five trucks and its towing personnel increased from civil service lists as required.

6. Timing:

a. Criteria for towing cars, whether done by private or public employees, is effective immediately.

b. Transfer of all towing from private to public units must await passage of the Home Rule Petition by the City Council and the Legislature, which conceivably could take six months or more, and purchase of new equipment.

c. Escalation of tagging and fines will require approval by the Traffic Commission—about a month or so.

7. Transition policy:

Private contractors will be permitted to continue towing until the city is geared up to take over; but private companies meanwhile must compete for the business through bids to the Police Commissioner forthwith.

However, private contractors, it must be emphasized, will continue towing in Boston on a large scale only until the city has the resources and security measures to assume their duties.

BOBCATS! WHAT NEXT?

Bobcats in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts?

Boston's Museum of Science says confirmed urbanites may be surprised to learn that bobcats are alive and well and living in this state, in fact less than 30 miles from the populous city of Worcester.

Bobcats inhabiting the region of Quabbin Reservoir was the subject of a talk given recently at the museum. Chet M. McCord, a graduate student with the Massachusetts Cooperative Wildlife Research Unit, discussed his recent studies of the wild animals in the reservoir area.

FRANKLIN PARK IMPROVEMENTS OUTLINED

To make Franklin Park "a safer and more functional recreational facility," Joseph E. Curtis, Commissioner of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department, in cooperation with the Franklin Park Advisory Committee, outlined the following actions:

Traffic Control — The only roads which will remain open after April 29 in the park are Jewish War Veterans Drive (Circuit Drive) and Glen Lane. Wooden barriers will be placed across all other roads throughout the spring and summer. White Stadium parking lot will be closed, and temporary parking areas will be constructed at Valley Gate and off Circuit Drive.

Also a minimum speed of 30 miles per hour will be "strictly enforced" by additional Boston police patrolling the park, and vehicles left overnight or found on roads from which they are banned will be towed.

Public Safety — Boston police will have "sufficient manpower" in the park on a seven-day week, 24-hour-per-day basis to "insure efficient law enforcement." In addition the park will be officially closed to all but through traffic from 11 P.M. to 7 A.M.

Park Maintenance — By April 29, a crew of twelve full-time men and a supervisor will maintain the park on a 7-day weekly basis. Additional men will complement the crew in the summer.

Capital Improvement — Among the listed projects will be the creation of picnic grounds in the wilderness area, water service to critical park areas, and the physical improvement of the Devine Golf Course.

Another program, entitled "People the Park," will include an ongoing series of recreational and special events.

Among them will be the April 29 celebration of the official opening of the park and the children's zoo, the annual Franklin Park Kite Festival on May 13, a bicycle day, and a family picnic day.

In addition, large signs will be erected at various places in the park as identifying marks and a public information booth will be constructed next to the parking area at Valley Gate, to be staffed by employees of the Parks and Recreation Department.

OPERATION "VIN"

Thousands of Massachusetts motorists will learn that they are operating cars with improper registration certificates during the current spring inspection period according to Registrar of Motor Vehicles David J. Lucey.

"The routine of the present inspection period will focus special attention on a very important item—the vehicle identification number," the Registrar said on April 12.

"The 'VIN,' or vehicle identification number, assigned by the manufacturer to each vehicle, is the critical guide to whether or not the registration certificate is proper. We estimate that there are thousands of such faulty registration certificates."

"Registration certificates with incorrect vehicle identification numbers must be considered improper. During this inspection period the Registry is requiring all of the state's inspection stations to double-check vehicle identification numbers against the number appearing on the registration certificate presented as part of the inspection itself," the Registrar said.

The Registrar called upon all motorists to check their own vehicle identification numbers against their registration certificates. "Motorists who find discrepancies should report these to their insurance agents and request issuance of corrective applications for processing through any of the Registry's 34 branch offices," he said.

On cars manufactured after 1969, the vehicle identification number can be found in the lower right-hand side of the windshield (on the driver's side). On most older cars, the vehicle identification number is normally found on the doorpost of the car on the driver's side.

MBTA SEEKS FUNDS FOR YOUTH-ORIENTED TRANSIT PROGRAM

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) on April 5 authorized the filing of a demonstration grant application with the Urban Mass Transportation Administration (UMTA) of the United States Department of Transportation (DOT) for $20,700 to continue the development of an Urban Transit Aids for Youth Program.

The program will develop, design, and produce a young people's travel guide keyed to the MBTA system and to points of interest to children and will design a pictorial signing system for MBTA stations that will facilitate travel on the system, not only for young people, but also for semiliterate travelers, foreign visitors, and other elements of society by whom a picture is more easily understood than signs with only words.

The Urban Transit Aids for Youth Program is a continuation and extension of a project supported by the Authority called the Open City Project which began in October of 1971 under the joint direction of the Children's Museum of Boston, the architectural firm of Ashley, Meyer, Smith, Inc., of Cambridge, the Massachusetts Institute of Technology's Department of Urban Studies and Planning, and a public school experiment known as "Side-track."

The Open City Project, funded by a grant from the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, will end in June of this year. The MBTA is desirous of continuing the project by the development of the travel guide and the pictorial signing program as a contribution to the social health of the communities it serves.

Should federal approval of the application be received, it is expected that the program will take some twelve months to be completed. The Authority will be assisted by personnel who are currently working on the Open City Project.

"WHITE CANE" LAW

With the advent of the spring and summer seasons many more totally or partially blind persons will be crossing our streets as they enjoy the weather after a winter of semiconfinement.

The Massachusetts law requires that all drivers come to a stop when approaching a blind person crossing or attempting to cross a street, who is being led by a guide dog or is carrying a cane which is white or white with a red tip. The operator must not proceed until he has taken every precaution, that may be necessary, to avoid injuring the blind pedestrian.

"The operator is held responsible for compliance with this law, not the blind pedestrian, and whoever fails to stop shall be subject to a fine of not more than one hundred dollars," Registrar David J. Lucey said.

A TIMELY TIP

No person may operate a motor vehicle equipped with metal-studded snow tires on a public way in Massachusetts between May first and November first.

Violators are subject to a fine of not more than $50.

Remember to remove metal-studded snow tires before May 1!

MAYOR URGES: RATIFY EQUAL RIGHTS AMENDMENT

The following letter was sent on April 10 to the Honorable David M. Bartley, Speaker of the House of Representatives, and the Honorable Kevin B. Harrington, Senate President, State House, Boston, Mass.

GENTLEMEN:

I urge your strong support for swift ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment to the Constitution. The operative part of the proposed amendment reads as follows: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any State on account of sex."

Sex discrimination is not only a question of attitude. The laws of our land are themselves discriminatory in some instances. This amendment is a necessary precursor to real reform, and I hope the citizens of Massachusetts can count on their Legislature to effect its expeditious passage.

Sincerely,

KEVIN H. WHITE,
Mayor.

RIOT REINSURANCE RATES REDUCED

A reduction in reinsurance premium rates for companies reinsured under the federal riot reinsurance program was announced recently by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development. Federal Insurance Administrator George K. Bernstein said the new terms are effective for the period May 1, 1972, through April 30, 1973.

The announcement was made simultaneously with the publication in the Federal Register of the annual offer by HUD of the 1972-73 Standard Reinsurance Contract.

The new contract provides protection to insurance companies against losses from riots and civil disorders. To obtain coverage for the full year, companies must accept the offer of reinsurance by letter or telegram dispatched prior to May 1.

The basic rate for the new contract is 0.05 percent applied to an aggregate premium base consisting of the amount of each company's direct premiums earned in each state for each reinsured line of property insurance. This compares with a basic rate of 0.15 percent for the previous year. The reduction reflects a favorable loss ratio since the inception of the program.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

The following communication was sent to all members of the Building Department recently by Building Commissioner Richard R. Thuma, Jr.:

As many of you are aware, chapter 557, Acts of 1963, sets forth rules for the use of liquid petroleum gas in buildings under construction. This department has a strict policy of enforcement of those rules.

In the interest of our continuing good record in this area I ask all of you to lend your cooperation. I do not limit my request to gas fitting inspectors; every inspector in the department can help.

A list of potential hazards to look for follows:

1. Gas containers (tanks) should not be closer than six feet from their heaters.

2. If two or more heaters are used the gas containers shall be at least twenty feet apart.

3. No combustible material may be stored within twenty feet of a gas container. This applies whether the heater is in use or not.

4. Frayed or damaged gas hoses or tubing must be replaced.

5. Containers, cylinders, or gas tanks stored too close to the edge of floors under construction must be moved in and secured to a structural member of the building.

6. All containers (in use or not) must have screw on safety caps to protect the valves.

7. Cylinders must be stored in the upright position.

8. Raising or lifting cylinders must be done in a safe manner; that is, properly secured and safely stacked on adequate hoisting equipment.

This is just a partial list of possible hazardous conditions which may be easily observed. Should you see any of these conditions in buildings or sites you inspect, please notify the Gas Fitting Division. If any doubt exists please call and be sure. Many hazards, which are not listed above, do exist—again please report them to us immediately.

I intend to ask all other agencies with inspectional functions to cooperate in this matter.

The number to call for immediate action is 722-4100, extension 569.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

MODEL CITY ADMINISTRATION ACCOUNTING SERVICES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:
The Model City Administration hereby requests your approval to award a contract, without advertising, in the amount of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000) to Cohen, Cohen, Havian and Shaller, an accounting firm with offices at 85 Devonshire Street, Boston, Mass.

Under the terms of the contract Cohen, Cohen, Havian and Shaller will examine those operating agencies under contract with MCA designated by the Administrator with regard to their compliance with the objectives of the program and undertake the cash reconciliation of MCA and city books from May 1, 1972, through June 30, 1972, provide its professional staff and, pursuant to instructions issued by the Administrator, advise, meet, and consult with the Administrator and such other individuals as the Administrator from time to time may designate.

The contract covers the period of time from February 1, 1972, through July 31, 1972, and provides that payment for services rendered by Cohen and Cohen shall be on an hourly basis, the rate depending on the classification of its personnel, with a maximum liability to the city for said services of thirty-five thousand dollars ($35,000) in the aggregate.

Before Cohen and Cohen initially was hired a careful review of other accounting firms was made and it was determined that Cohen and Cohen has vast experience in the audit of agencies funded by federal monies, said judgment being justified by the outstanding service rendered MCA by Cohen and Cohen during the past eighteen months.

For the foregoing reasons, it is requested that notice of said contract by advertising in the City Record be waived.

Very truly yours,

PAUL PARKS,
Administrator.

PUBLIC FACILITIES DEPARTMENT ENGINEERING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:
As authorized under a January 19, 1972, vote of the Public Facilities Commission, I hereby request of your Honor, for and on behalf of that Board, formal executive permission to dispense with our charter requirement of public advertising for competitive bids in the City Record, in awarding a contract to TAD/Consulting Division of TAD, Inc., a corporation duly organized and existing under the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Consulting Engineers, of 639 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Mass., for the furnishing of general engineering services and technical assistance in connection with the preparation by the department of a substantial volume of plans and specifications for use in the carrying out of its extremely broad alterations and repair program, during the period November 1, 1971, to March 31, 1972, at a cost for such services of not to exceed $25,000, payable at the actual hourly rates paid (within the rates to be stated in the contract) times 1.42; and to execute such contract, in the name and on behalf of the Commission upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

The city now has in process a $25,000 contract with the aforementioned firm for the subject services for the August 16, 1971, to March, 1972, period but our calls for the services of this firm have literally been tremendous and ever increasing, so much so that in fact the money simply was all used up in a very, very short time. Naturally, the aforementioned contract would be cancelled promptly by mutual written agreement.

The subject firm has, as stated, been employed previously by this department to perform the very same kind of services and its performance has been particularly satisfactory. We have a tremendous need for the subject auxiliary services which just continue to pyramid and know from experience that their provision will be of invaluable assistance to us in connection with the accomplishment of our alterations and repair program.

In view of the foregoing, and the fact that the services to be furnished are in the professional realm, the Board is of the opinion that public advertising would not necessarily assure that we would acquire the same degree of professional competence which will be available to us under the contract as now proposed.

Respectfully,
ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

LEASING CERTAIN PREMISES

DEAR MAYOR WHITE:
Under a delegation of its power from the Public Facilities Commission to the Director of Public Facilities, I hereby respectfully request your Honor's written authority to dispense with public advertising in leasing certain premises deemed necessary and convenient by the Director for School Department purposes. There is a further delegation of power from the Commission to the Director to execute such lease upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

The premises to be leased consist of approximately 10,000 square feet of space at the Charlestown Branch of the Boys' Club of Boston, Inc., who is the lessor. This lease will be a renewal of an existing lease that terminates March 31, 1972.

This space will continue to be utilized for classroom purposes to relieve overcrowding at Charlestown High School. Specifically, the space will accommodate the Cooperative Educational Program which is made up of approximately 368 male students.

The period of the lease will be from April 1, 1972, to March 31, 1973, with a renewal for twelve months being written effective April 1, 1973. The lessor will give us two further options of twelve months each, beginning April 1, 1973.

The rental for twelve months term of the lease will be $56,000 annually, payable in twelve equal monthly installments of $4,666.

The lessor will provide all utilities and janitorial services at no additional cost to the city.

It should be noted that the lessor has made a considerable expenditure of its own funds to meet public safety requirements for our school children.

As public advertising would be of no usefulness in this instance, we request your Honor's permission to dispense with same.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On Wednesday, January 19, 1972, I was authorized by the Public Facilities Commission to request of your Honor formal permission to omit a public solicitation for proposals in the City Record in awarding to Arthur D. Little, Inc., Consulting Engineers, with offices at Acorn Park, Cambridge, Mass., a contract to provide engineering services in connection with a preventive maintenance and administration program for the mechanical and electrical equipment of the John Marshall and Joseph Lee Schools; such a pilot program that can be adopted for use in other facilities (under the control of Public Facilities Department) once its effectiveness can be demonstrated, such services to include: (a) draft report and final report consisting of two building maintenance schedules and for the administrative, supervisory, and clerical procedures necessary to implement and operate the program; (b) name and location of each item of equipment to be serviced; (c) the service task required; (d) skill type, trade, and level required to perform each maintenance task; and (e) frequency at which each task should be performed, at a cost for such services, payable at the hourly rates to be set forth in the contract, of not to exceed $29,000 (including certain out-of-pocket expenses specifically authorized by or under the contract of not to exceed $3,200); and to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission, upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

In the light of the fact that the services to be rendered in this instance are professional in character, requiring exceptional competence, skill, and experience, it is the considered judgment of the Board that nothing would be achieved by public advertising for bids in the present case.

Respectfully,

ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

APPRAISAL OF LAND

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Under the terms of a current vote, the Public Facilities Commission authorized me to request, in its name and on its behalf, as I now do, from your Honor, executive permission to dispense with the customary advertising in the City Record in awarding to Hubert J. Kelley, a real estate appraiser, with offices at 80 Boylston Street, Boston, Mass., a contract to prepare and furnish to the City of Boston an appraisal report on four two-family houses, one business site, five parcels of unimproved land, and certain Boston Edison Company property, being located on Glen Road, Forest Hill Street, and Washington Street, respectively, in the West Roxbury district of Boston, at a cost for such services not to exceed $3,350; and to authorize the Director to execute such contract in the name and on behalf of the Commission upon receipt of said written authority from the Mayor.

The foregoing action was necessary as one of the steps needed to be taken in arranging for the ultimate acquisition of the land for the projected Margaret Fuller replacement school, since appraisals must first be made of the land involved.

The above-named appraiser is a senior member of the Society of Real Estate Appraisers, he has been engaged by the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, the Massachusetts Department of Public Works, the Federal Housing Administration, and by the Boston and Cambridge Redevelopment Authorities, and he has done appraisal work for the National Shawmut Bank, the City of Boston, Mobil Oil Corporation, Bell Systems, Sylvania Electric Products, Inc., and Westinghouse Electric Corporation, among others.

In view of the very special nature of the services to be furnished here, together with the fact that the services are of a confidential nature too, it is not considered that public advertising would be in the best interest of this municipality.

Respectfully,

ROBERT J. VEY,
Director.

SCHOOL DEPARTMENT

OFFICE FURNITURE AND EQUIPMENT

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

It has been brought to my attention within the past week that a major commercial establishment is closing office operations in the City of Boston and that all of its office furniture and equipment is available for immediate purchase and removal prior to September 30, 1971.

Funds were provided in the Department of Planning and Engineering 1971 alterations and repairs fiscal allotment for the type of furniture and equipment similar to that being offered.

In an effort to take advantage of the above situation I solicited informal, invited bids from five reputable concerns dealing with this type of furniture and equipment. I am, therefore, awarding a contract to L. Goldstein & Son, Inc., 244 Brighton Avenue, Brighton, Mass., not to exceed the amount of twenty-four thousand three hundred thirty-seven dollars and fifty cents ($24,337.50).

A personal inspection revealed that the furniture and equipment were made by reputable manufacturers, are of excellent quality and condition, and will be purchased at great savings to the city, while at the same time fulfilling the needs for which the fiscal allocation was made.

I am, therefore, of the opinion that no advantage or savings would accrue to the city in publicly advertising for bids on this furniture and equipment.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

ENGINEERING SERVICES

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

This department's program for modernization of electrical facilities in the schools is well along, with engineers' contracts having been executed.

It is now my desire to retain the services of Yunits Engineering Company, Inc., 11 Technical Park Drive, Holbrook, Mass., to prepare plans and specifications for electrical systems alterations at the Abraham Lincoln School.

The engineer's basic fee, while prompted by the "B" rate of the Massachusetts Association of Architects 1951 recommended schedule, is to be a negotiated flat eight percent (8%) rate based on the actual estimated cost of the work.

Supervision or supplementary services are not to be performed.

Since this contract is for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids therefor would be of no avail.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The modernization and improvement of the heating facilities in various schools is continuing under the Air Pollution Control Program.

To prepare plans and specifications for updating the heating system at the Hugh Roe O'Donnell and the Patrick J. Kennedy Schools, I have selected Campia Engineering, Inc., 150 Causeway Street, Boston, Mass.

The engineer's fee is to be a negotiated flat eight percent (8%) of the estimated cost of the work which is sixty thousand dollars, plus a flat seven hundred dollars ($700) per school for reports of meteorological material prescribed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Division of Environmental Health Bureau of Air Use Management.

The engineer is not to perform supervisory nor supplementary services.

Since this contract is for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids therefor would be of no avail.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

In keeping with the Air Pollution Control Program this department is modernizing and improving its heating facilities in various schools.

To accomplish these changes I have selected an engineer to prepare plans and specifications for a bid proposal and am awarding a contract to Louis Scorziello, 97 University Road, Brookline, Mass., for this endeavor at the Henry L. Higginson School, Roxbury, Mass.

The engineer's fee is to be a negotiated flat eight percent (8%) of the estimated cost of the work, which is set at fifty thousand dollars, plus a flat seven hundred dollars ($700) per school for meteorological reports as prescribed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, Department of Public Health, Division of Environmental Health, Bureau of Air Use Management.

The engineer is not to perform supervisory nor supplementary services.

Since this contract is for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids therefor would be of no avail.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

The heating system at the Ellis Mendell School is to be modernized and improved under the Air Pollution Control Program.

For this work I have engaged the services of the Francis Associates, 1033 Massachusetts Avenue, Cambridge, Mass., as the engineer to draw plans and write specifications.

The engineer's fee is to be a negotiated flat eight percent (8%) of the estimated cost of the work, which is set at fifty-seven thousand four hundred dollars, plus a flat seven hundred dollars ($700) per school for reports of a meteorological nature prescribed by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts Department of Public Health, Division of Environmental Health, Bureau of Air Use Management.

No supervisory nor supplementary services will be performed by the engineer.

Since this is a contract for the performance of professional services, a public solicitation for bids therefor would be of no avail.

Respectfully submitted,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

REPAIRS AT ROGER CLAP SCHOOL

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

R & L Construction Company, Inc., $24,279.

P. O'Donnell Company, $27,250.
Harold S. Sears Company, Inc., $30,987.

Respectfully yours,

ANTHONY L. GALEOTA,
Chief Structural Engineer.

PRESIDENT CITY COUNCIL

VOL. 64

MONDAY, MAY 1, 1972

NO. 18

Mayor, Coalition, Strive to Lower Property Taxes

Boston Citizens for Tax Reform, a state-wide coalition of professional groups, taxpayers, labor leaders, and elected officials, was formally organized on April 19 and held its first public meeting in the office of Mayor Kevin H. White.

The group's major goal will be to lower property taxes, and will strive for this by lobbying for a final report from the Master Tax Plan Commission so that a legislative vote can be taken this year.

The coalition was organized chiefly by Mayor White with support from other groups. The chairman of Citizens for Tax Reform is Professor Albert Kelley, dean of the School of Management at Boston College.

Among the Massachusetts mayors on the committee, who are committed to lowering property taxes in their own cities, are: Mayor S. Lester Ralph of Somerville; Mayor Theodore D. Mann of Newton; Mayor Samuel E. Zoll of Salem; Mayor Barbara Ackerman of Cambridge; Mayor William S. Taupier of Holyoke; and members of more than twenty organizations.

"Although we represent varying and frequently opposing interest groups and constituencies, we are united today because of our common concern for the fiscal solvency of this state and of our 351 cities and towns," observed Chairman Kelley. "And we are also united in our conviction that continued reliance upon the property tax as the major source of revenue for government in Massachusetts is inequitable, regressive, and not in the best interests of homeowners, rent payers, the state itself, nor is it in the best interest of the economic future of our cities and towns."

Said Mayor Kevin H. White: "There is an old cliché, purely apocryphal, that says that tax reform means relief for the Boston taxpayer, that tax rates are oppressive only in the capital city. Let me shatter that myth right now, and simultaneously illustrate why this coalition has been formed, representing all political persuasions, all parties, all manner of communities, large, medium, small, urban, suburban, rural.

"In the last three years, Boston's tax rate went up 35 percent. But the average rate increase for the other 350 cities and towns in this state was 51 percent. The point is not to be defensive about Boston, but rather, to point up the burdens being imposed upon all Massachusetts property owners."

Mayor White also noted that, in the three years ending in 1971, Boston's tax rate jumped 21 percent, while New Bedford jumped 42 percent, Lawrence, 37 percent, and Cambridge, 44 percent, Ashby, 60 percent, Belmont, 33 percent, Brookline, 30 percent, Dover, 38 percent, and Weymouth, 55 percent.

"That brief comparative list merely points up that this is indeed a universally spreading cancer, eroding taxpayers' pocketbooks, and it must be stopped now, for no community is immune," Mayor White declared.

The coalition noted that it has been four and a half years since Governor Volpe formed the tax commission, yet there is still no final report, no legislation drafted, no pending vote in the Legislature, no public hearings held, and no plan for action in 1972.

"We are taking this initiative here today fully aware that we face an uphill battle, that the skeptics will belittle our intention, and that we may have a two-year fight on our hands," Dean Kelley said. "But we have made the decision to fight for a final report from the Tax Commission because we believe the property owners in this state are being taxed exorbitantly and that some broad-based group of nonpartisan citizens is needed to get the ball rolling toward tax reform."

Preliminary reports of the Tax Commission indicate that a rewriting of the tax formulas would decrease the amount of all state and local revenue supplied by the property tax from 54 to 42 percent, it would increase the revenue from the personal income tax from 16 to 21 percent and would increase the revenue from the sales tax from 14 to 21 percent.

This formula, if it had been law during 1971, would have had the following impact on a home in Boston with a market value of $25,000: the 1971 tax bill of $1,750 would have been lowered to about $1,300, a savings of $450; for a family of four with an income of $10,000, there would have been an increase of $100 to $150 in added income and sales taxes. Thus this family, owning this house, would have a net savings of between $300 to $350 annually.

Tax Reform . . .

The coalition signaled out property taxes as the highest priority for tax reform because Massachusetts has the third highest property tax nationwide; because, while municipal services increase twelve percent annually, the tax base increases only two percent, thereby forcing property owners to bear disproportionate increases in costs; because this tax penalizes older persons on fixed income who can't keep pace with costs; and because it discourages mortgage lending, new construction, and rehabilitation of old homes.

MISS CHINATOWN WINS "MAY QUEEN" HONORS

The City of Boston selected its own "May Queen" on Thursday, April 20, in the plaza at City Hall during the annual "salute to spring-time" festival.

Mayor White congratulated the new queen who will reign over the musical festival featuring the newly formed Boston Parks and Recreation Department concert band. Sixteen girls vied for honors, and the winner, "Miss Chinatown" was pretty 13-year-old Rose Au, who was selected at the drawing by Personnel Director, Miss Joanne Prevost.

Frank Kennedy, a member of the Parks and Recreation Department, handled his master of ceremonies chores in his usual flawless manner. More than one hundred youngsters from the sixteen Parks and Recreation centers presented musical selections featuring their own personal style and creativity.

A brass ensemble from the Boston Conservatory of Music entertained with seventeenth century selections, and the program closed with the traditional "Maypole dance" by the children from the Brighton Recreation Center.

The festival is conducted annually by the Boston Parks and Recreation Department under the direct supervision of Commissioner Joseph E. Curtis and Recreation Director Robert F. Cusick. Admission was free and all parents and friends were cordially invited. More than 400 persons attended this delightful event.

TB VANS DISAPPEARING

Remember the TB bus on the corner with lines of people waiting to be X-rayed? The scene is disappearing.

For years, the mobile X-ray unit was a standard way of finding out who had TB. But the times, and the problem of TB, are changing.

Persons with active TB and those with tuberculous infections have declined over the last decades. Taking drugs can prevent infections from developing into active disease. And even when active disease does develop, drugs can make the patient noncontagious within a short time.

But back to the disappearing TB van. The fact is that mobile X-ray units surveying general populations find too few cases. Over 95 percent of people with new or reactivated TB are found by other means than mass X-ray screening in the community-at-large, even in the inner city and ghettos, where the incidence of TB is higher. Today most active TB is discovered because the person has symptoms and seeks medical advice.

To find out more about ways to detect TB, contact your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. They have the facts.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor Kevin H. White chose as Boston's first distaff member of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library someone he described as "an unusually well-read woman" — his mother, Mrs. Patricia Hagan White of West Roxbury. Appointed recently to a five-year term on the Trustees' Board, Mrs. White succeeds attorney Lenahan O'Connell.

The unpaid five-member board headed by businessman Sidney R. Rabb sets policy for the operation of the Boston Public Library—the Central Library, its addition (to open this fall), and its branches — as well as the Library's specialized research services, its program activities, and its services as the center for the Eastern Massachusetts Regional Library System.

Other members of the Board of Trustees are Rt. Rev. Edward G. Murray and Messrs. Erwin D. Canham and Augustin H. Parker.

LEARN WHILE WALKING

Trace Boston's unique architectural evolution as you explore the Back Bay and Beacon Hill with architectural historian Randolph J. Fuller.

A series of four morning walks featuring "Boston's Architectural Landmarks" will be sponsored this spring by the Boston Center for Adult Education, 5 Commonwealth Avenue, on Wednesdays at 10:30. The walks began on April 26, and will continue on May 3, 10, and 17.

Class emphasis will be on the style and siting of each building. The social and political significance of each structure will also be considered. The new foliage, window plantings, and blooming magnolias of springtime will be a fresh and charming bonus for course participants.

Each tour will end near a place convenient for luncheon, although the price of the meal is not included in the course fee.

For registration information and a free program booklet, call the Boston Center at 267-4430.

GIFT REFLECTS PRIDE

On a bright Monday morning recently a ray of sun shone into the Trustees' Room of Boston's Library on a scene that exemplified the aspirations and reasons for the very existence of any public library. In this room an outwardly simple transaction took place to help the Library in some way to provide services and books for citizens from all walks of life.

A gift of a week's pay was given to the Boston Public Library by Mr. Albert F. Grasso, of Revere, who is labor steward for Local 22 of the Construction Workers Union and is part of the team working on the Library's addition. When he presented his check to Director Philip McNiff, Mr. Grasso recalled his three-year association with the construction of the Library's addition and the harmony and teamwork of all who have been working there. He had particular praise for superintendent of the project Lawrence Jean and resident engineer John Doherty, saying that through their example and willingness to listen and understand they have inspired a pride in being associated with the addition's construction. Unlike many other projects, there has been no dissension whatsoever between them or between the workers and the two men. "Their teamwork," Mr. Grasso said, "has brought the job from the foundation up because they acted like men and may God bless them and may they continue. They're gentlemen, real good construction men, and an asset to construction work."

Mr. Grasso recalled the hard years of the depression period when it was difficult to get an education, and especially so if you came from a family of eight children. He compared this, later, to the financial difficulties of getting an education which young people from humble homes are faced with even today. He wanted his gift used to buy books to help such young people to get their education — to, perhaps, make it a bit easier for them through the fine continuance of the Library's program.

MAYOR ANSWERS SCHOOL COMMITTEE'S REQUEST FOR ADDED FUNDS

Mr. James W. Hennigan, Jr.,
Chairman, School Committee,
15 Beacon Street,
Boston, Mass.

DEAR MR. CHAIRMAN:

This is in answer to a letter of April 3, 1972, from Edward J. Winter, Secretary to the School Committee, forwarding to me the official request of the Committee for an additional appropriation of $15,695,205 for general school purposes and of $5,000,000 for alterations and repairs.

These requests which amount to a 21.7 percent increase in one year are far beyond the fiscal capacity of the city and cannot be honored in full. We are in the process of analyzing the total budget of the Committee and we will communicate with you within the next two weeks on what we consider reasonable costs.

I am more concerned at the moment, however, with a more important message. It is the fact that I will not recommend any appropriation for additional school funds to the City Council until the School Committee and the State Board of Education resolve the impasse which has cut Boston off from the state funds which are properly ours and without which we cannot continue to operate the public schools of this city.

This impasse has already caused the withholding of $14,000,000 in state funds for 1971 and this sum now constitutes a debt on which the taxpayers of Boston are paying interest charges of $50,000 per month.

The $38,000,000 due to Boston for 1972 is also being withheld and will also begin, very shortly, to add very significantly to our debt and interests costs since we will have to borrow in lieu of receiving this cash from the state.

The simple and unavoidable truth is that we cannot continue to operate our schools without the state support which is ours by law, and the time has come to face the issue.

We cannot continue to drift through another year of indecision.

I realize that my refusal to recommend an appropriation will leave the School Committee with inadequate funds for the operation of the schools through the year 1972 and that this might very well result in the postponing of school opening in September. The time has come, however, when everyone concerned—the School Committee, the State Board of Education, the State Legislature, and the people of Boston—must come to grips with the reality of the situation.

One of two things must happen. Either the Racial Imbalance Law has to be changed to make compliance with it less difficult or to remove the fiscal sanction from the law, or the School Committee and the State Board of Education must work together to develop a reasonable solution.

With regard to changes in the law, I have asked the Legislature to do three things:

1. To remove the mathematical definition of racial balance and make reasonableness the criterion for an acceptable plan.
2. To involve the suburbs in the process of racially balancing our inner-city schools.
3. To remove the fiscal sanctions from the law and substitute court procedures.

At any rate I want to impress everyone involved that this can no longer be an academic, abstract discussion. We are dealing with hard facts which affect the children in our schools and the taxpayers who sustain them.

I hope that the School Committee will begin at once to attack the problem on every front, conscious of the potential disaster which awaits us if we fail.

Very truly yours,

KEVIN H. WHITE,
Mayor.

MBTA WARNING LIGHTS

The MBTA has put into effect a novel plan to deter thieves and troublemakers on their buses which are now serving seventy-nine cities and towns in eastern Massachusetts.

All police departments in the MBTA district are asked to respond immediately to the aid of any bus displaying a flashing green light at the front or rear.

"MUNICIPAL MUSIC BOX" PRESENTATION

Visitors to Boston City Hall will have a chance to become composers by creating their own "piece of music" in a 14-channel electronic sound environment on Thursday, May 4, when, from 8 P.M. to 10 P.M., City Hall is transformed into a "Municipal Music Box."

The event, at which refreshments will be served, is free and the public is invited to come and experience the unique program developed by Richard Felciano, who is composer-in-residence for the City of Boston through the Contemporary Music Project in Boston, a Ford Foundation program.

"Municipal Music Box" is presented by the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs and the Contemporary Music Project and is sponsored by the Massachusetts Council on the Arts and Humanities.

Mr. Felciano describes his project as one which is unlike the usual concert situation where audience and performers are stationary and the moving element is changing sound progressing in time.

Mr. Felciano is currently on leave from the University of California at Berkeley where he is assistant professor of music. He has been aided in his study of music and sound environment by two Ford fellowships, a Guggenheim fellowship, and grants from the French and Italian governments as well as the Woolley and Copley Foundations.

NEIGHBORHOOD BOARD'S LIBRARY EXHIBIT SUCCESSFUL

The Model Neighborhood Board display which was exhibited in the Boston Public Library in Copley Square throughout the month of March was very successful, according to Miss Helen H. Sevagian, editor of the Boston Public Library News.

While Miss Sevagian has no way of knowing how many people actually looked at the exhibit—which filled fourteen cases in the first floor corridors of the library—she noted that approximately 3,000 people use the Library's facilities each day.

The aim of the exhibit was to give the general public a bird's-eye view of the Model City area, the Model Neighborhood Board, and programs being delivered in service to the community by subcontracting agencies and firms.

Each subarea was highlighted with maps, pictures, narratives, and suggested readings. Models and pictures of in-fill housing, family life centers, and other programs were also shown.

Miss Sevagian felt the Model Neighborhood exhibit was worthwhile both from the MNB's point of view, since it gave many people a greater understanding of Model

City activities and from the Boston Public Library's point of view, since it gave the Library an opportunity to display books and periodicals on urban planning and related subjects.

While most of the public reaction to the display was positive, one adverse reaction came from a Bostonian who criticized the Library for devoting so much space to Model Cities.

"But," said Miss Sevagian, "if the Mayor has seen fit to establish it and we have information that will help the community understand it better, then I feel it was a worthwhile exhibit."

Finally, Miss Sevagian singled out Miss Donna Tribbett, secretary of the Model Neighborhood's Office of Public Information, and Miss Jane Ellis, former director of that office, for their efforts in helping to make the Library exhibit a success.

MANPOWER ADMINISTRATOR

Mayor Kevin White on April 20 appointed Joseph R. Duggan to the position of Manpower Administrator for the City of Boston.

Gerald W. Bush, recently appointed Director of Commerce and Manpower for the city, made the announcement while speaking before the Industrial Advisory Council of Action for Boston Community Development (ABCD).

"Our single most important goal is to insure that people in manpower programs receive the best possible training and acquire good jobs that utilize their abilities," Mr. Bush stated.

In his remarks before the ABCD group, Mr. Duggan, who is 37 years old, stressed "delivery of services" as his primary objective and added, "We hope to assist the Mayor's office in determining how to maximize federal funding resources used in job training in the manpower planning area." Besides Boston, this area includes Winthrop, Revere, Chelsea, and Brookline.

The newly appointed Manpower chief said that in addition to obtaining maximum federal funding, his office would oversee the use of such funding within the city to insure that all possible avenues and resources are utilized.

Mr. Duggan has three children and resides on I Street in South Boston. He will assume his job on May 1.

IV. HIGH COMMENDATION

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend Fire Fighter James J. Cooley of Engine Company 12 for meritorious act performed by him at fire, Box 1713, at 0139 hours, on Monday, March 20, 1972.

Fire Fighter Cooley was detailed as aide to the district fire chief of special services who responded to the alarm. Upon arrival at the scene, they were informed that a person was still in the building. Fire Fighter Cooley entered the building from the front and advanced to the second floor where he was required to make forcible entry. He then crawled by the room involved in fire, made his way to the rear of the second floor, and found an elderly woman unconscious in a chair, and carried her to a window which he opened, and the woman was partially revived. He then assisted her along the front hallway to the front of the building where, with help from members of Engine Company 12, he removed her to the street.

The rescue work was performed before adequate ventilation had been provided and before hose lines were in full operating position.

Because of his prompt action under difficult conditions and without thought of his own safety, it appears that Fire Fighter Cooley was responsible for saving the victim's life.

V. LETTER OF THANKS

The following letter is published for the information of the department:

Dorchester, Mass. 02124,
March 23, 1972.

DEAR COMMISSIONER KELLY:

At about 3:45 P.M. on Wednesday, March 8, 1972, in answer to a frantic ringing of our front doorbell, we found the hallways filled with smoke so had to leave by the back way. A neighbor noticed smoke pouring out of the first floor windows. He had his wife call the fire station on Dorchester Avenue at Ashmont Station, and he ran over to warn all three families living here.

In about three minutes time, the firemen were here. They ran right into the smoking house and had the fire under control in about twenty minutes.

The people on the first floor lost everything and will have to live in a hotel for a while. We live on the second floor; nothing was damaged here at all, thanks to the wonderful job the firemen did. If there is any award they should get, we would be glad to recommend them for it. We went up to thank them in person yesterday.

If possible, we would appreciate an acknowledgment of this letter.

Two very grateful citizens,

Mary Anderson,
Elizabeth H. Anderson."

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the awarding of contracts without public advertising, based on the following communications:

FREEDOM TRAIL COMMISSION INFORMATION SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Since August 1, 1966, yearly contracts have been executed between this Commission and the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce for furnishing information service at a booth on Boston Common, promoting places of historic value in Boston, particularly all historic places along the Freedom Trail.

In view of the excellent services rendered under previous contracts and the present contract which expires on March 31, and with the ever-increasing number of tourists coming to the City of Boston each year, it is hereby respectfully requested to dispense with inviting proposals by advertisements in the City Record in awarding to the Greater Boston

Chamber of Commerce, 125 High Street, Boston, a contract under which the Chamber shall, at an information booth on Boston Common to be furnished to it for its exclusive use, provide, during the period commencing April 1, 1972, and ending March 31, 1973, both inclusive, continuously between 9 A.M. and 5 P.M. each day other than Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays other than Christmas and New Year's Day, and continuously between noon and 5 P.M. on Sundays, an information service promoting places of historic value in Boston, particularly, but without limiting the generality of the foregoing, all historic places along the route designated by the Commission under Chapter 625 of Acts of 1965; provided, however, that such service need not be provided on any day when bad weather inhibits the use thereof. The contract will provide for the city to pay the Chamber for such information service $1,200 for each of the months of April to December, 1972, and March, 1973, and $500 a month for each of the months of January and February, 1973.

An information service of this kind here involved is obviously a quasi-professional service which does not readily lend itself to inviting proposals by advertisement.

Respectfully,
FREEDOM TRAIL COMMISSION,
By RICHARD A. BERENSON,
Chairman.

DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HOSPITALS

COMPUTER DATA SERVICES

DEAR SIR:

The Board of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston at its meeting of January 5, 1972, voted to award a contract, without advertising, to Massachusetts Hospital Association of Boston, Mass., to provide special computer data services for the Medical Records Division of Boston City Hospital, for the period commencing January 1, 1972, and ending March 31, 1972, in an amount not to exceed $7,000.

The Massachusetts Hospital Association will provide system analysis, keypunching from source documents compiled by Boston City Hospital personnel, card to magnetic tape conversion, sorting of magnetic tape by medical record registration number sequence and discharge date, report generation from magnetic tape and process, and testing and debugging. The data will be used for "special studies" and is necessary for the hospital to qualify for licensure by the Massachusetts Department of Health and also for Joint Commission on Accreditation purposes.

The Massachusetts Hospital Association currently is performing very satisfactorily under another contract for comparable computer data services in the Medical Records Division, and is especially familiar with our requirements and our operation.

In my judgment, the Massachusetts Hospital Association is uniquely suited to provide us with this service and it is with a firm conviction that it is in the best interest of the city and Boston City Hospital that I am therefore requesting that you approve the awarding of this contract without advertising under the terms stated above.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES V. SACCHETTI, M.D.,
Commissioner.

HEALTH CARE SERVICES

DEAR SIR:

The Board of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston at its meeting of January 5, 1972, voted to award a contract, without advertising, to the Trustees of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston, Inc., 909 Massachusetts Avenue, Boston, Mass., under which said corporation will provide and administer a grant to the Brighton-Allston neighborhood of Boston to begin providing primary health care services. The period of this contract is January 1, 1972, through March 31, 1972, and the total amount of the contract shall not exceed $30,000.

This grant will be subject to two principal conditions. First, that the city's aforesaid contribution be matched by the participating hospital, St. Elizabeth's Hospital, which shall be requested to provide either funds or services equal in value to the city grant; secondly, that the Department of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston is satisfied that the hospital and the Brighton-Allston Community Health Corporation have reached agreement on the program of primary health care services for which these and the matching funds will be spent and their respective roles in the management of the health center program.

Inasmuch as no benefit will ensue to the city through publicly advertising this contract, it is requested that it be awarded to the Trustees of Health and Hospitals of the City of Boston, Inc., without advertising under the terms stated above.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES V. SACCHETTI, M.D.,
Commissioner.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT RENTAL OF PREMISES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Board of Trustees in charge of the Library Department of the City of Boston respectfully request that you approve the signing of a lease, without public advertising, with the Castle Square Associates for the rental of premises located at 496-498 Tremont Street, Boston. These premises are to serve as quarters for a multilingual library. The lease will be for the period April 1, 1972, through March 31, 1973, and the rental will be $6,699, plus an "additional rent" based on real estate taxes.

For the purpose of this lease the "additional rent" referred to is defined as that sum of money by which the real estate taxes on the premises assessed for the year 1972 may exceed the 1970 real estate taxes. If the 1972 real estate tax as finally determined should be less than the 1970 real estate tax, no "additional rent" shall be payable, and the lessor covenants and agrees to pay the lessee the difference.

Inasmuch as it is not possible in this instance to obtain competitive bids by public advertising, and since the total rental will exceed $2,000, there is respectfully requested permission of your Honor to enter into this lease without publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,
THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE
By PHILIP J. McNIFF,
Director.

Charlestown Boys' Club, A Major Achievement

The Boys' Clubs of Boston are coming up to a venerable 79 years of age and it all began in Charlestown. Began, in fact, in rooms over a small grocery store at 402 Main Street.

That was in 1893, just three years after the grandfather of John Whelan, the new chairman of the Charlestown Clubhouse Executive Board, settled in Charlestown.

The first club had a small library, a simple gymnasium, and a few games. Frank Mason, a young Charlestown businessman, had patterned it on a Boys' Club that had been started on New York's East Side. Mason gave up his job as a traveling salesman to run the club with the help of the boys themselves and only a few volunteers now and again.

On opening day, Mason registered thirty-eight boys and six months later there were 105 members and a waiting list of 100. Five years later, to get space for its enlarged program and growing membership, the Club moved to a three-story wooden frame building at 10 Wood Street. Later this property was purchased and in 1904, two friends of the Club made it possible to purchase the Boylston Chapel adjoining the Wood Street headquarters. This addition provided a new large gymnasium, an auditorium, shower baths, and new classrooms.

Three men and one woman succeeded Mason as superintendent of the Club. Then in 1911, Harris G. LeRoy took over. He came to the Bunker Hill Club with a thorough knowledge of boys and their problems and under his leadership the Club's program became more varied and membership grew to the point where new quarters were obviously needed.

A building fund campaign was organized in January, 1916 and in two months had exceeded the $125,000 goal by $800. Two years later on January 1, 1918, the new Bunker Hill Clubhouse at 15 Green Street opened its doors. Immediately, membership jumped from 800 in the Wood Street building to 2,431 in the new clubhouse. One of the brightest features of the new facility was its swimming pool, a rare thing in those days, which attracted boys from many other areas of the city.

With the new building the Club was able to reach and serve more boys than ever before, and because of its extended growth and influence it was decided to place its affairs under the responsibility of a Board of Governors and to change its name to the Boys' Clubs of Boston, Inc.

Ten years later in 1926, the Eben B. Jordan Memorial Building was added to the Charlestown club with the remodeling of the Methodist Episcopal Church at 62 High Street. This gave the club a large gymnasium and auditorium and the building was connected to the Green Street clubhouse by a tunnel.

Meantime, a group of men had started a club in Roxbury and in 1925 this club came under the umbrella of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, Inc. Then in 1938, through a gift from the Charles Hayden Foundation, a new clubhouse was built to serve South Boston boys. This clubhouse was renovated last year to put it in apple-pie shape, and Roxbury has a brand new clubhouse as of three years ago.

Now it is the turn of the granddaddy of all the clubs. The Charles Hayden Foundation has offered a challenge grant of $175,000 if a like amount is raised to renovate the Bunker Hill Clubhouse. It is interesting to note that fixing the building up in a modest way in 1972 will cost three times as much as it did to build it new in 1916!

A great portion of this matching grant has already been pledged by various foundations due to the efforts of Richard Hart, Jr., President of the Boys' Clubs of Boston, Fred Davis, Vice-President and Executive Director of the Boys' Clubs and Jack Whelan, Chairman of the Charlestown Clubhouse Executive Board.

There is still a long way to go and this is where the Charlestown community can once more play the vital role that it did in 1916 by pitching in to help reach the goal of $175,000 to match the grant of the Charles Hayden Foundation.

Remember Charlestown hasn't been asked for almost sixty years to help out the Charlestown Clubhouse, Boys' Clubs of Boston—the most underrated organization in the town that is taken for granted by our youth and their parents.

It is important that the community participate in raising this money for two reasons:

(1) Their participation may be the key to open the purse strings to certain foundations that look for community-based support; and

(2) The Charlestown Clubhouse deserves the wholehearted support of this community whose youth have been well served for almost eighty years.

The Charlestown Clubhouse, Boys' Clubs of Boston, is a permanent organization that provides all types of recreational and vocational outlets for our youth.

It is not transient in nature as are many sports activities and programs in Charlestown that are dependent on the present leadership involved and which may fade with a change or lack of new leadership.

The Boys' Club is a second home for many of the boys of the town and more than one has received his basic training in basketball and swimming on the court and pool at the clubhouse which has led to further advancement in these sports and eventually to athletic scholarships at top-notch colleges and universities.

The Boys' Clubs of Boston has done much to contribute to the betterment of the youth of Charlestown over the past seventy-nine years and in the very near future you, the people of Charlestown, will be informed through the pages of the Patriot how you can help them.

REGISTRY ADVISORY

With only one week remaining in the spring inspection period, Registrar of Motor Vehicles David J. Lucey again urges Massachusetts motorists to be prepared to respond to a stringent check of their vehicle identification numbers. The vehicle identification number is the manufacturer's serial number assigned to each vehicle. The Registrar urges motorists to perform their own vehicle identification numbers check by comparing their registration certificates against the body of the car itself where the number has been placed by the manufacturer.

On cars manufactured since 1969, the vehicle identification number can be found on the lower right-hand side of the windshield (driver's side). On these and all other cars, the vehicle identification number can also be found on the doorpost of the car on the driver's side, according to the Registrar.

ARSON FOR PROFIT PROBED

Expressing concern over the mounting incidence of arson for profit, Federal Insurance Administrator George K. Bernstein recently urged the insurance industry to use its existing underwriting authority to curb these illegal practices.

In a letter to the chief executive officers of all insurers purchasing federal riot reinsurance Mr. Bernstein expressed hope that the arson problem would not be used by the industry “as an excuse for further underwriting restrictions not related to arson frauds.”

The Federal Insurance Administration has long been critical of those insurance industry underwriting practices which arbitrarily deny coverage to insureds on the “whim of an underwriter,” thereby forcing applicants for coverage into the FAIR Plans and other residual markets.

FAIR (Fair Access to Insurance Requirements) Plans are associations of insurance companies set up to make essential property insurance more widely available in inner city and urban areas.

WHAT ARE FRIENDS FOR?

In the April 17 issue of the City Record, we appealed to our readers to attend a benefit helping one of our fellow workers, Bill Donald, of the School Department, whose home was destroyed by fire.

The response exceeded all expectations, and the affair was a financial success. Here is Bill's expression of thanks to all who assisted him in his hour of need:

Thank You

*I cannot express my feelings
Your warm friendship did bestow.
I have no words to tell you,
But I do want you to know
I will never lose the wonder
Of the grand thing you have done.
And, I want to thank and thank
And thank you each and every one.*

BILL DONALD AND FAMILY

ELEVEN POLICEWOMEN APPOINTED

Eleven new policewomen were sworn in as members of the Police Department on April 26 by Superintendent William Taylor, marking the first time since 1942 female recruits have been taken into the department.

A sixteen-weeks basic training course has already started. The new policewomen are: Kathleen M. Anderson, Diane M. Hofferty, Sheila M. Kaplan, Mary L. Keenan, Lynn A. Kohansky, Christine M. Michalosky, Patricia G. Rehm, Barbara A. Ridlon, Kathleen A. Thornton, Kathleen M. FitzPatrick, and Beverly B. Veseleny. Along with Boston's "finest" we now have the "fairest."

URBAN GROWTH STUDY AT HARVARD

Urban growth on the South Shore of Massachusetts Bay, between Boston and Plymouth, is the subject of a major study just begun by Harvard's Graduate School of Design. It is supported by a two-year grant of $522,700 from the National Science Foundation.

Experts in a variety of fields will pool their knowledge to consider such questions as:

— Conservation of natural resources versus urban growth.

— Unplanned spreading of suburbs versus "optimal" patterns for new urban growth.

— Impact on the growth of communities of such major changes as new interstate highways and industrial centers.

— Relations of governmental units in planning and guiding growth.

The aim is to bring the many influences in urbanization together into a statement of planning processes. Modern techniques of computer simulation and mathematical programming will be used.

While throwing light on the problems of the Boston Region Southeast Sector, which includes the watersheds of North River and South River, the project will develop an interdisciplinary approach to integrating both qualitative and quantitative values in planning for the urbanizing environment.

The study will draw on such disciplines as economics, engineering, ecology, landscape architecture, city and regional planning, and law and political decision-making. This project grew out of earlier investigations of Harvard's landscape architects and city and regional planners.

BCH SPONSORS THERAPY COURSE

Boston City Hospital and Tufts University School of Medicine will sponsor an Inhalation Therapy Course May 8-12 at Boston City Hospital's Dowling Amphitheater. This therapeutic course is aimed at inhalation therapy technicians and interested physicians.

Instruction will consist of these topics: A New Approach to the Anatomy of the Lung, Pulmonary Physiology, Inhalation Therapy, Mechanical Ventilation, Infant Respiratory Distress, Special Problems, and Pulmonary Rehabilitation. Dr. Maurice S. Segal will direct the course. Applications and information can be obtained from Dr. Segal, Department of Inhalation Therapy, Boston City Hospital, 818 Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass. 02118.

MAILBOX IMPROVEMENT WEEK

The United States Postal Service has designated May 15-20 as "Mailbox Improvement Week," a traditional observance which contributes nationally to environmental quality.

For many years, the start of Mailbox Improvement Week has served as a signal for special community efforts to encourage repairing, painting, and other improvements in the security and appearance of about 18.5 million rural and suburban curblinetype boxes.

Civic groups, the press, and municipal governments often join in these campaigns, led by postmasters in many communities.

The observance helps in promoting the security of mail as well as in contributing to the appearance of the boxes, which may often be damaged by the previous winter's weather.

Mailbox Improvement Week has been observed for generations, particularly in rural areas and smaller communities. The effort is still especially important for rural delivery areas because more Americans receive their mail today on rural routes than ever before.

Mailbox Improvement . . .

Many postal customers served through boxes use them as a front-alpiece in a bed of flowers, or mount the boxes on elaborate posts containing designs of animals, birds, flowers, etc.

As part of the observances of May 15-20, the Postal Service is asking postmasters to seek community assistance in promoting the campaign, and asking all personnel directly involved in suburban curb-line and rural deliveries to cooperate with householders in making certain their receptacles comply with regulations on such matters as safety and accessibility.

BCH OPEN HOUSE

The administration and staff of Boston City Hospital have invited all Boston residents to an open house in the hospital's completely renovated Children's and Maternity Buildings during National Hospital Week.

"It is our hope that members of the community will come and see firsthand the improvements that have been made in these two buildings," said Frank Guiney, executive director of the Department of Health and Hospitals. "The residents of Boston support this hospital with their tax dollars, and we want them to see that their money has been put to good use. We feel that we have two of the finest maternity and pediatrics units anywhere and we want the community to see for themselves."

Some $3 million has gone into the renovation of the maternity and pediatrics buildings at B.C.H. Another $5 million has gone into other areas of the hospital as well, Mr. Guiney said.

Among improvements in the Maternity Building are all new private and semiprivate rooms (each with a private bath), new nurseries, labor and delivery rooms, and operating rooms. In the Children's Building all floors have been modernized. A twenty-four hour walk-in emergency clinic has been opened in addition to the hospital's pediatric appointment clinic. Also within the Children's Building are a pediatric X-ray department, EEG laboratory, pharmacy, and playrooms.

Tours of the two areas will be given on Friday, May 12, and Saturday, May 13, from 2:30 to 4 P.M. The tours will begin in the hospital's Cheever Amphitheatre where refreshments will be served.

Due to necessary safety precautions for the hospital's patients, no visitors under sixteen can be admitted to patient-care areas.

RESEARCH TO AID NEW COMMUNITIES

The United States Conference of Mayors will undertake a one-year study to help develop policies for governing new communities developed privately with federal aid, the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development announced on April 17.

The research will be carried out through a $238,000 grant under HUD's Comprehensive Planning Research and Demonstration Program.

The study is expected to develop viable alternative approaches for delivering governmental services to the new communities, according to General Manager Samuel C. Jackson of the Community Development Corporation and Harold B. Finger, HUD Assistant Secretary for Research and Technology.

It is specifically designed to help formulate policies and guidelines for the use of HUD, state and local governments, new community developers, and resident associations. The guidelines will assure that the system developed for each community is democratic and responsive to the needs of residents, but at the same time efficient in utilizing community resources.

MAYOR SEEKS NEW POLICE COMMISSIONER

Statement of Mayor Kevin H. White.

I have decided to seek a new police commissioner for the City of Boston, and I have informed Commissioner Edmund McNamara of my decision.

The commissioner asked for a reasonable period to complete his own personal arrangements, and I have gladly granted him that opportunity.

Commissioner McNamara has rendered distinguished service to this city for ten years, but I feel strongly that all department heads should be chosen by the Mayor, and fully reflect the Administration's policies. The turbulent changes that have occurred in law enforcement during that decade demand a new approach and a new set of priorities.

Police administrators today no longer can be concerned merely with holdups, burglaries, and assaults, even though these will always be the primary concern of police officers. Police supervisors must contend also with student unrest and massive demonstrations, with internal collective bargaining that affects their relationships with the force. They must contend with closer control by the courts of arrest procedures and of minority hiring, which in turn requires not only more thorough training of new police officers, but constant retraining of the entire force.

The police departments in large cities during the seventies will have to be aware of and sensitive to community feelings and problems, and will have to upgrade recruitment and broaden training programs to develop expertise that the police officer who once walked a beat never had to contend with.

I believe this new input can be more easily achieved under a new police administrator.

Ed McNamara has been a good operations officer. His creation of a Bureau of Inspectional Services in 1961 improved the internal operations of the department. He is now installing the first phase of the most modern communications system in the nation.

He created a Bureau of Community Affairs in 1968 which greatly strengthened understanding between police officers and the people they serve.

But another man must accelerate what Commissioner McNamara has started. I shall search for the best man possible for the job, and I do so with an open mind. I wish Commissioner McNamara the very best and I hope he can continue to be of service to this community.

GO FLY A KITE

The Boston Kite Festival will take place on Saturday, May 13, in Franklin Park. It was announced by Joseph R. Curtis, Commissioner of Parks and Recreation for the city, in conjunction with the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs.

The festival, now in its fourth year, is taking place as a traditional celebration of spring for the Boston area. Last year the event attracted 15,000 spirited children and adults to Franklin Park's golf course.

"April 2, 1972.

To the men of Ladder 6.

GENTLEMEN:

In 1912, when I was in the fourth grade in a Dorchester school, the teacher gave the class a composition to write, the title of which was "What I am going to be when I grow up." I chose as my subject, "A Fireman" and went on to say that firemen not only put out fires but also helped people who were hurt and sometimes saved their lives.

On March 18, 1972 (60 years later) you gentlemen rushed to my home at 3 Meadowbank Avenue, Mattapan, after having put out a fire at about 12 midnight and administered oxygen to me until my breathing became sufficiently normal for me to be rushed to the hospital and administered the intensive care necessary to put me back on my feet. Today I have been returned home from the hospital.

My entire family joins me with heartfelt thanks for what you have done for us and with our thanks go our prayers that the Lord Himself will protect you in all your futures.

Most sincerely,

JAMES P. (JIM) DOHERTY,
3 Meadowbank Avenue
Mattapan 02126."

Summerthing "Sunset Series" Starts Second Season

Mayor Kevin H. White on May 3 announced continuation of the popular "Sunset Series on the Common," with performances by some of today's biggest recording stars. The series will be sponsored by the Falstaff Brewing Corporation for the benefit of Summerthing.

The twenty-concert series is slated to open June 19 and continue, generally, every Monday and Wednesday on Boston Common through August 23, with Tuesdays and Thursdays scheduled as rain dates. The concerts on the Common baseball field, which will be enclosed to accommodate an audience of 12,000, will begin at 6 P.M.

Similar to last year, the series will offer a broad range of talent to suit all tastes. Acts booked to date include Jose Feliciano, The Beach Boys, and Blood, Sweat, and Tears.

In extending the city's appreciation to Falstaff for its sponsorship of the concert series, Mayor White said: "It is both encouraging and refreshing to see business take an active role in providing a valuable service that in these financially difficult times we could not afford to undertake ourselves."

"Not only will the young people of our city have an opportunity to see and hear today's top recording talent at a modest price, but Summerthing will be able to expand its free activities in the neighborhoods with proceeds from the concerts."

The concerts are produced by Summerthing at no cost to the city. Under its arrangement with Falstaff, Summerthing will receive ten percent of the gross receipts from each concert plus any net profit at the end of the series.

Albert C. Hoffmeister, Falstaff's Northeast and Atlantic Regions General Manager, said: "While we have sponsored many events in other cities across the nation, this is the first time we have made a major commitment of this kind in Boston. It is also pleasing to know that through these concerts we are helping the free entertainment and creative workshop programs of Summerthing, Boston's unique neighborhood festival." The Northeast regional offices of Falstaff are located in Cranston, Rhode Island.

Last year the concert series drew more than 114,000 persons to the Common for nineteen performances ranging from the Clancy Brothers to Joan Baez, Richie Havens, and the Allman Brothers.

Noting that Sunset Series ticket prices would remain at $2.50 for the 1972 series, Katharine D. Kane, director of the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs and Summerthing, said that Summerthing and Falstaff were happy to be able to place a "price freeze" on Sunset admissions. Mrs. Kane said she was confident that capacity audiences would enable Summerthing to realize as much as $25,000 from the ten-week series.

Summerthing Executive Producer George Davis, who will again be producer of the Sunset Series, said that he had already taken steps to improve concert conditions this summer. A new sound system will enhance reception inside the concert site while reducing the sound level outside the immediate area. After each performance, litter will be collected from adjacent areas in the Public Garden as well as the Common. And finally, said Mr. Davis, meetings with parking officials are planned to try to work out any anticipated concert night parking problems.

A complete lineup of stars for the 1972 Sunset Series will be announced at a later date.

NEW APPOINTMENTS

A. Reginald Eaves was appointed May 4 by Mayor White as Boston's Penal Commissioner, succeeding Joseph V. McBrine who has been appointed to the newly created post as chief security for the Public Facilities Department. Mr. Eaves will receive an annual salary of $15,000. Mr. McBrine, a former Boston police detective, will receive $16,500.

Mayor White praised Mr. McBrine as a "dedicated and effective penal commissioner for more than ten years."

Of Mr. Eaves, the Mayor said "he possesses the qualities, awareness, and necessary attributes to be penal commissioner in a difficult time in which our Atticas, our Walpoles, and our Norfolks have caused us to reevaluate the concept of penal institutions and review the concept of prison reform."

CITY HALL EXHIBITS

Experimental etchings (100 original prints from the experimental etching studio) are currently on display through May 31 in the gallery in City Hall.

The City Art Fest will be displayed Monday, July 10, to Friday, July 28; Monday-Friday, 10 A.M. to 4 P.M., Saturday, 10:30 A.M. to 3:30 P.M., also in the gallery.

HOUSING INSPECTION DEPARTMENT ANNOUNCEMENT

Commissioner Francis Gens of the Housing Inspection Department (HID) announced on May 4 that housing inspectors and rehabilitation experts will be available to homeowners throughout the city to offer advice on removing dangerous lead-based paint from the home.

Commenting that there are at least 100,000 homes with lead paint on the inside, Mr. Gens said that his department will be doing everything possible to combat this serious danger to young children.

Youngsters up to age six who eat lead paint chips are susceptible to illness, brain damage, or even death, according to medical authorities.

The presence of lead-based paint within the home is a violation of both the City and State Sanitary Codes. As of January 1, 1973, the state will also outlaw its use on the exterior of homes.

Residents who desire advice from HID should contact that department at City Hall.

The department will inspect the building, tell the owner how much it will cost to correct the situation, and recommend contractors who are qualified to do the work. In addition, city inspectors will oversee the work, insuring that it meets code requirements, if the owner wishes.

"The intent of this program is to make expert advice available to everyone in the city," Mr. Gens said. "We're following Mayor White's policy of making the Housing Inspection Department a service agency as well as an enforcement agency."

He also advised that deleading of apartments may take several forms. Owners may scrape the paint off, or may cover walls with paneling or wallpaper.

Last year there were approximately 600 lead-paint violations reported to the city. More than 400 violations have been reported so far this year.

THINKING OF BUYING A HOME?

A new pamphlet entitled Wise Home Buying is turning out to be a consumer best seller and not just because it is free!

The 36-page booklet, issued by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, contains a detailed account of the elements involved in buying a home.

Some of the topics discussed are how to shop for a house, things to look for in making an inspection, and what to do when it comes to financing the home purchase.

Also included is a glossary of terms commonly used in real estate transactions.

Thousands of copies of Wise Home Buying have already been distributed. It is available at no charge at any of the eighty-seven HUD offices throughout the country, or by writing to the Publications Service Center, Room B-258, United States Department of Housing and Urban Development, 451-7th Street, S.W., Washington, D. "INSTANT" POST OFFICES

The "instant" post office is alive and doing well in the United States Postal Service.

Instant?

Almost. New mobile post offices which have been deployed around the country in recent months can be on the scene of a disaster or local emergency within a matter of hours.

Forty-two of these temporary post offices were purchased as a means of providing continuing postal service in areas where post offices are destroyed or damaged by fires, floods, storms, earthquakes, or other disasters.

Their value was illustrated most recently when one of the moveable units was dispatched to the flood-ravaged area of Logan County, West Virginia, where three post offices were swept away by flood waters. The mobile retail unit had been assigned to Charleston, West Virginia.

The mobile post offices also are available for use in nondisaster situations, supplementing existing facilities during peak mailing periods such as Christmas, at resort areas during vacation time, and at state fairs and large conventions. They can also be used when existing facilities are being remodeled or expanded.

The design of the forty by ten foot mobile units provides for all customer services, purchasing stamps and mailing parcels, for example, plus carrier delivery if necessary.

With attachment of a generator, the unit is self-sustaining and provides power, water, and sewage disposal through hook-up with existing facilities.

All-weather climate control is provided for the comfort of customers and postal employees.

The first of the new units was used as the official post office of National Postal Forum V, a gathering of top postal officials and major mailers, at the Washington Hilton Hotel last September. A special cancellation was designed and used in the Forum Post Office.

UCS ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

United Community Services of Metropolitan Boston, the voluntary human service planning and budgeting council for over 200 agencies in 67 Massachusetts Bay area cities and towns, elected at its annual meeting (April 25) a new president, four new vice presidents, and a treasurer to its board of directors.

Elected president was M. Daniel Richardson, Jr., of Boston. The four new vice presidents are: Miss Velia T. DiCesare of Hyde Park, Arthur T. Gartland of Scituate, Richard B. O'Keefe of Peabody, and Mrs. Gregory Rochlin of Cambridge. Kenneth R. Rossano of Wellesley was chosen treasurer.

Three vice presidents were re-elected: Mario A. Clavell of Brighton, James H. Lowell, 2nd, of Westwood, and F. Frank Vorenberg of Cambridge.

HUB STUDENTS PRESENT MUSIC FESTIVAL

More than 500 students from grade school to high school age presented three hours of music that ranged from simple to sophisticated at the fifty-first annual Boston Public Schools Music Festival on May 7, in John Hancock Hall.

For the first time in the history of the festival, members of the music teaching staff in the public school system joined with their students to present a grand finale featuring the combined choruses and instrumental ensembles of the school system.

Peter C. Siragusa, director of music education in Boston public schools, conducted the finale which featured selections by Irving Berlin and Rodgers and Hammerstein.

Among the highlights of the program, attended by more than 900 persons, were selections of gospel and rock music.

The students participating in the festival represented sixty-five schools.

The program marked the beginning of a week-long series of noon-time concerts by students at Boston City Hall.

JAYWALKERS: TAUGHT, NOT CAUGHT

Gene DiBenedetto, Director of Traffic Safety Education of the Traffic and Parking Department, was interviewed on Channel 7 (New England Tonight), Wednesday, May 3, in reference to the jaywalking situation in Boston. He commented on pedestrian behavior in the downtown area, and praised the Boston police (Traffic Division) for their endless educational drive warning pedestrians of the hazards of jaywalking and citing the most flagrant violators throughout Boston.

Mr. DiBenedetto has been emphasizing his own continued Anti-Jaywalking Program with safety lectures, exhibits, leaflets, and news releases as a reminder. His theme is "Jaywalkers must be taught, not caught," in order to reduce the number of personal injuries and fatalities involving pedestrians.

POSTAL SERVICE UNVEILS NEW ELECTRONIC MACHINE

A new electronic machine capable of sorting more than eight tons of letter mail a day was unveiled on May 4 by the United States Postal Service and Philco-Ford Corporation.

The new machine, installed in the South Postal Annex here in late 1971, and shown to newsmen for the first time, was designed and built by Philco-Ford's Postal and Scanning Systems Operation. The Operation, headed by Ralph G. Clouser, director, is part of the Company's Communications and Technical Services (C & TS) Division at Willow Grove, Pennsylvania, headed by Henry E. Hockeimer, Philco-Ford vice president and division general manager.

C&TS Division designed and built the machine under contract from the United States Postal Service's Research Department in Washington, D.C.

Mr. George Walker, Boston Postmaster, said the electronic machine, an OCR II, eased the crush of Christmas mail by processing more than ten million pieces of letter mail during that crucial period.

The new OCR II at the Boston South Postal Annex is an advanced "second generation" model of the OCR I which Philco-Ford developed earlier for the United States Postal Service. The company has previously delivered and installed twenty OCR I's which are operating in thirteen major post offices including Boston. The OCR I in Boston has been operational since late 1967.

Mr. Walker describes the Optical Character Reader as operating through an electronic eye or electro-optical scanner, linked to a computer brain and mechanical arm. The eye scans envelopes to locate and read addresses relaying that information to the computer brain, which checks its address memory to determine where to send the letter. The "mechanical" arm is the letter sorting machine which carries each letter to the proper destination bin.

The OCR II, using two operators, can feed the letter sorting machine at the rate of 42,000 per hour, directing letters into 305 destination bins. By comparison, current manual position letter sorting machines having twelve operator positions, sort into 277 destination bins at the same rate.

The OCR II includes two mail transports which pick off single mail pieces from a mail stack and transport them past a scanning eye at a rate of twelve envelopes a second. The transports easily handle random mixtures of envelopes of various sizes and thicknesses. The transports even signal the operator when they have run out of mail or when operator attention is required.

A "RIGHT" REMINDER

The Registry of Motor Vehicles reminds operators of heavy commercial vehicles that they must keep to the right-hand travel lane on highways with more than one passing lane in the same direction unless they are overtaking or passing, in which case they may use the next adjacent passing or travel lane. No other lanes may be used except in an emergency.

Heavy commercial vehicles are defined as those in excess of two and one half tons used for transportation of goods, wares, and merchandise.

This right lane law does not apply to buses.

FINGERPRINTING AIR POLLUTION

Fingerprinting dirt particles in the air? What better way to track down pollutants?

No one knows why New York City has more and more dirt in its air despite tighter pollution control measures. But a new electronic system now being tested in the city may find out why by precisely identifying the pollutants, many of which cannot be seen by the naked eye.

The system involves a microprobe, a kind of electron microscope, whose beam can zero in on the atoms of dirt particles. When the electronic beam hits, an atom gives off a distinctive X ray. Each particle of dirt is made up of several different kinds of atoms and therefore has a distinctive pattern of X rays. Each particle can, in effect, be fingerprinted. Then a particle from an auto exhaust can be distinguished from a particle from an incinerator or one from debris at a construction site.

Dr. Irving J. Selikoff is director of the Environmental Sciences Laboratory at Mount Sinai School of Medicine in New York City, where the new system is being tested. In the study of pollutants, lungs from autopsies, he said, would be examined to find out what kind of pollution was reaching and staying in people's lungs.

Tracking down air pollution is a job for scientists and concerned citizens alike. See your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association to find out how you can help. It's a matter of life and breath.

HOUSING PROGRAM FOR ELDERLY EXPANDED

The Department of Housing and Urban Development is predicting an all-time record this fiscal year in financing specially designed subsidized housing and nursing homes for the elderly.

"We are doing several things," said HUD Secretary George Romney, "to attune our programs to the needs of our older Americans."

"At a time in their life when earning years have ended, many lack the means to provide adequately for their housing and to function in the life of the community. What we are doing to reshape and refine our programs to better serve elderly needs will, we hope, assist them in continuing as responsible and responsive members of that community."

Under HUD's public housing and Section 236 subsidized rental housing programs 66,000 specially designed subsidized units will be funded. In addition, accommodations for over 14,000 people will be provided this year under the nursing and intermediate care facility program. Finally, a substantial number of this year's nearly 600,000 HUD-assisted housing units will be utilized for the elderly.

New guidelines have been issued for the Section 236 housing for low-income elderly tenants. They cover site location, proximity to social and service facilities, and more flexible cost levels for development and operation.

The department has also set up new guidelines for congregate housing of elderly tenants in the public housing, Section 236, and rent supplement programs. For elderly and handicapped persons who need assistance in day-to-day living, but for whom a long-term care facility would be both premature and expensive, congregate housing will include central dining facilities.

HUD will also extend the mortgage maturity for its FHA-insured nursing home program up to a maximum of forty years. Extending the mortgage term will make it consistent with FHA practice on housing for the elderly and will have the effect of reducing monthly occupancy charges to patients. When appropriate, furthermore, the uniform mortgage term will permit sponsors to "package" residential and nursing home complexes — an advantageous grouping of facilities that makes it possible for the elderly person to move from an apartment to the nursing facility without leaving accustomed friends and surroundings.

Finally, guidelines have been issued for the new Section 106(a) program which will furnish technical information to nonprofit sponsors of low- and moderate-income housing, including specially designed housing for the elderly.

MUSEUM OF SCIENCE MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

The spring drive by Boston's Museum of Science to recruit new business members culminates May 27 at a Pops concert conducted by Arthur Fiedler.

The celebration is made possible by the Electronics Division of Northrop Corporation, Norwood, which has offered a table at Northrop Night at the Pops to the first forty firms joining the Museum. The offer also applies to present business members that raise their dues.

Given last year for the first time, the bonus was arranged to focus interest on the Museum's business membership program.

Northrop Vice President David N. Ferguson says Northrop has long valued its own membership "not only because of the benefits accruing to the community, but also because of the meaningful benefits realized by our employees."

Participating business and industrial firms received free passes for employees and their families as an introduction to the expanding museum, which this summer opens the first section of an extensive new wing.

In turn, the museum uses membership dues to help support programs, courses, and a wide range of exhibits.

The museum's membership campaign has been led by a team of volunteer solicitors from several Greater Boston companies. To date, they have enlisted twenty-six new business members.

VIII. HAZARDOUS BUILDING

The building located at 29 Balsam Street, Dorchester, is in hazardous condition due to many structural weaknesses. In case of fire in this building, members shall use extreme caution. The building has been posted.

IX. HIGH COMMENDATIONS

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend Fire Fighter John F. Curran of Ladder Company 1 who responded to a fire at 1-3 Telegraph Street and 234 Dorchester Street, South Boston, on March 13, 1972. Fire Fighter Curran, who was off duty at the time, sounded an alarm from Box 7412 and returned to the building where his attention was drawn to a male occupant who was on a balcony fire escape at the second floor level. Lacking a ladder, he calmed the man and informed him that fire apparatus was en route to the scene.

He then heard screams emanating from the Telegraph Street side of the building and immediately went to Telegraph Street where a woman was trapped at a third-floor window from which smoke was issuing. He attempted to reach her via the front hallway but could not, due to the fact that the hallway was involved in fire.

A repair truck of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company had stopped at the scene of the fire. With the assistance of the driver and other civilians, Fire Fighter Curran removed a ladder from the truck and raised it to the side of the building where, fully extended, it reached a point just below the sill of the window of the room where the woman was trapped. He climbed the ladder, removed the remaining glass and sash of the window, and assisted the woman onto the ladder, and then to the street. He administered first aid to her badly lacerated hands and arms until she was removed to the Boston City Hospital.

The rescue work was performed at unusual personal risk, and it appears that Fire Fighter Curran probably saved the woman's life.

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to highly commend Fire Fighters Edward V. Lowney of Engine Company 1 and James J. Shea of Ladder Company 19 for rescue work performed by them opposite 314 West Second Street at 1326 hours on April 17, 1972.

Upon arrival at the scene, the department was informed by Boston Edison employees that a boy was at the bottom of an excavation about fifteen feet below ground level, where there was a steam pipe approximately twenty inches in diameter which was carrying steam at 550° F. There was also an accumulation of hot water at the bottom of the excavation, and the boy was lying in this water.

Fire Fighter Lowney descended into the hole and pulled the boy up on a mound of dirt in the excavation. Fire Fighter Shea joined him, and both members brought the boy over a ladder to ground level where he was removed to the Boston City Hospital.

In performing this rescue work, Fire Fighters Lowney and Shea had to work in close proximity to the hot steam pipe, exposing themselves to danger of burns from the pipe or through falling into the hot water in the pit.

They performed their duty under great personal risk and without thought of their own safety.

X. COMMENDATION

Fire Fighter Bradley F. Rattigan of Engine Company 17 is hereby commended for responding to and working at fire, Box 177, two alarms, on April 20, 1972, while he was off duty.

Mayor Extends PWD Cleanup Campaign

Mayor Kevin H. White announced recently the city will depart from its traditional month-long cleanup campaign this year in favor of a continuing program between now and the first snowfall.

All of the special services normally offered by the Public Works Department during May will again be provided this year, but also will be available, within budgetary limitations, until the fall by special request of community groups. These services include use of large dempster boxes, collection by contractors of bulky items and large accumulations of household trash, and vacant lot cleaning.

In addition, the Mayor said meter maids will precede street cleaning crews and strictly enforce the "no parking" regulations, but in a somewhat different manner than past years.

In areas where signs indicate the days and hours of street cleaning, cars will be permitted to park on the street once the street has been cleaned, regardless of the hour. Also, if because of inclement weather the Public Works Department cannot clean the street on schedule, cars parked on the street in violation of the posted regulation will not be tagged.

"This is a fair but commonsense policy, the aim of which is to assist the Public Works Department in sweeping debris from the gutters," Mayor White said. "There is nothing to be gained from enforcing the 'no parking' regulations once the cleaning has been accomplished."

In sections of the city where there are no signs indicating street cleaning days, the streets are cleaned on the day following refuse collection, according to Public Works Commissioner Joseph F. Casazza.

The even-numbered side will be cleaned between 8 A.M. and noon, and the odd-numbered side between noon and 4 P.M. Cars equipped with a public address system will be used to inform residents that the street is about to be cleaned and to urge them to cooperate by moving their cars.

In addition, the Office of Public Service once again is planning a summer work program under which neighborhood youths are hired by the city to do a variety of neighborhood projects, including cleaning of vacant lots, building new playgrounds, and repairing recreational equipment.

The city this year was able to get an early start on street cleaning activities by having sweeping equipment repaired by private contractors during the winter, Mr. Casazza said. This, coupled with the fact that the first snowfall came relatively late, left only a few months when the city was unable to sweep the streets, he added.

To get the program rolling, intensified cleanup activities have commenced in the neighborhoods during May on a schedule worked out with local Little City Hall managers, Mr. Casazza said. A four-week schedule to rid the streets, vacant lots, and alleys of winter's debris has been established, with one or more weeks designated for each district.

The Public Works Department will provide the following special services:

Dempster Boxes

Large dempster boxes will be furnished for use of community groups during weekends when they have scheduled cleanup activities. Some twenty-five boxes will be available each weekend and their locations will be announced in advance.

Vacant Lot Cleaning

Requests for the cleaning of vacant lots submitted by individuals or civic groups will be coordinated by the local Little City Hall.

Abandoned Car Removal

Requests for the removal of abandoned cars will be processed by the PWD in cooperation with the Police Department.

Alley Cleaning

Cleaning of private alleys in the South End and lower Roxbury will be carried out by the Sanitary Division and in the public alleys of the Back Bay by the Highway Division.

Refuse Collection

CITY HALL HOSTS HOBBY SHOW

The twenty-second annual Senior Citizens' Hobby Show, sponsored by the Commission on the Affairs of the Elderly, will take place Thursday, June 15, in City Hall. The success of the show is due mainly to the exceptionally talented senior citizens themselves who have contributed to its increasing popularity.

The show drew more than 12,000 hobbyists last year. The majority were Bostonians, but many visitors from all over Massachusetts also attended. A fashion show titled "Ageless Fashions" will be directed by the fashion group of Boston featuring forty elderly who will model fashions specially designed to please our older folks. Any clubs or individuals desiring to display their arts or crafts, may contact Mrs. Lorraine Cavanaugh at the Commission on Affairs of the Elderly at 722-4100, Ext. 125.

CHARLES G. HADDAD

Charles G. Haddad, employed by the City of Boston for more than thirty years and a member of the Traffic and Parking Department for almost twenty-one years, died suddenly May 9. Mr. Haddad, who would have celebrated his seventieth birthday on May 12, was chief investigator for the Traffic and Parking Department, in charge of all licensed parking lots in the city. He was a long-time resident of West Roxbury.

An honorable, respected, and diligent worker, he will be sadly missed by his fellow workers. He is survived by his beloved wife, Mary G. (Thormber); sons, George C., of East Boston, and Charles M., of West Roxbury; sisters, Mrs. George (Sophie) Habeeb, Mrs. Itali (Jennie) Habeeb, and Mrs. Harry (Rose) LaCours, all of Everett. Also survived by three grandchildren.

The funeral was held from the Frederick J. Crosby Funeral Home, West Roxbury, Saturday, May 13, followed by a Funeral Mass in the Cathedral of Our Lady of the Annunciation, Roslindale. Interment was in Gethsemane Cemetery, West Roxbury.

DOT LEGISLATION LAGS

May 27 through June 4, TRANSP0 '72 will take place at Dulles Airport in Washington, D. C. Major item of interest to Boston will be display of Personal Rapid Transit systems. High-speed rail service from Boston to New York seems distant as ever given the inability of the DOT to get legislation through the Nixon Office of Budget Management. Congress in the interim appears to be on the verge of giving AMTRAK more money despite heavy losses. Air Transport industry also having its ups and downs with the courts overturning a California ordinance imposing a curfew on the grounds that federal government has preempted noise abatement but then facing a court ruling that passenger head taxes can be levied locally. Several states including Massachusetts have head tax bills under consideration at this time. The Commonwealth's bid to acquire approximately 140 miles of Penn Central rights-of-way in the Boston region for $19.5 million will be at stake when the Penn Central Trustees go before Judge Fullam in the Philadelphia District Court (in charge of Penn Central Reorganization) to gain approval of the sale. Some opposition to the sale may come from attorneys for the defunct New Haven Railroad who are creditors under the reorganization.

BPL REELECTIONS

Sidney R. Rabb, Chairman of the Board of Stop & Shop, Inc., was reelected President of the Board of Trustees of the Boston Public Library at the annual meeting on May 10.

The Right Reverend Edward G. Murray was reelected Vice President of the Board. Other Trustees of the Public Library are Erwin D. Canham, Augustin H. Parker, and Mrs. Patricia H. White.

False Fire Alarms

FROM PEACE CORPS TO BRANCH STAFF

Youth, happiness, and a desire to serve emanate from the well-scrubbed, well-groomed librarians who man the various areas of the Library. So much so that it is difficult to see, at a glance, how they can possibly have any understanding of the pressing needs of the citizens of their community. How they can understand the effects of skyrocketing food prices, a rapidly deteriorating environment, drug addiction, unemployment, or other problems which rise too often to make living in a civilized city a struggle in a social jungle. Yet, surprisingly they do. And, they do understand due to their diverse backgrounds. Sometimes the public they serve is fortunate enough to be invited to hear about and see where the paths of their experiences have taken them prior to their employment by the Library.

Codman Square's senior citizens had the opportunity to see what happens when one visits the Fiji Islands, on Wednesday, May 10. The visit to this distant part of the world was conducted with the aid of color slides by Mrs. Diane Holzheimer, Adults Worker, who formerly served with Mrs. Joan Hamilton, now an adults worker at the South End Branch, in the Peace Corps on the Islands.

A similar program was conducted last month by Branch Librarian Katherine Dibble of the Hyde Park Branch Library who described her experiences with the Peace Corps in the Philippines.

It seems that Peace Corps assignments among people with completely different ways of life has imbued these staff members with a deep understanding (and therefore, respect) for all people of all ages. Children's worker Margaret Haseltine of Uphams Corner Branch Library is planning a program during the following months based on her Peace Corps teaching assignment in Thailand. She has brought back several Thai folk tales which may interest the youngsters from Dorchester. The date for her program is to be announced.

HUB HOTEL SALES SHOW INCREASE

Total sales in hotels nationally for the month of March were three percent higher than in March, 1971, and occupancy was up by one percentage point to 62 percent, according to Laventhol Krekstein Horwath & Horwath.

The accounting firm said in its monthly trend of business report that despite the national rises, regional fluctuations tended to be much sharper than those nationally.

Sales showed an upturn in five of the areas polled by the firm, but a downturn in eight other areas. Metropolitan areas, in particular, continued a downtrend, with only Washington, D. C., and Philadelphia scoring sales gains, according to the LKH&H report.

Harris, Kerr, Forster & Co. said that Boston also had an increase in both room sales and occupancy for the month of March.

Room sales in Boston were up by 8.2 percent compared with March, 1971. The room rate increased by 2.1 percent. Occupancy in the Hub averaged 68 percent this March compared with 64.1 percent in March, 1971, HKF said.

BOSTON B RUINS RANGERS

The last time "Stanley was Boston's cup of tea" Mayor Kevin H. White threw a city celebration honoring the Bruins to salute their winning the 1969-1970 Stanley Cup. This year the Bruins have done it again, and Boston followed suit with an even bigger and better hail to the champions. The Mayor declared Friday, May 12, as Boston Bruins Champions Day.

Beginning at 11:30, on Friday, May 12, hockey fans were invited to fill City Hall Plaza in honor of the Bruins. The Boston Fire Department Band and the 27th Lancers of Revere were on hand to set the tempo. An enthusiastic crowd of 30,000, crowded the plaza giving evidence of their loyalty to the victorious Bruins.

Announcer Fred Cusick, master of ceremonies, started the official ceremonies at approximately 1:30. Leading them to a balcony overlooking the Plaza, Mayor White introduced club owner Weston Adams, Jr., Coach Tom Johnson, and Trainer Dan Canney, as well as all the Bruins and their wives. With balloons and banners flying, and fans cheering, presentation of a captain's chair bearing the city seal was made by the Mayor to each member of the team. In addition, each received a declaration singling out each man for his contribution to the team's overall performance.

And as the declaration stated:

"... The Bruins have engendered civic spirit and pride seldom equaled by any group in Boston.... It is hoped, therefore, that the citizens of this city will help honor the team on Boston Bruins Day, May 12, by turning out at City Hall Plaza."

EDITOR'S NOTE: They certainly did; at least 30,000 fans, young and old, welcomed their heroes on that happy day.

TESTING FOR TB AT WORK

Mass testing for TB in children is being de-emphasized these days. But tuberculin testing in industry is on the increase.

There are reasons for the change of emphasis. For one thing, only a small percentage of children who are tested in school programs show a positive reaction to the tuberculin test. Tuberculin testing identifies people who have tuberculous infections; these people can be given preventive treatment so they will not develop active disease.

Once children and even adults with tuberculous infections are spotted, however, it can be a problem to convince them to take pills so they will not develop active TB. The situation is quite different in industry.

TB can be eradicated. And preventive programs in industry can play a central role in controlling the disease. See your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. They have the facts.

CONGRATULATIONS

Top honors in the Culinary Arts Salon competition, sponsored at the New England Hotel-Motel and Restaurant Show each year by the Epicurean Club of Boston, this year went to Chef John McConnon of McConnon Caterers, Roslindale, Mass.

The Class A award for Complete Confectionery and Pastry went to Chef Bruce Thomas, Ken's at Copley, Boston.

Grand prize winner, John McConnon also took first prize in Class F, Complete Buffet. Second prize was awarded to Dan Hall, food director, Servomation-Wilbur, Stoneham, Mass. Chef Bruce Thomas, Ken's at Copley, won third prize.

MOTORCYCLE LICENSE TESTS

Motorcycle learners' permits and license road tests are now being conducted at all of the thirty-four district offices of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, Registrar David J. Lucey announced on May 12.

It is now possible to utilize all of the offices for these tests because many more registry examiners are now qualified to examine applicants for motorcycle licenses.

The previous policy restricted these tests to fourteen locations and due to the increase in the popularity of these vehicles and the increased number of applicants a backlog and long waiting periods for road tests have been the result.

Registrar Lucey announces this new policy to eliminate this backlog and to make it more convenient for an individual to be tested nearer his home, and with only a minimum waiting period for an appointment. The applicant will no longer be required to provide an automobile for the use of the examiner during the road test.

MARY V. CALLANAN

Hundreds of City Hall workers were saddened when they were informed of the sudden death of Mary V. Callanan, retired, of Dorchester, on May 12. Miss Callanan was always pleasant, courteous, and devoted to her duties as an employee of the City of Boston for almost thirty years.

She was an administrative assistant to the Register of Probate Court, a member of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, and for eight years worked as administrative secretary to former Mayor John F. Collins. She is survived by her beloved sister, Catherine A. O'Donnell of Dorchester. She was the daughter of the late Thomas J. and Annie (Manning) Callanan, aunt of Anne F. O'Neill of Malden, Patricia M. O'Donnell and Thomas F. O'Donnell, both of Dorchester.

A Funeral Mass was celebrated Tuesday, May 16, in St. Margaret's Church, Dorchester. Interment was in Mt. Benedict Cemetery, West Roxbury. May she rest in peace.

'PIKE CELEBRATES FIFTEENTH

The Massachusetts Turnpike officially opened to traffic on May 16, 1957.

During its first full year of operation the Turnpike served approximately ten million vehicles. It has grown since those early days to a record thirty-two million vehicles that used the initial Massachusetts Turnpike in 1971. These vehicles traveled in excess of one billion miles during the past year over the original Turnpike from Route 128 to the New York State line.

In noting the fifteenth anniversary, Chairman John T. Driscoll said he is "proud of the record of service to the public established by the Massachusetts Turnpike Authority during these years." He said, "The greatest single accomplishment is the safety record established by the Massachusetts Turnpike."

This safety record has improved each year despite many million more miles of travel on the Turnpike.

Figures released recently from Washington, D. C., indicated that the Massachusetts Turnpike was among the safest in the United States of America.

Chairman Driscoll credits this safety record to the recent improvements to the Turnpike and in particular to the outstanding service provided by the Massachusetts State Police assigned to the Turnpike as well as the Emergency Service Patrols and maintenance crews constantly on the alert to assist the motorists. The Massachusetts Turnpike patrols assisted in excess of 33,000 disabled motorists during 1971.

NO. 22

Mayor Announces Plans For "Boston 200"

Boston, the city that lit the fuse of the American Revolution, is preparing a civic, cultural, and economic explosion that may set off a much needed urban renaissance in the last quarter of the twentieth century.

At an announcement in Boston's Faneuil Hall on May 16 Mayor Kevin H. White unveiled preliminary plans for Boston 200, the city's observance of the American Revolution.

Boston's observance, which includes activities spanning tourism, education, art, and physical improvements, will begin in 1975, the 200th anniversary of the events at Concord, Lexington, and Bunker Hill that led a year later to the Declaration of Independence.

"Boston 200 incorporates a new concept," the Mayor said. "We have rejected the traditional fair ground approach and have declared the new exposition grounds to be the city itself. This approach can be summarized in a phrase, 'The City is the Exhibit.' Its implementation relies not so much on new construction, but rather on what already exists—our historic resources, our institutions, and our people.

"We plan to commemorate the past and also build a foundation for the future. The slogan for Boston 200 is 'Celebration of the Past—Prologue to the Future.'"

Present at the event were members of the national American Revolution Bicentennial Commission; Boston Redevelopment Authority Director Robert T. Kenney, who has been named chairman of the steering committee for Boston 200; and committee members Katharine D. Kane, director of the city's Office of Cultural Affairs and Gerald Bush, director of the Department of Commerce and Manpower.

Pointing out that this announcement is intended only to provide a foundation for events planned during the next three years, the Mayor said that Boston 200 will involve extensive environmental improvements, with emphasis given to restoration of parks and open spaces, as well as general upgrading of Boston's many historic sites.

The Mayor pointed out special lighting effects installed at the Boston Public Library in Copley Square and renovations under way on the Parkman House on Beacon Hill as forerunners of the public improvement programs. He also said that extensive rehabilitation would be done on the Public Garden and Common.

"The focal point of Boston 200 will be this very hall and the adjacent market buildings, as well as the Pathway to the Sea, a pedestrian mall that will extend from City Hall Plaza to a waterfront park," he said.

The Mayor stated that some funds have already been allocated for portions of this project and that work would begin within a few weeks on the restoration of buildings on North and South Market Streets.

The district from City Hall to the waterfront is planned as a reception area and visitor center for tourists. Facilities might include historic exhibits, tourist information, guidebooks, films, a reservation desk for lodgings, and shops and restaurants. Many facilities would have an ongoing, permanent use.

The Mayor also stressed that "company's coming," many thousands of tourists whose interest in Boston will be stimulated by worldwide interest in the nation's 200th anniversary.

"Perhaps the most unusual component of Boston 200 is the concept of Progress Paths—inventories of places, people, events, and ideas that document the past and present resources of the city," the Mayor said.

The inventory of information on education, for example, will be assembled by a select committee, he explained. This information could be computerized and an individual, by obtaining a computer print-out, would be able to visit people, places, and events illustrating Boston's continuing contribution to education.

The number of paths and sites to visit, he added, are virtually limitless, but will probably cover general categories, such as religion, culture, government, health, business, science, and communications.

Another major goal of Boston 200 will be to bring into reality the so called "Emerald Necklace," the encircling park system envisioned 100 years ago by the great landscape planner Frederick Law Olmsted.

"At present there are no national or state funds earmarked for the bicentennial," Mayor White said. "While we are optimistic that there will be some money available later, Boston is going to build its plan around existing federal funds for transportation, parks, and other purposes, and studies are now under way in those areas."

He said the real hope is that Boston's educational, cultural, social, and business institutions will "seize the opportunity" to bring about changes of lasting importance to the city.

New England Telephone, John Hancock Life Insurance Company, the Museum of Fine Arts, and other organizations have already indicated their intention to mark the bicentennial with major undertakings, according to BRA Director Robert Kenney.

Mrs. Kane, head of the Office of Cultural Affairs and of the popular Summerthing program, said the committee is hoping for "the widest possible participation by private individuals all over the city and not just large institutions and businesses."

Mrs. Kane's office will oversee programs and events. The BRA, as the city's planning agency, will be responsible for environmental improvements, transportation, planning, and administration. Gerald Bush, director of Commerce and Manpower, will supervise economic expansion, visitor services, and promotion.

Several advisory committees will be appointed later, Mr. Kenney said.

Individuals who wish to volunteer their time and support may telephone or write to the Boston 200 office at Boston City Hall. While there may be no services needed during the initial planning stages, all names will be recorded and contacted later.

The announcement in Faneuil Hall, an aged building cited by the Mayor as famous throughout the country for its role in the war for American independence, was followed by a luncheon in Boston's modern and unusual City Hall for members of the national American Revolution Bicentennial Commission and special guests.

NEW SERVICE CENTER FOR SPANISH COMMUNITY

Boston's Model City Program has been notified of the April 20, 1972, approval by the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) of a Neighborhood Facilities Grant of $243,458. The funds will permit renovation of the former District 9 Police Station at 409 Dudley Street for use as a multiservice center for Spanish-speaking residents of the Model Neighborhood.

The total cost of the project will be $365,187, including a local share of $121,729 from the City of Boston in the form of the value of the building and land.

When renovations are completed in about one year the building will house the multiservice program of the Spanish Alliance (Alianza Hispana) which currently operates from a temporary storefront location at 655 Dudley Street, Roxbury.

The Alliance, a local group of Spanish-speaking residents, directs Model City efforts to serve this rapidly growing segment of the city's population. Under a $340,000 contract, the Alliance provides a wide range of services including health, family counseling, help with problems involving children's education and adult literacy, as well as information on housing availability and legal leasing procedures.

The new building will also house other programs for the Spanish-speaking, such as a drug referral and education service, a mental health clinic, and a variety of related social services.

Besides providing much needed services to the community, the multiservice center plays an important role in the comprehensive Model City effort to demonstrate new ways of solving urban problems.

The current grant provides a solid foundation for the program. The Model City Program and the Spanish Alliance will continue, however, to seek additional sources of funding to expand the services offered to the area's Spanish-speaking community.

MEMORIAL DAY

Each year every state in the Union sets aside a day to commemorate the services of the soldiers and sailors in the Civil War and, since 1898, of those in the Spanish-American and other wars.

The custom arose from the practice in the south of decorating the graves of the Confederate dead; this is the derivative of the name "Decoration Day."

Today it is observed in all northern and southern states alike, and in most of the states on the same day, May 30. In many localities, the day has come to be a commemoration for all dead, and graves, even those of nonsoldiers, are decorated with flowers and wreaths.

LET THERE BE LIGHT

The Boston Museum of Fine Arts' well-known "Appeal to the Great Spirit" sculpture, on their front lawn since 1913, will now be lit up at night, thanks to three Boston public service-minded companies. The new system illuminates the Museum's Huntington Avenue and Fenway entrances and lawns.

The lighting, made possible through the efforts of Boston Edison, General Electric, and Herbert A. Holder Company, is another example of industry and the arts working together for the public's benefit.

SELF-SERVICE POST OFFICE

Postmaster George K. Walker wishes to remind customers that 24-hour service, seven days a week, is available at the new self-service post office located in the lobby of the General Post Office at Milk and Devonshire Streets, downtown Boston. Customers may purchase various denominations of stamps and envelopes. The self-service post office also has facilities for weighing and mailing parcel post and for purchasing minimum parcel post insurance.

DR. HORNER, WE'RE PROUD OF YOU

Dr. Matina Souretis Horner, thirty-two, a member of the Harvard University Psychology Department, becomes the sixth president of Radcliffe College on July 1, the youngest ever to be appointed to that post. She will also be Dean of Radcliffe within the Faculty of Arts and Sciences at Harvard.

Dr. Horner specializes in the study of motivation in women, and is the author of a published paper, Femininity and Successful Achievement: a Basic Inconsistency.

Dr. Horner, a cum laude graduate of Bryn Mawr in 1961, has a Ph.D. in psychology from Michigan University. She was chosen number one from 200 candidates, all women.

Her husband John is a physicist at the United States Department of Transportation in Cambridge. This lovely and very happy couple and their three children, aged eight, five, and three, reside in Belmont.

Mrs. Christine Souretis, mother of Dr. Horner, is an employee of the City of Boston's Library Department. When asked how she felt about the wonderful honor bestowed on her beloved daughter, she answered, "Words cannot express my joy; I'm the happiest mother on earth."

DON'T PASS THE SALT

Spring is here. So is salt pollution.

During the winter, salt is spread on highways to melt snow and ice. When spring comes, signs of the winter saltings begin to show. Salt water runoffs from highways sink into the water table. This can affect the soil that plants and trees grow in as well as the drinking water of animals and humans.

According to the Salt Institute, 9.8 million tons of salt were thrown on the nation's highways last winter. Environmentalists are aroused because of the negative effects of salt on wildlife such as rabbits and pheasants. And salty soil is toxic to some plants and trees, such as Vermont's magnificent sugar maples that turn a brilliant red in the fall.

What happens on highways, including the millions of cars that speed along them, affects our lives. Cars are the major source of air pollution. Using public transportation, whenever feasible, can reduce the number of cars on our highways.

There are all kinds of ways to fight pollution. See your tuberculosis and respiratory disease association to find out some of them. It's a matter of life and breath.

RAYMOND J. McCORMACK

Raymond J. McCormack, 66, of East Boston, passed away on May 18. He was the beloved son of the late Daniel and Mary (McKenzie) McCormack. Mr. McCormack was a loyal, respected, and dedicated worker attached to the Treasurer's Office of the City of Boston for more than thirty years. A funeral Mass was celebrated in the Star of the Sea Church, East Boston, Tuesday, May 23. Interment was in Holy Cross Cemetery, Malden.

The Public Garden, adjacent to Boston Common, is beautifully landscaped and displays many noted pieces of statuary.

The famous swan boats operate from the middle of April to the last Sunday in September. The rides cost 25 cents for adults and 15 cents for children.

JOHN W. McCORMACK HONORED

John W. McCormack, retired, former Speaker of the United States House of Representatives, was honored at dedication ceremonies May 19. The John W. McCormack Post Office and Courthouse, located in Post Office Square, has been named in his honor.

A portrait of the Speaker now hangs above a beautiful plaque located in the lobby of the post office.

Mr. McCormack humorously remarked that he was happy he received this wonderful tribute while he is living, rather than in his memory.

"JAMES MICHAEL" HONORED

The name of the world-famous "L Street" bathhouse, located on the Strandway in South Boston, was officially changed on Thursday, May 18, by the Parks and Recreation Commission at the request of Mayor White.

The newly renovated bathhouse will henceforth be known as the James Michael Curley Recreational Center.

Mayor White, in a letter to the Commission, said the facility would serve "as a fitting memorial to the late Mayor, who served this city and its people for over half a century."

ARTS AND CRAFTS EXHIBITION

Visitors strolling through Boston Common on Saturday and Sunday, June 3 and 4, can view oils, watercolors, and charcoals, study sculpture, browse among displays of pottery, jewelry, and other crafts, and even buy an item or two at June Art in the Park. The event is Boston's second annual public exhibition by over 200 artists and craftsmen to be held on the Common each day from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M.

June Art in the Park, which transforms one side of the Common into an open-air gallery, is co-sponsored by the Institute of Contemporary Art, the Mayor's Office of Cultural Affairs, and the Boston Parks and Recreation Department.

Art works and crafts, many for sale, will be displayed in the Common along Beacon and Park Streets and on constructed fences along Common pathways. During each day of the exhibition, music groups will be on hand to entertain passersby.

In the event of rain on June 3, the exhibit will be rescheduled for the weekend of June 10 and 11, and in the event of rain on June 4, the second day of the exhibit will be canceled.

DIRECTIVE NO. 3 INFORMATION BULLETIN May 22, 1972.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

ciation to the members of the Drill Team and all the department personnel that turned out for our brother Ray Jewell's funeral. I have never seen such an impressive performance.

Ray's passing is a very sad loss to us, especially so soon after his wife's passing away and it helped to see so many of the department turn out for him, especially with the very cold weather we had. We sincerely appreciate the thoughtfulness of all the men and also would like to thank everyone for all their help.

Sincerely,

Attention is called to the fact that not less than the minimum salaries and wages set forth in the contract documents must be paid on this project, and that the contractor must ensure that employees and applicants for employment are not discriminated against because of their race, color, religion, sex, or national origin. Attention is also called to the requirements relating to Workmen's Compensation and conditions of employment.

The Boston Redevelopment Authority reserves the right to reject any or all bids or to waive any informalities in bidding, if it be in the public interest so to do.

Bids may be held by the Boston Redevelopment Authority for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days from the date of the opening of bids for the purpose of reviewing the bids and investigating the qualifications of the bidders, prior to awarding the contract.

"Restaurant Row" Slated for Faneuil District

A new restaurant district is shaping up in this city's downtown area between the historic waterfront and the new Government Center complex. Several new restaurants have opened recently to join a cluster of older ones and more could be on the way, according to the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

"The total waterfront development of the Boston Redevelopment Authority will mean a substantial number of new restaurants over the next few years, although it is still too early to project exactly how many," John Sayers, assistant waterfront director, said.

"I predict many restaurants in the Dock Square renewal project over the next five years," Samuel Mintz, architect and owner of the newest operation in Dock Square, added.

If the BRA continues with its plans for the Dock Square and Faneuil Hall areas, it will mean that there will be a need for a number of new restaurants there, Peggy Condrick, spokesman for the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, added.

The area between Dock Square and Government Center houses a cluster of food service establishments — old timers such as Durgin Park and the original Union Oyster House, Brigham's, Tammy's, Bell-in-Hand Tavern, the newer Sea and Surf, the Mayflower, Bette's Rolls Royce, New Deal, and the recently opened Scanbo's.

Just as urban renewal has spurred the rebirth of restaurants in many cities, for example, Denver's Larimer Square, Chicago's Old Town, and San Francisco's Ghirardelli Square, to name a few, urban redevelopment is stimulating similar growth in Boston's historic Dock Square-Faneuil Hall-Government Center area.

Efforts to rejuvenate the area are beginning to flower with the recent opening of Mintz's Scanbo and the new plans of North Property Associates to develop a two-floor restaurant and lounge in Dock Square.

The BRA also has 400,000 square feet of space soon to be developed in its restoration of Faneuil Hall Markets, three buildings which flank the Freedom Trail's historic Faneuil Hall and bids will be opened in the near future for the rehabilitation of some thirty buildings in Dock Square on North and South Market Streets, according to BRA waterfront director David Weiner.

Urban planners like to speak of "mixed land use," and in recent years have tended toward the theory that the downtown areas of cities should consist of subclusters of retail shops, cultural facilities, government buildings, and restaurants.

Architect Samuel Mintz, who was closely involved with the waterfront-Faneuil Hall renewal project for four years, said, "We see Dock Square as a potpourri development of all kinds of uses, not just during the day but at night as well."

It is the BRA's contention that multipurpose zoning of the renewal areas for recreation, historic conservation, retail, and commercial purposes will create a definite need for new food-service establishments.

The proximity of Dock Square's restaurant cluster to downtown, government offices, the historic district, and the financial area gives it access to a varied clientele.

The Dock Square-Faneuil Hall area's blending of old and new particularly appeals to Boston's numerous tourists, a spokesman for the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce Convention and Tourist Bureau said.

She pointed to the significant gains in Boston's tourist traffic in recent years and particularly to Faneuil Hall's 174,000 visitors in 1971, against 150,000 in 1970, as spurs to restaurant growth in the area.

Planners see the opening of new restaurants in formerly empty buildings as a catalyst to new life for the city.

SPANISH LANGUAGE PROJECTS

Habla usted Español?

Spanish-speaking youngsters visiting Boston's Museum of Science through its Project Eye-Opener now tour the exhibit halls with their own Spanish-speaking guide.

Three volunteers, two from Central America and one whose family is from Puerto Rico, are making Museum visits more meaningful for Spanish-speaking children who are eligible for the unique Eye-Opener program. Funded by individual donors and foundations, Project Eye-Opener was inaugurated by the Museum to provide a personalized Museum visit and a special live animal program for second-graders in inner city schools. Last year 5,500 youngsters, many of whom had never been to a museum before, participated in the project.

The availability of Spanish-speaking guides also helps assure that Spanish-speaking youngsters don't miss out on their school's free visit. The two Central American volunteers go to the schools along with other volunteers before the class visit to tell them about the Museum and let them know that the language barrier need not prevent any youngster from enjoying the trip.

Each Monday morning trained volunteers guide the children through Museum exhibit halls in groups of four or five, insuring personal attention for each youngster. The Spanish-speaking children can now hear answers to their questions and explanations of exhibits in their native language.

Sometimes the children know enough English that they prefer to use it. In these cases the bilingual volunteers switch from one language to another as needed.

The three Spanish-speaking guides are Marie Metz of Newton Center, whose family is from Puerto Rico; Patty Augspurg of San Salvador, El Salvador; and Rosita Pasos of Managua, Nicaragua.

Completing their senior year at Newton Country Day School of the Sacred Heart, Patty and Rosita spend five days a week at the Museum as part of a senior project.

Besides working with Eye-Opener children at the Museum and on school visits, they are translating exhibit labels for a Spanish-language guidebook to be made available to any Museum visitor requesting it.

HUMAN RIGHTS FESTIVAL

The Mayor's Office of Human Rights, Clarence Jones, administrator, conducted the Fourth Annual Arts for Human Rights Festival on City Hall Plaza, Wednesday, May 24.

The affair was an informal afternoon of fun and entertainment. Artwork and poetry created by schoolchildren of all ages in the greater Boston area were displayed in City Hall and on the Plaza area. Mayor White awarded the prizes for the winning entries.

While the festival was planned primarily for schoolchildren there was something for people of all ages. A musical comedy group performed on the Plaza steps. Other events included a puppet show and a performance in mime, and those in attendance enjoyed one of the best presentations ever.

NEW BUILDING SYSTEM CUTS COSTS

A building system capable of reducing house material and labor costs by over $1,500 for a typical one-story, three-bedroom detached house was developed under a contract awarded by the Department of Housing and Urban Development to the National Association of Home Builders, Washington, D. C. The three-bedroom 952-square-foot demonstration house, built under the "Optimum Value Engineered" system, used conventional materials and labor skills available throughout the country. Savings resulted through use of adhesive bonded plywood floors and structurally continuous in-line joists; plastic plumbing; a simplified shop fabricated plumbing wall and reduced size venting; and a new electrical wiring device with a prefabricated wiring harness.

FESTIVAL EVENTS PLANNED FOR CHARLES RIVER

A festival to make the people of Boston cognizant of the cultural and recreational potential of the Charles River will be held on June 11 (in case of rain, June 18) along the banks of the river and several communities which border the eighty-mile river.

The Charles River Council is sponsoring the festival. Boston Parks and Recreation Commissioner Joseph E. Curtis and MDC Commissioner John Sears are cochairmen. Concerts and exhibits will be featured all day at the Hatch Shell in Boston and elsewhere; also motorboat parades, fishing derbies, sculling, rafting, drama, kite-flying, ecological exhibits, outings, and art exhibits.

State legislators are pressing for passage of House Bill 389, which would give the MDC a $7 million grant for improving the quality of the river.

FIRE DEPARTMENT ORDERS

May 19.

General Order No. 25

BOARD OF MERIT

The Board of Merit, consisting of the Chief of Department and the Deputy Fire Chiefs, has considered all meritorious acts referred to it for the year 1971. After careful consideration and study, the Board submitted the following recommendations which are hereby approved by the Fire Commissioner:

CASES OF DISTRICT FIRE CHIEF CLARENCE X. FROST, DISTRICT 11; FIRE CAPTAIN JOSEPH L. TEHAN, ENGINE COMPANY 29.

On January 25, 1971, the department responded to a call for assistance at 2000 Commonwealth Avenue, Brighton. Upon arrival at the scene, District Fire Chief Clarence X. Frost of District 11 was notified by the foreman in charge that all the men had been removed safely. Chief Frost dismissed the companies and was standing with the foreman, when suddenly several sections of the sixteen-story building collapsed into the subbasement.

Chief Frost was notified by a worker that a man was trapped in the building. Chief Frost and Captain Joseph L. Tehan of Engine Company 29 immediately ran to a side door, entered the building and groped their way down into the subbasement. Their vision was zero, due to the dust and cement powder from the broken concrete. Both Chief Frost and Captain Tehan crawled into the subbasement section until they reached the collapsed section of flooring piled on top of one another. They then spent several minutes pounding on the pipes and cement walls calling the man's name. After a while it became apparent that there was no one alive in the building, so they returned to the street.

Throughout the entire time these men were in the building, the structure was cracking and moving, and pieces of the remaining building were still falling.

Because these men showed utter disregard for their own lives in entering this building, not knowing whether the remaining sections would fall on them, which is in keeping with the traditions of the Boston Fire Department, the Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 9 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the name of District Fire Chief Clarence X. Frost of District 11 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Captain Joseph L. Tehan of Engine Company 29 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER ROGER M. CORRIGAN, LADDER COMPANY 4.

Ladder Company 4 responded to Box 2123 at 1:20 P.M., March 29, 1971, for a fire in the dwelling at 2 Bataan Court.

Upon arrival they were informed that a small boy was trapped inside the third floor. A thirty-five foot ladder was raised to the bedroom window, and without time to don a gas mask, and before lines were run, Fire Fighter Roger M. Corrigan of Ladder Company 4 ascended the ladder, went through a small window to the bedroom which was charged with excessive smoke, heat, and gases and found the child on the floor. He passed the child out the window to Fire Fighter Austin of Ladder Company 4 who carried him to the ground where he was taken to the Boston City Hospital. Fire Fighter Corrigan continued his search on his hands and knees looking for another person believed to be in the apartment, but none was found.

Meanwhile, fire fighters entering by stairway were subjected to severe heat and smoke. The Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 20 of 1971 for this outstanding rescue which was performed without thought of his own safety but which saved the child from serious injury or death.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Roger M. Corrigan be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASES OF FIRE FIGHTER THOMAS J. FOGEL, ENGINE COMPANY 24; FIRE FIGHTER DENNIS P. GREENWOOD, ENGINE COMPANY 24; FIRE FIGHTER PAUL RICHARDSON, ENGINE COMPANY 24.

At 9:47 P.M., May 10, 1971, the department responded to an alarm from Box 2284 for a fire in a three and one-half story building at 223 and 223A Walnut Avenue, Roxbury.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 24, the members were notified that a man was trapped on the third floor. Fire Fighter Thomas J. Fogel of Engine Company 24, Fire Fighter Dennis P. Greenwood of Engine Company 24, and Fire Fighter on Probation Paul Richardson of Engine Company 24 entered the building, worked their way up the front stairs to the third floor, which was heavily charged with smoke. They groped through the smoke and found an unconscious man lying in a hallway from whence they removed him to the stairway, and to the street, where he was taken to the Boston City Hospital suffering from burns to the head and neck. The rescue work was effected under very trying conditions and before ventilation was accomplished or hose lines were put into operation.

Because of the fact that the foregoing-named fire fighters were instrumental in saving the man's life, without thought of their own safety, the Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 23 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the names of Fire Fighter Thomas J. Fogel, Engine Company 24, Fire Fighter Dennis P. Greenwood, Engine Company 24, and Fire Fighter Paul Richardson, Engine Company 24, be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASES OF FIRE FIGHTER JAMES E. FRANCE, ENGINE COMPANY 39; FIRE FIGHTER JOHN J. MCKENNA, ENGINE COMPANY 39.

At 0741, Sunday, August 22, 1971, the department responded to Box 1583 for a fire in the building at 480 Beacon Street.

While advancing a 2½-inch hose line on the third floor, Fire Lieutenant Charles W. Kimball of Engine Company 39 disappeared in the dense smoke. Upon cautious investigation, Fire Fighters James E. France and John J. McKenna of Engine Company 39 found that Lieutenant Kimball had tripped over a threshold and had fallen into the middle of a burned-out stairwell and had landed across a burning timber. He was apparently partially overcome by smoke, heat, and gases, and was in danger of falling three stories into the basement of the building.

Without any thought of their own safety and with great risk to their persons, Fire Fighters France and McKenna removed Lieutenant Kimball to safety. Lieutenant Kimball sustained burns to both hands. By their prompt and efficient action, it appears that Fire Fighters France and McKenna saved Lieutenant Kimball from serious injuries or death. The Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 37 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the names of Fire Fighter James E. France, Engine Company 39 and Fire Fighter John J. McKenna, Engine Company 39 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASES OF FIRE LIEUTENANT ROBERT A. DOYLE, ENGINE COMPANY 14; FIRE FIGHTER VINCENT G. MAHONEY, ENGINE COMPANY 14; FIRE FIGHTER HENRY J. CULLEN, LADDER COMPANY 30; FIRE LIEUTENANT PAUL J. O'BRIEN, LADDER COMPANY 4.

At 0338 hours on September 7, 1971, the department responded to a fire in the dwelling house at 5 Cedar Street, Roxbury. The fire involved the first floor of a three-story wooden frame dwelling which was occupied by two men. Both men had been bound with wire, saturated with gasoline, and set afire by a third party.

Upon arrival of Engine Company 14, a line was laid from the pumper and advanced into the first floor living room which was heavily charged with smoke and heat. At this time, Lieutenant Robert A. Doyle of Engine Company 14 found the body of a man lying on the bedroom floor. He removed the body to the outside, assisted by Fire Fighter Vincent G. Mahoney. Fire Lieutenant Doyle and Fire Fighter Mahoney re-entered the building with the hose line in conjunction with a second hose line advanced by Engine Company 12. After using both lines, a second body was found deep on the left side of the kitchen. Fire Lieutenant Doyle carried the body a short distance to a point where he was assisted by Fire Lieutenant Paul O'Brien of Ladder Company 4 and Fire Fighter Henry Cullen of Ladder Company 30. The victim was then removed to the street.

Because of the fact that the foregoing-named members performed this rescue work under extremely difficult conditions, and without regard for their own safety, the Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 40 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the names of Lieutenant Robert A. Doyle, Engine Company 14, Fire Fighter Vincent G. Mahoney, Engine Company 14, Fire Fighter Henry J. Cullen, Ladder Company 30, and Fire Lieutenant Paul J. O'Brien, Ladder Company 4 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASES OF FIRE CAPTAIN WARREN A. HARDY, LADDER COMPANY 7; FIRE FIGHTER THOMAS F. MYERS, ENGINE COMPANY 21; FIRE FIGHTER GEORGE W. GIRVAN, LADDER COMPANY 23; FIRE FIGHTER ROBERT J. MCCUE, LADDER COMPANY 23; FIRE FIGHTER JOHN F. CAREY, LADDER COMPANY 23.

At 0034 hours, September 19, 1971, the department responded to an alarm from Box 1771, for a fire in the dwelling house at 76 Glendale Street, Dorchester.

Fire Captain Warren A. Hardy of Ladder Company 7 and Fire Fighter Thomas F. Myers of Engine Company 21, detailed to Ladder Company 7, made their way through a heavy concentration of heat and smoke up the rear stairway to the third floor, and after diligent search and repeated efforts located two adults and a child, all unconscious and commenced to remove them to the street.

Fire Fighters George W. Girvan, John F. Carey, and Robert J. McCue of Ladder Company 23 subsequently made their way to the third floor through the heavy concentration of heat and smoke and assisted in the removal of the victims from the building.

Because of the fact that the foregoing-named members found and removed the victims without thought of their own safety and under very dangerous conditions, the Fire Commissioner commended them highly in General Order No. 45 of 1971.

The Board recommends that Fire Captain Warren A. Hardy of Ladder Company 7 be awarded the Patrick J. Kennedy Medal of Honor.

The Board recommends that Fire Fighter Thomas F. Myers of Engine Company 21 be awarded the Walter Scott Medal for Valor.

The Board recommends that the names of Fire Fighter George W. Girvan, Ladder Company 23, Fire Fighter John F. Carey, Ladder Company 23, and Fire Fighter Robert J. McCue, Ladder Company 23 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER PAUL A. CHRISTIAN, LADDER COMPANY 20

At 0040 hours, October 16, 1971, the department responded to Box 7261 for a fire in the dwelling house at 15 Washburn Street, Dorchester, for which two alarms were sounded. Upon arrival of Ladder Company 20, the members were informed that several people were trapped on the upper floors of the house.

Fire Fighter Paul A. Christian and other members of Ladder Company 20 entered the building via the front stairs and ascended to the second floor. Upon reaching the second floor landing, the members were severely hampered by intense smoke and heat, but Fire Fighter Christian crawled down a hallway to a kitchen at the rear of the building. Both the kitchen and the room adjoining it at the left were involved in fire. Fire Fighter Christian discovered a severely burned man lying on the kitchen floor and, with great difficulty, he removed him to the front stairway where he was assisted by Fire Lieutenant James A. Dailey of Ladder Company 20 in removing the man to the street.

While members of Ladder Company 20 were giving oxygen to the rescued man, they were informed that another man was at the window of an attic room. They lowered the aerial ladder from the roof to the attic window, and Fire Fighter Christian ascended the ladder and assisted the man from the building.

Fire Fighter Christian performed the rescue work under very dangerous conditions, without thought of his own safety, and the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 48 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Paul A. Christian of Ladder Company 20 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER DONALD J. LAPORTE, ENGINE COMPANY 12

At 2006 hours on October 24, 1971, the department responded to Box 332, two alarms, for a fire in the Nightingale School, Park Street, Dorchester.

While the members of Engine Company 12 were operating a 2½-inch hose line in a third-floor classroom of the school which was involved in severe heat and heavy smoke, the entire ceiling, without any warning, collapsed on three members, sending Captain Edward P. Kenny sprawling into a hallway and trapping Fire Fighters Anthony Donatella and Donald J. LaPorte under the debris. Captain Kenny returned to the room, called out to the men, but did not receive any response. He then dropped to the floor, and, upon directing his light into the debris, spotted a pair of boots worn by Fire Fighter LaPorte. He told him to come out, but Fire Fighter LaPorte said he was all right, but that Fire Fighter Donatella was trapped between the fallen ceiling and a desk top. Fire Fighter LaPorte worked feverishly in a very confined area and succeeded in freeing Fire Fighter Donatella. He then assisted him in getting out from under the debris. Both men were taken to the Boston City Hospital.

The foregoing rescue work was performed under difficult conditions at extreme personal risk to Fire Fighter LaPorte, inasmuch as he was also injured. The Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 50 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Donald J. LaPorte of Engine Company 12 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER JAMES J. OCHS, LADDER COMPANY 23

At 0407 hours on November 5, 1971, the department responded to a still alarm for a fire in the dwelling house at 24 Normandy Street, Dorchester. While en route to the fire, Ladder Company 23 received a radio call that two children were trapped in the burning building.

Fire Fighter James J. Ochs of Ladder Company 23 entered the building through a front door, crawled beneath fire which was extending out of the front room and into the hallway, and entered a bedroom adjacent to the front room, groped around on the floor and located a small child partially under a bed. He picked up the child, made his way to the bedroom window and down a short ladder to the street. The child was placed in a police ambulance and was accompanied by Fire Fighter Ochs to the hospital. During the run, the child stopped breathing and Fire Fighter Ochs administered mouth-to-mouth resuscitation with successful results. The doctors at the hospital stated that the prompt action of Fire Fighter Ochs saved the child's life.

The foregoing rescue work was accomplished before adequate ventilation had been effected or hose lines were in full operation.

Because of the fact that the work was performed under severe conditions of heat and smoke, and without regard for his own safety, the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 51 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter James J. Ochs of Ladder Company 23 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER FRANCIS P. BYRNE, AERIAL TOWER No. 2

At 1108 hours on November 16, 1971, the department responded to Box 2323 for a fire in the dwelling at 820 Beacon Street, Boston. When the apparatus arrived at the scene, fire was showing at the front windows on the second floor.

Fire Fighter Francis P. Byrne of Aerial Tower No. 2, while making his way up the stairway, encountered a man whom he led to safety. The man informed him that there was a woman trapped on the second floor. He reentered the building, ascended the front stairs to the second floor where he heard a woman screaming. Due to the intense heat and smoke, he was forced to crawl on his hands and knees along a hallway where he found a girl whom he dragged through the hallway and carried down the stairs to the street, where she was removed to the Beth Israel Hospital.

During the rescue work, Fire Fighter Byrne received burns on his hands, face, and neck. His fire coat was also burned as was his fire hat, which had fallen from his head. He was removed to the Beth Israel Hospital in a police ambulance, where he was admitted as a patient.

The rescue was effected while ventilation was being performed, before hose lines were in operation, and without the benefit of a gas mask. Because of the fact that Fire Fighter Francis P. Byrne acted without thought of his own safety and at great personal risk, the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 51 of 1971.

The Board recommends that Fire Fighter Francis P. Byrne of Aerial Tower No. 2 be awarded the John E. Fitzgerald Medal for Most Meritorious Act.

CASE OF FIRE FIGHTER HAROLD R. DONOVAN, ENGINE COMPANY 21

At 1915 hours on December 14, 1971, the department responded to an alarm from Box 1877 for a fire in the dwelling house at 86 Stoughton Street, Dorchester.

Fire Fighter Harold R. Donovan of Engine Company 21 was advancing a line up the stairway to the second floor front hallway when he heard moaning, and, in the light of the extending fire in the hallway, he found a woman lying on the floor. He crawled to her, dragged her to the stairway, and then carried her to the first floor entrance. She was removed to the Boston City Hospital suffering from smoke inhalation and burns.

It appears that Fire Fighter Donovan's quick action, in all probability, saved her life. The rescue was performed under severe conditions of smoke and fire. Inasmuch as Fire Fighter Donovan performed the rescue work at great personal risk and without thought of his own safety, the Fire Commissioner commended him highly in General Order No. 56 of 1971.

The Board recommends that the name of Fire Fighter Harold R. Donovan of Engine Company 21 be placed on the Roll of Merit.

BCH Names Mrs. Hargreaves to Executive Post

Mrs. Anne Hargreaves, president of the Massachusetts Nurses Association and a professor of nursing at Boston University for the past nineteen years, has been named executive director of nursing for the city's Department of Health and Hospitals. Mrs. Hargreaves replaces Miss Catherine Sullivan who resigned earlier this year.

When she assumes her new position July 1, Mrs. Hargreaves, forty-nine, a graduate of Boston City Hospital's School of Nursing, will oversee the nursing services at Boston City Hospital, Mattapan Hospital, Long Island Hospital, and Boston City Hospital School of Nursing, as well as community nursing programs of the Department of Health and Hospitals.

David Nelson, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the Department of Health and Hospitals, said, "Mrs. Hargreaves' credentials are outstanding. She has been a dynamic motivator in the establishment of new and relevant ideas and programs in nursing. She will bring Boston City Hospital and the Department of Health and Hospitals the most modern concepts in nursing which will help us attract and keep nurses at City Hospital as well as provide new programs in nursing care in other areas of the department.

"The Trustees have agreed to support Mrs. Hargreaves fully so that she can accomplish these goals for the Department of Health and Hospitals," Mr. Nelson added.

Mrs. Hargreaves is a well-known personality in the field of nursing. She has appeared on television and radio programs in discussions regarding the role of nursing in Massachusetts and throughout the world.

Besides her training at Boston City Hospital's School of Nursing, Mrs. Hargreaves received a B.S. in Nursing Education from Boston University in 1951 and in 1953 an M.S. in Psychiatric Nursing. In 1971, she received a certificate in Community Mental Health from Harvard Medical School's Laboratory of Community Psychiatry. She is a doctoral candidate at Boston University's School of Education in Guidance and Counseling in Higher Education.

In 1944, after her graduation from Boston City Hospital, Mrs. Hargreaves served with the United States Army Nurses Corps at the 135th Evacuation Hospital in the European Theatre where she received a battle star and unit citation. In 1946, she became educational director of Boston State Hospital and in 1951, director of nursing at Ring Sanatorium, Arlington, Mass. She began teaching at Boston University in 1953.

DEDICATION CEREMONIES TO HONOR LATE "BILL" KERR

A ceremony dedicating a plaque to the late "Bill" Kerr, senior legal assistant and researchist for the City of Boston for thirty-two years, will take place in the City Council Chamber on Monday, June 12, at 10 A.M. (Bill passed away on New Year's Eve, 1971.) Council President Gabriel F. Piemonte has graciously consented that the Chamber be used for the dedication.

Mayor White, along with Corporation Counsel Herbert P. Gleason and Judge Frank Murray, will speak. Judge Murray was Corporation Counsel from November 16, 1943, to June 1, 1945, and therefore knew Bill Kerr. He was an Associate Justice of the Massachusetts Superior Court from June 24, 1946, to April 15, 1967, and has been in the United States District Court since April 21, 1967.

Anyone in City Hall who can be spared from his duties during the brief ceremony is welcome to attend.

William H. Kerr, 1911-1971.

For thirty-two years Counselor, Draftsman, Advocate, and Conscience of the City of Boston.

"Thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws, and shalt show them the way wherein they must walk, and the work that they must do." Exodus 18 : 20.

Mrs. Hargreaves has served as a consultant to numerous institutions, including Boston State Hospital, Massachusetts Mental Health Center, Medfield State Hospital, Boston's Veterans' Administration, the Boston school system, and Catherine Laboure School of Nursing; also, Emory University, University of Pittsburgh, University of Vermont, Alaska Methodist University, and the Catholic University of Puerto Rico. She is presently a visiting assistant at Harvard Medical School's Laboratory of Community Psychiatry.

Mrs. Hargreaves has authored some twelve papers on nursing and is listed in the Who Is Who in American Women, Community Leaders in America, and the National Register of Prominent Americans and International Notables.

Besides her position as president of the Massachusetts Nurses Association, Mrs. Hargreaves is on the advisory council of the American Nurses Association, the Massachusetts Master Planning Committee in Nursing Education and is co-chairman of the Joint Practice Commission of the Massachusetts Nurses Association and the Massachusetts Medical Society, dealing with areas of joint practice between nurses and physicians and establishing new doctor-nurse relationships and responsibilities.

Mrs. Hargreaves said her new position "will provide the opportunity for a system approach to the delivery of quality health care for the people of Boston. It is essential that there be planning with the people of the community who are recipients of the services we provide," she said. "I look forward to working with what I have witnessed to be a very consumer-oriented Board of Trustees who obviously care about their constituents."

Mrs. Hargreaves said she is concerned about "keeping people well as well as taking care of sick people. Increasingly, nurses will take a major leadership role in new patterns of delivery of health services including programs of preventive medicine and primary care.

"The Department of Health and Hospitals has many fine nurses and I look forward to working with them and attracting others," Mrs. Hargreaves said.

"My goal is to provide an atmosphere in which Boston City Hospital nurses find their career meaningful and in which ancillary support relieves them of nonnursing functions. When this is achieved at Boston City Hospital, I feel the hospital will have no trouble attracting and keeping nurses."

Mrs. Hargreaves was born and raised in Boston and now resides in Dedham with her husband, Edward, and their two sons.

"OLD IRONSIDES" ADDED TO FREEDOM TRAIL

"'Old Ironsides' is now official site number 16 on the Freedom Trail," former Senator Leverett Saltonstall, president, announced at the annual meeting of the Freedom Trail Foundation held recently at the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

"The mile-and-a-half walking tour, which begins on the Boston Common, has been extended to the U.S.S. Constitution in the Boston Naval Shipyard, a two-and-a-half mile combined walking and riding tour made possible by the MBTA Freedom Trail shuttle bus which was so successful last season," Mr. Saltonstall said.

Installed at the meeting were Mr. Saltonstall, president; Richard A. Berenson, vice president and treasurer; Paul Revere, Jr., clerk, and Edward L. LaVine, assistant clerk.

Mayor White was named chairman of the board and Robert F. Friedmann, vice chairman.

Mr. Berenson told the members that a marker monument for the Boston Massacre site is being built out of the line of traffic to replace the cobblestone circle which was dangerously located in the intersection below the Old State House on Washington Street.

Mr. Friedmann reported a half million newly designed official Freedom Trail brochures have been financed by contributions from Boston business firms and will soon be off the press.

Spokesmen for the commissioners of the Public Works, Parks, and Traffic Departments said the painting and rebricking of the red guideline on the sidewalks has begun, the Central Burying Ground and the Granary Burying Ground are being refurbished, and the sixteen markers for the sites are being repainted.

George Gulley, assistant superintendent, surface line, MBTA, said there will be new air-conditioned, Freedom Trail shuttle buses this year. The schedule begins June 19 and will continue through the tourist season.

Our Flag, May It Ever Wave.

I swing before your eyes as a bright gleam of color, a symbol of yourself, the pictured suggestion of that which makes this Nation. My stars and my stripes are your dream and your labors. They are bright with cheer, brilliant with courage, firm with faith, because you have made them so out of your hearts. This is the real meaning of old glory, the banner of the United States; for the flag is but a symbol of the Nation. Whatever the flag to which you give allegiance, you are, in a very real sense, one of its makers, as you are of the Nation for which it stands.

FREE PUBLIC TRANSIT?

Centuries ago, the emperor fiddled while Rome burned. Today there's another twist. A City Hall official in Rome remarked recently, "If we don't do something soon, Rome will die of traffic thrombosis." So will other cities of the world.

The air pollution from cars cramming into Rome is making its ancient marble crumble and damaging the lungs of its residents. As a result, Rome is turning to public transit as one possible solution.

The traffic commissioner in Rome has proposed that bus and streetcar fares be abolished permanently during the morning and evening rush hours. In January, the city offered free fares in a nine-day experiment. During those days, the number of passengers increased by fifty percent. And of 14,000 passengers who filled in questionnaires, eleven percent said they had left their cars at home to try the no-fare system.

Free public transit is an idea that's being considered elsewhere. The Bronx Borough President in New York City has urged free public transit. In Chicago, transit authorities are considering a proposal to offer free bus service around the Loop as a possible first step to eliminating fares throughout the city. The City Council in Sacramento, California, has endorsed a plan for free public transit. And a town in the southern part of the state, Commerce, has been providing free bus service since 1962.

Free public transit may or may not sweep the country. But encouraging the use of public transit as one way to fight air pollution is an approach that is getting more and more deserved attention.

To find out more about ways to join the fight against air pollution, visit your local tuberculosis and respiratory disease association. And take public transit when you do.

MUSEUM OF SCIENCE AWARDS

At the annual meeting of the Corporation of the Museum of Science recently, five employees were recognized for their long-standing service to the institution.

Those receiving awards were Clyde W. Albee of Revere, thirty-five years; James F. Moore of Norwell, twenty years; Mary L. Morgan of Wollaston, fifteen years; Kinsman Lyon of Melrose, fifteen years; and William Germain of Arlington, retiring after ten years.

Mr. Albee, who has been with the Museum longer than any other employee, is chief cabinetmaker. In his career, his creations have included a traveling planetarium, the "world's largest kaleidoscope," and a scale model of Leonardo da Vinci's fifteenth century water pump.

Mr. Moore, the Museum's art director, supervises the design and construction of all the exhibits. Currently, he is involved in furnishing the 78,000 square feet of exhibit area provided by the soon-to-be-opened west wing.

Miss Morgan, assistant director of development, is currently engaged in obtaining the funds necessary to furnish and maintain the mammoth new wing.

Mr. Lyon is the supervisor of the maintenance and repair division of the buildings and grounds department. A recognized authority on reptiles, he also cares for the Museum's poisonous snakes.

Mr. Germain, a retiring guard at the Museum, also served as assistant head guard for two years. His most frequent post was at the Planetarium entrance, collecting tickets and directing visitors into the theatre.

NEW APPOINTMENT

Mayor Kevin White on May 31 announced that Superintendent-in-Chief William Taylor, a thirty-two-year veteran of the Boston Police Department, will serve as acting commissioner.

The appointment was effective at midnight May 31, with the expiration of the term of Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara.

"Superintendent Taylor is no stranger to the administrative operations of the Police Department, and I have the utmost confidence in his ability to direct the department," Mayor White said.

Acting Commissioner Taylor, fifty-nine, of West Roxbury, will serve until a permanent commissioner is appointed, probably about September 1, the Mayor said.

BATTLE OF BUNKER HILL JUNE 17, 1775

When General Washington was told that there had been a battle at Bunker Hill he asked: "Did the militia fight?" On being told that they fought he remarked: "Then the liberties of the country are safe." By that one sentence Washington showed that he realized the importance of the Battle of Bunker Hill, the first real battle of the American Revolution. This famous battle was fought on June 17, 1775, before Washington took command of the Army.

The colonial forces had been holding the British at bay in Boston, and heard that the enemy was planning to occupy some of the hills about the city. On the night of June 16, Colonel Prescott and his men started out to prevent this by occupying Bunker Hill, but they changed their plans and fortified Breed's Hill instead. On the morning of June 17, the British were amazed to see trenches crowning the hill. The vessels in the harbor immediately began bombarding the fortification, and later in the day the British troops attacked it. Twice they advanced to the attack. All was silent as they marched up the hill, for General Putnam had given the command: "Don't fire until you see the whites of their eyes!" When they were within a few yards of the fortifications, a sheet of flame swept down the hill. The men in the front ranks were mowed down and the others beat a hasty retreat. A third time the British charged. This time nothing happened for the powder of the colonial forces was exhausted. The patriots fought with clubbed muskets, but were forced to retreat to Bunker Hill, leaving the battlefield in the hands of the British.

Bunker Hill . . .

It was a victory which was dearly bought, however, for the British had lost 226 men killed and 828 wounded, while the loss of the Americans had been 145 killed and 304 wounded. Nathaniel Greene said, "I wish we could sell them another hill at the same price." Today a granite shaft 221 feet high stands near the spot where the gallant General Warren fell just as the retreat began. The cornerstone of this "Bunker Hill monument" was laid by Lafayette in 1825, the fiftieth anniversary of the battle. The monument was dedicated in 1843, with an oration by Daniel Webster.

MAYOR DEDICATES DOCK SQUARE BUILDING

The One Dock Square Building, one of the first Boston Redevelopment Authority-owned buildings to be rehabilitated as part of the Waterfront Urban Renewal Project, was dedicated on May 23 by Mayor Kevin White and Robert T. Kenney, Director of the BRA.

As part of the dedication ceremony, the Mayor unveiled a plaque identifying the site as the former residence of William Dawes, who, along with Paul Revere, helped warn the Boston countryside that the British were coming.

The building, which has been purchased by its developer, Samuel Mintz, is located at 16-18 North Street, across from Faneuil Hall. It is five stories high, with a penthouse and contains over 15,000 square feet of floor space.

In his remarks at the dedication ceremony, Mayor White said, "We are dedicating a rehabilitated building that serves as an example of urban renewal that seeks to preserve what is best from the past and adapting it to the future."

BRA Director Robert T. Kenney said a similar rehabilitation project is scheduled to start soon on 24-26 North Street.

"These two rehabilitation projects on Dock square and the restoration planned for North and South Market Streets will culminate in 1975, when this entire area serves as the focal point of Boston 200, Boston's bicentennial observance," Mr. Kenney said.

The ground floor and lower level of the building is occupied by Scanbo Restaurant and Cocktail Lounge. The restaurant, which specializes in Scandinavian cuisine, accommodates 115 and the lounge about the same number.

The Federal Home Loan Bank of Boston occupies the second, third, and fourth floors of the building. The top floor and penthouse contains offices of the Pard Team, architects and planners. Mr. Mintz is president of the firm.

Also attending the dedication ceremony were the Boston consuls of Sweden, Denmark, Norway, and Finland — all of whom took part in a ceremony raising their national flags in front of Scanbo.

The building, formerly used as a rendering plant, was first advertised by the BRA for development in 1969. At the time it was a hollow shell. Mr. Mintz was chosen as tentative developer for the rehabilitation project soon after, and he purchased the building once the BRA viewed his working drawings and designated him developer for One Dock Square.

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums,
A flash of colour beneath the sky;*

Hats Off!

The flag is passing by!

*Blue and crimson and white it shines,
Over the steel-tipped, ordered lines.*

Hats Off!

*The colours before us fly;
But more than the flag is passing by.*

*Sea-fights and land-fights, grim and great,
Fought to make and to save the State;
Weary marches and sinking Ships;
Cheers of victory on dying lips.*

*Days of plenty and years of peace;
March of a strong Land's swift increase;
Equal justice, right and law,
Stately honour and reverent awe.*

*Sign of a nation great and strong
To ward her people from foreign wrong;
Pride and glory and honour, — all
Live in the colours to stand or fall.*

Hats Off!

*Along the street there comes
A blare of bugles, a ruffle of drums;
And loyal hearts are beating high;*

Hats Off!

The flag is passing by!

— HENRY HOLCOMB BENNETT.

Those employees who work Friday may be permitted to take the following Monday off. Those employees in this category who cannot be spared on either Friday or Monday may be paid an additional day's pay on a straight-time basis.

EDWARD T. SULLIVAN,

CONSTRUCTION STARTED FOR MULTISERVICE CENTER

Mayor Kevin White broke ground on June 3 for the new $2 million Dorchester House Multiservice Center on Dorchester Avenue. The ceremonies started at 1 p.m.

The ground breaking represents the culmination of many months of effort by a Dorchester residents' group, the Determined People of Dorchester, and the Mayor's Office to bring the much-needed center to the area.

Situated on a two-acre site between Ellet and Leedsville Streets on Dorchester Avenue, the new center will house an indoor swimming pool, gymnasium, health center, head start/day care center, teen-age drop-in center, senior citizens lounge, community meeting rooms, children's cultural enrichment programs, job counseling, and neighborhood aid programs.

The facility will be a true community center, integrating public and private social facilities under a central administration. The facility will be administered by the Federated Dorchester Neighborhood Houses, a nonprofit committee of four Dorchester neighborhood settlement houses.

The city will fund construction of the pool and health center and the staffing of the pool at an estimated cost of $800,000. The city also successfully petitioned the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development for a grant of $1 million. Additional monies were raised through public contributions.

Prior to the ground breaking, the Determined People of Dorchester held a celebration including a youth field day and cookout to celebrate the beginning of construction.

BCH

Graduation exercises were held Friday, May 19, for students of an unusual training program at Boston City Hospital.

For three months, a group of seven nurses have received intensive training in a variety of medical techniques and related health care areas designed to expand their role in the health care delivery system.

According to Dr. William E. Dudley, II, course director for the Nurse Practitioner Training Program, who was interviewed along with some students at Boston City Hospital recently, this project arose from a need to increase the amount of follow-up medical care available to nursing home patients.

"While our emphasis is on adult medicine and specifically geriatrics, we can however, see the nurse practitioner in a more general supportive role on the health care team.

"Whether it be in nursing homes, clinics, or in physicians' offices, the ability of these nurses to perform even more complex procedures than nurses have been traditionally able to do, will result in relieving the strain on the doctor and increase the quality and amount of care available."

The project, directed by Dr. Roger G. Mark, Chief of the Bio-Medical Engineering Laboratory at Boston City Hospital, was federally funded by the Tri-State Regional Medical Program. It included study in the principles of physical diagnosis, pathophysiology of certain common diseases, pharmacology, necessary laboratory techniques, and extensive clinical practice.

The specially trained nurse practitioners can serve as the "front end" of a health care system, utilizing a two-way communication system with hospital-based physicians. They could also have the back-up services of all other hospital departments.

One of the students, Linda Tull of Jamaica Plain, will continue in the Boston City Hospital Outpatient Department. "I'm looking forward to being even more involved in patient care than before," she said. She added that her fellow Outpatient Department workers "have been very encouraging." Linda Tull will be working in several of the Outpatient Department's specialty clinics.

Another student, Anne Ripley, had been an instructor in a nursing school at another Boston hospital. "I found out about this course, and believing it to be the best in the city, I applied."

She explained that she felt a communication gap between nurses and physicians. This gap has been narrowed with her increased knowledge and skills, she said.

"All the doctors we've worked with have been most encouraging and supportive."

Dr. Dudley, a Fellow in Diabetes and Metabolism in Boston City Hospital's Thorndike Laboratory, added that the training program has also received "enthusiastic support" from nursing associations.

For any nursing school graduates interested in becoming nurse practitioners, Dr. Dudley urged that they get nursing experience first. "Some of the training our students have just received could be incorporated in nursing schools, but any practice of this training should be delayed until experience in traditional nursing."

Other students who graduated from Boston City Hospital's Nurse Practitioner Training Program included Nancy Draugsvold, Jamaica Plain, who will work at the OEO Family Life Center in Dorchester; Eugenia Nesbitt, Cambridge, and Patricia Feeley, Jamaica Plain, who will work for the Visiting Nurse Association in conjunction with community physicians; Doris Nolan, Milton, and Irene Trayer, Framingham, both of whom will join Anne Ripley in Boston City Hospital in its nursing home care program.

"OLD IRONSIDES" 175TH ANNIVERSARY

A special cacheted envelope commemorating the 175th anniversary of the U.S.S. Constitution, "Old Ironsides," will be on sale June 14, 1972, at all offices in the Boston Postal District, according to an announcement by Postmaster George K. Walker.

On this day the historic frigate will once again put to sea. She will be turned around in Boston harbor in order to balance the effects of weather on her masts and rigging.

There will be participants from every state of the Union at the Turnaround Ceremony.

Collectors desiring the cacheted envelopes embossed with a full color reproduction of "Old Ironsides," affixed with an 8-cent flag stamp, may purchase them at the local post office or submit a request to the Postmaster, U.S.S. Constitution Cachet, Boston, Mass. 02109. The price will be 35 cents each or three for $1.

The cancellation die will read U.S.S. Constitution — 175th Anniversary — 1797-1972.

The general bids shall be completely filled in, signed, enclosed in an envelope, sealed, and plainly marked with the description of the work to be done, and accompanied by a bid deposit in the form of cash or a certified check, or a treasurer's or cashier's check, issued by a responsible bank or trust company, payable to the City of Boston, in the sum of $850. The general bids shall be filed before the time stated above for the opening of the general bids.

No general bid may be withdrawn after the time limit for filing bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded) from the opening of the bids.

The rate per hour of the wages to be paid to mechanics, teamsters, chauffeurs, and laborers in the work to be performed shall not be less than the rate of wages determined for this work by the Commissioner of Labor and Industries of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts (Ter. Ed.), chapter 149, section 26, as amended.

The attention of all bidders is specifically directed to the equal employment opportunity section of the specifications and the obligation of the contractor and all subcontractors to take affirmative action in connection with employment practices throughout the work.

Plans and specifications and other contract documents will be available on and after Tuesday, June 13, 1972, at the above office of the Awarding Authority, Room 812, Boston City Hall, upon deposit of a certified check, payable to the City of Boston, for $25 per set of plans and specifications. The full amount of the deposit will be refunded upon return of all documents in good condition, within thirty days after the opening of general bids (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded).

A performance bond, and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority and each in the sum of 100 percent of the contract price, will be required of the successful general bidder.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the public interest so to do. The Awarding Authority also reserves the right to reject any subbid if it determines that such subbid does not represent the subbid of a person competent to perform the work as specified or that less than three such subbids were received and that the prices are not reasonable for acceptance without further competition.

BRA Plans Senior Citizens Apartments in Fenway

A proposal to build 378 apartments for senior citizens in the Fenway received preliminary approval recently from the Boston Redevelopment Authority.

The $12.5 million development, proposed by the State Street Development Company of Boston, is planned for the eastern corner of the intersection of Massachusetts and Huntington Avenues. The thirty-story tower will provide one level of parking below grade for about thirty cars, commercial and lobby space at ground level, one floor of community and tenant facilities, and twenty-seven floors of apartments, including 297 one-bedroom and eighty-one two-bedroom units.

Financing will be arranged through the Federal 236 Low- and Moderate- Income Housing Program, with federal rent supplements expected for 60 percent of the apartments.

Following the Fenway urban renewal plan, the structure, called Symphony Plaza Apartments, will be built near St. Botolph Street, permitting construction of a public plaza opposite Horticultural Hall. The plaza will serve pedestrians by providing sunny and shaded sitting areas, arcades at the base of the building, and a new entrance to the MBTA's Symphony Station.

The development site, now vacant and ready for construction, is owned by the BRA and the Church Realty Trust, the development branch of the Christian Science Church.

A second stage of the development, on the other side of Massachusetts Avenue, has also been proposed by the developer. It would result in a complementary tower plus additional plaza area, and would cost another $12.5 million. The BRA Board voted to postpone a decision on this phase until Phase I receives federal financing approval.

Two previous housing proposals for the site made over the past few years, including both sides of Massachusetts Avenue and an additional piece of land as well, had been found financially unworkable. The present proposal, however, breaks the development site into segments that can be more easily financed and presents fewer construction problems.

The developer has ninety days in which to complete preliminary designs, rent and construction schedules, and financing arrangements.

ART EXHIBIT AT MUSEUM OF SCIENCE

More than one hundred examples of technical art from across the United States and Canada are on display now through July 23 at Boston's Museum of Science.

Sponsored by the Technical Art Group of the Society for Technical Communication, Boston Chapter, this Ninth Annual Technical Art Exhibit shows how artistic talent is applied to communications in commercial, industrial, scientific, and medical fields.

Entries include assembly drawings, pictorial and promotional art, technical graphics, and industrial/scientific photography.

More than twenty-five awards including three best-of-show prizes were presented June 7 at a banquet at the Museum. The winners will be invited to exhibit entries in the Twentieth Annual International Technical Communications Conference in Houston, Texas, next year.

Robert Cipriani of Gunn Associates, Boston, won for "best graphic" of the show. The "best pictorial" prize was awarded to Charles O. Bennett of Martin Marietta Corporation, Denver, Colorado. Winner for the "best technical" entry was Athony Langdon of Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd., Ontario.

Judges for the show were Robert Levey, Editor of the Boston Globe Sunday Magazine; Jerome T. Glickman, Director of Biocommunications at the Boston University School of Medicine; and Joseph Frassica, Vice President of Production for Michael John Associates, New York.

Design work for the show itself, including program, posters, and promotional materials, was handled by Robert E. Ward of Raytheon Company.

Winning works and other entries are on display in Coolidge and Friend Galleries at the Science Museum.

"TINY TOTS" GRADUATION

The 1972 participants of the "Tiny Tots" Morning Play Program sponsored by the Boston Parks and Recreation Department graduated at 10 A.M. to 12 noon on the following dates, at the municipal buildings listed:

Monday, June 12 — Charlestown and Columbia Road.

Wednesday, June 14 — Brighton and Roslindale.

These ceremonies marked the end of a nine-month program whose aim is to safeguard the health and promote the physical, mental, social, and emotional development of those children enrolled. Mrs. Helen Dunn, director of the Tiny Tots Program since its inception three years ago, states that the purpose of this program is for children, under supervision, to learn the fundamentals of playing and sharing with other children and to help them develop good habits, strong bodies, alert minds, and good relationships with other people.

Registration for this highly successful program will be held during the week of June 19. Although the program will begin in October it is necessary to register now. This program is free for all Boston children ages 3 to 5. Applications for registration may be obtained at the following recreation centers from 9:30 A.M. to 12 noon:

Hyde Park, 1179 River Street, Hyde Park, Monday through Friday.

Charlestown, 112 Bunker Hill Street, Charlestown, Monday through Friday.

Columbia Road, 500 Columbia Road, Dorchester, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Friday.

ENJOY A FREEDOM TRAIL BUS RIDE

The popular Freedom Trail bus route operating from the Boston Common to the Navy Yard in Charlestown will begin operation for the second summer on Monday, June 19, 1972, the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) announced recently.

The service will operate Monday through Friday only, leaving Tremont and West Streets at Boston Common at 10 A.M., 10:30 A.M., 11 A.M., and then every twenty minutes until 3:40 P.M. From the Navy Yard, home berth of "Old Ironsides," buses will leave at 10:30 A.M., 11 A.M., 11:30 A.M., and then every twenty minutes until 4:10 P.M.

Freedom Trail buses will make all regular bus stops on the route with the addition of special Freedom Trail stops at Congress and State Streets, near the Old State House and the site of the Boston Massacre; St. Stephen's Church on Hanover Street, designed by Bulfinch; "Old Ironsides"; near the Old North Church, scene of Paul Revere's signaling exploit; and at Tremont and School Streets, site of King's Chapel.

The Freedom Trail bus became so popular last year that three buses are needed to accommodate the riders. Further information about the Freedom Trail as well as MBTA system route maps may be obtained at the Freedom Trail Information Booth on Boston Common.

MODEL CITIES PROGRAM PROVIDES MULTISERVICES

Medical and social services are provided under one roof by one Model Cities program at Family Life Centers, according to the May issue of Challenge.

Challenge is the official monthly publication of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, serving as a forum for the exchange of ideas and innovations in the housing and related fields.

Family Life Centers in three of Boston's model neighborhood areas offer medical and social services to deal with the family as a unit close to home.

The Challenge article, "Family Life Center," reports this comprehensive approach reduces the per capita cost and increases the quality of services.

Health services of the Family Life Centers are restricted to primary service for ambulatory health care. The centers do not duplicate expensive specialties of hospitals. Two of the centers have affiliation contracts with hospitals. The third center is temporarily making referrals to various hospitals, while making plans for formal affiliation with local hospitals.

The Family Life Centers were planned and created through the efforts of the model neighborhood residents. The Family Life Center Policy Committee, a board of six Model Cities professionals and seven residents of the community, are empowered to initiate, approve, or veto any policy of the center.

One of the most innovative and potentially important services at the centers is early detection of learning disabilities. The centers' screening processes detect hearing and speech defects and follow up by arranging therapy.

The centers are viewed as an urban laboratory for the city, demonstrating that the present crisis-oriented system treats symptoms rather than the whole person. The comprehensive program developed by the Family Life Centers can provide communities better distribution of health services and a more effective preventative system, Challenge reports.

Plans for a three-month, $20,000 study to identify new priorities in urban renewal and to map future community development were announced jointly on June 7 by the BRA and the Citizens Planning and Housing Association.

Funds for the study will come from grants to the CPHA from Boston area foundations and it will concentrate on analyzing new federal guidelines and revenue sharing in housing programs.

The study will be under the overall direction of John Stainton, former head of the New York State Urban Development Corporation. Staff assistance will be furnished by the BRA, Municipal Research Bureau, Boston Finance Commission, and the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce and Real Estate Board.

Sunset Series will be produced by George Davis, Summerthing executive producer, who said that ticket prices will remain at $2.50 for the 1972 concerts.

In addition to Tom Rush and Bill Withers on June 19, the Sunset lineup includes the Mahavishnu Orchestra with John McLaughlin and Loggins and Messina on June 21; Smoki Robinson and the Miracles plus Labelle on June 26; Arlo Guthrie with "Doc" Watson and Son on June 28; Seatrain, Billy Preston and Strawbs on July 2; Association and Jackie DeShannon on July 5; Lou Rawls and Donny Hathaway on July 10; Deep Purple, Malo, and Curved Air on July 12; Kris Kristofferson and Rita Coolidge on July 17; the Buddy Miles Band and Merry Clayton on July 19; Curtis Mayfield plus Dennis Coffey and the Detroit Guitar Band on July 24; B. The Sunset concerts are produced by The Boston Foundation, Inc., at no cost to the city. Under its arrangement with Falstaff, Summerthing will receive 10 percent of the gross receipts from each concert plus any net profit at the end of the series to help put on its free activities throughout Boston.

Tickets may be purchased at the Sunset Series ticket trailer adjacent to the Park Street MBTA station on Boston Common open daily Monday through Saturday from 10 A.M. to 6 P.M. For other ticket outlets, call 423-3608.

NEW ESSEX STATION ENTRANCE OPENED

The Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority (MBTA) has opened to the public the new Essex Station entrance at the relocated corner of Washington and Boylston Streets.

Built of stainless steel and glass, the new entrance to southbound orange line trains features a roll-up security door, a heated entrance slab, an upper stairway with rubber treads and vinyl/stainless handrails, and both A.C. and D.C. lighting. A new escalator and stairway passageway, installed from the station lobby level to the first landing, features glazed brick walls, ceiling-mounted lighting and, on the stairs, rubber treads and handrails.

Modernization of the station lobby area consisted of eliminating four columns and replacing them with two and installing new concrete flooring, glazed brick walls, procelain map panels and identification bands, a tectum hung ceiling with flush mounted lighting, and a new fare collection layout.

A 54-foot platform extension, built to accommodate new longer rolling stock the Authority proposes to purchase, is closed off to the public.

The Essex southbound entrance was relocated to permit the City of Boston to realign Boylston Street to opposite Essex Street under the Boston Redevelopment Authority's Central Business District Project. The BRA reimbursed the MBTA $788,000 or 69 percent of the $1,137,000 cost of the modernization project.

BOARDING-UP PROGRAM STARTED

Eight carpenter trainees have been hired by the Boston Model City Program to board up vacant buildings in Boston's Model Neighborhood. The eight, all Model Neighborhood residents, were hired under the provisions of the federal Emergency Employment Act which is administered by the City of Boston. The men are assigned to work with the United Community Construction Workers (UCCW), a local group under contract with Model Cities to train people in the construction trades.

The Boarding-up Program is designed to halt the decline of housing conditions in the Model Neighborhood until programs for renovation can be developed. Boarding-up of doors and windows with plywood reduces the fire and physical injury hazards created by the presence of vacant buildings in a community.

In an effort to save as many existing buildings as possible for rehabilitation, Model City staff have surveyed vacant buildings in the area to identify those which can be rehabilitated at a reasonable cost.

Vacant buildings that are beyond rehabilitation are reported to the city Building Department for demolition. Through the Building Department the city has cooperated with Model Cities by demolishing over 300 unsafe structures in the Model Neighborhood in the past two years.

Under the Boarding-up Program, Model Cities purchases supplies and pays for administrative overhead. The trainees, who began work on March 15, get classroom instruction in general carpentry skills. Their boarding-up work is supervised by a fully qualified carpenter hired by U.C.C.W.

It is expected that after four to six months of on-the-job training the men will be hired by local contractors as advanced trainees. At that time they would be eligible to enter the U.C.C.W. Program to be trained to perform as carpenters at journeyman level.

Since the Boarding-up Program began, ten buildings have been completed. By summer it is expected that buildings will be finished at the rate of four a week. It is hoped that the program will continue for the duration of the Emergency Employment Act, possibly until December of 1973.

GROUND-BREAKING CEREMONIES AT WASHINGTON PARK

Ground-breaking ceremonies were held on June 12 in the Washington Park renewal project for Taurus Apartments—thirty-eight apartments for low- and moderate-income families.

Developer and contractor for the $867,000 development is the Cruz Building Corporation of Washington Park.

The project, consisting of a four-story brick building housing nineteen one-bedroom and nineteen two-bedroom apartments, is on Humboldt Avenue at Wyoming Street, across from the William Monroe Trotter School.

The housing is financed through the Massachusetts Housing Finance Agency (MHFA) with additional subsidy to achieve low rentals through the Federal Section 236 Housing Program. In accordance with MHFA regulations, 25 percent of the apartments will be made available to low-income families through federal leased housing or rent supplement programs.

The New England Merchants National Bank provided the construction guarantee. Additional assistance in obtaining financing was given by the Contractors Association of Boston.

Each ground floor apartment in Taurus Apartments is designed with an enclosed patio, while all upper story apartments will have balconies. Each of the four floors will also incorporate storage space for tenant use. The outdoor area surrounding the housing will be landscaped, with parking for thirty-five cars.

Architect for Taurus Apartments is Richard H. Walwood.

Representatives for a number of agencies and community groups attended the ground breaking, including Robert T. Kenney, Director of the Boston Redevelopment Authority; M. Daniel Richardson, Regional Director for the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development; and Stanley Chen, Executive Director of the Contractors Association of Boston.

Construction is expected to be completed in twelve months.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES HELD FOR LATE "BILL" KERR

Remarks of Judge Frank J. Murray, United States District Court, at the memorial exercises for William H. Kerr in the City Council Chamber, June 12, 1972:

It is with great pleasure that I received the kind invitation of the Mayor and Corporation Counsel to be present at these exercises.

I am here by favor of that invitation, and indeed honored to add a few brief words to those already given with eloquence and feeling.

As I stand at this podium, I claim only the privilege of a former colleague and friend, a privilege that could equally be claimed by so many of you here, to join in paying tribute to a simple man who fashioned an extraordinary career of public service measured by his love and devotion to this city and to her countless citizens.

Billy Kerr and I entered the Law Department under the same mayor, the late revered Maurice J. Tobin. Billy's service began in 1939, and I followed two years later.

It is now almost a generation since I left the office of Corporation Counsel. He terminated his unparalleled career by retirement a little more than six months ago.

Throughout those years, it is likely that everyone in the Law Department, and many at City Hall, called him "Bill" or "Billy" Kerr, as we did thirty years ago; and always with genuine admiration and respect for the steady and silent qualities of his personality that made him a legendary figure in our time.

I suspect that the sensitive shyness and reserve that clung to him all through those years would have moved him to look upon this memorial with disapproval. He would have found these exercises unnecessary and undeserving of one who did only his duty.

He was selfless, so far as personal glory or distinction or profit was concerned. It was perfection, not distinction or renown, that allured him to the daily performance of his tasks.

His greatest mental gifts, as I observed him in the Law Department and later from the Superior Court bench, were (1) the power to assemble facts exhaustively researched (2) the marshaling of his contentions in due order, and (3) the stating of his conclusions with terseness and soundness, so that they sank deeply into minds that listened.

Despite his shyness, once he set his course of action on behalf of the public interest, men could not frighten or deceive or cajole him.

He could be aloof to the special pleader, but men in the mass never failed to evoke his warmth and soften his spirit.

His industry was tireless. Characteristically, after leaving the hospital for the last time, he turned directly to the task he had begun of codification of statutes pertaining to the city, as Corporation Counsel Gleason has already adverted, in a last effort to complete the work.
